1. PURPOSE

- 1.1 This procurement will source legal services to support the Authority to prepare and negotiate a new contract with The Royal Mint for the provision of circulating and commemorative coins.
- 1.2 The Authority is the issuing authority for UK coinage. Coins are procured through the UK Coin Contract (UKCC) with The Royal Mint (TRM). The UKCC will expire on 31st December 2017 and a project has been established to replace the existing UKCC.
- 1.3 Coins are an essential part of the economy. Along with notes, they are regularly used as a means to transact, cash payments make up 49% of all payments (by volume rather than value). Coins are usually preferred to banknotes in the lower denominations because they are more robust and have a much longer lifespan. This is important as they usually change hands much more frequently than notes. However, at higher denominations, notes are also still important as they are seen as more convenient as they are lighter to carry. A lack of readily available cash as a means of transaction could have serious implications for the economy.

2. BACKGROUND TO THE CONTRACTING AUTHORITY

- 2.1 As the United Kingdom's economics and finance ministry, the Authority's focus is on maintaining control over public spending, setting the direction of the UK's economic policy and working to achieve strong and sustainable economic growth. The Authority is also the issuing authority for UK coinage.

3. BACKGROUND TO REQUIREMENT/OVERVIEW OF REQUIREMENT

- 3.1 The current UKCC, which expires on 31st December 2017, is managed by the REDACTED within the Authority. REDACTED
- 3.2 Procuring a new UKCC will maintain the Authority's position as the issuing authority for coinage. It will give the Authority the opportunity to review the current structure of the contract and the costs within it to ensure that we maintain and, where possible, improve value for money when buying the UK's coins.

Existing Arrangements

- 3.3 The current UKCC was the first contract with TRM to procure the UK's coins. The contract was signed in September 2009 and came into force on 31st December 2009. The contract was extended in 2014 and expires with no option of further extensions on 31st December 2017. The primary deliverable of the contract is the provision of UK circulating coins. However, the scope of the contract also includes the licence for manufacturing commemorative coins as well as covering a range of recurring services, including advice on designs of UK coins and verifying the quality of the coins through the annual Trial of the Pyx; and ad hoc services including advising on the structure and specification of UK coinage.
- 3.4 TRM, working closely with the wholesale cash industry, also act as the Authority's agent in determining the forecast for the number of coins required. Before the beginning of every financial year an initial Service Level Agreement (SLA) for the number of coins required is produced and signed off by both the Authority and TRM. This is then reviewed on a quarterly basis due to changes in demand and inaccuracies in forecasting.
- 3.5 The contract requires that TRM store coins securely in advance of them leaving the factory premises. The contract does not cover the delivery of the coin to wholesale cash centres, but TRM helps arrange this process with support from cash centres.

- 3.6 Once the coins have been purchased by the cash centres, TRM manage the flow of seigniorage income (the government's income from issuing coinage) into the Consolidated Fund (the UK Exchequer's main bank account). In other words the wholesale cash centres pay TRM for the face value of the coin, and TRM arrange for this income to then be transferred directly to the UK Exchequer. This payment is managed separately from the payments the Authority make to TRM for manufacturing the coin, for which the Authority is invoiced monthly.
- 3.7 TRM is a limited company and a 100% owned subsidiary of the Royal Mint Trading Fund, an Authority trading fund established by legislation. As a business, TRM is considered to be the world's leading export mint, supplying coins and blank coins to around 60 countries every year. In 2015/16 UK circulating coin made up c.25% of the business income, overseas circulation made up c.20%, commemorative coins accounted for c.44% and bullion accounted for c.11%.
- 3.8 As the Authority is also the sole shareholder of TRM, the project will need to ensure value for money is achieved across government and not just from the customer perspective.

The secondee will at no time during the secondment be an employee of the Client. Nothing in this agreement shall create or be construed as creating any relationship of employer and employee between the Client and the secondee.
- 4.2. The secondee shall carry out all reasonable instructions given by the Client during the secondment.
- 4.3. Notwithstanding paragraph 4.1 above, the secondee will be bound by the Client's general requirements of its own employees concerning their conduct. These requirements will be notified to the secondee on or prior to the start date or as they arise from time to time.
- 4.4. In addition the secondee shall carry out their duties in a professional manner, with integrity and with a good standard of client care and of work, including the exercise of competence, skill and diligence.

- 4.5. Without prejudice to the above, the secondee must comply at all times with the Client's security policies and must safeguard all information which comes into his/her possession during the period of secondment in accordance with its security classification. These obligations will continue to apply to the secondee as long as the information remains confidential or otherwise sensitive (including after the secondment has ended).
- 4.6. The secondee will be subject to the provisions of the Official Secrets Acts and [any other specific policy documents (attached at [])]. Details of the rules governing the conduct of staff working for the Client can be found in the [Client's Staff Handbook].
- 4.7. The secondee will have the authority to act on behalf of the Client in the day-to-day operation of his/her role. The secondee will not have any authority to enter into any contract with a third party, make any representation, give any warranty or undertaking, incur any liability, assume any obligation or otherwise exercise any power conferred on the Client and will not represent him/herself as having the same.
- 4.8. During the secondment the Solicitor will:
 - (3) not terminate or agree to terminate the secondee's employment with the Solicitor without reasonable prior consultation with the Client and not act in a manner which would permit the secondee to treat himself/herself as constructively dismissed by the Solicitor; and
 - (4) not provide the secondee's services to anyone else other than the Client and apart from providing services to the Client, the secondee will not undertake any business, profession, employment, consultancy, agency or be an adviser to anyone else.

5. Conflict of interests during and after secondment

- 5.1. If a potential conflict of interests arises during the secondment, the secondee and the Solicitor must immediately inform the Client, who will endeavour to agree appropriate action with the Solicitor and the secondee, which could include the termination of the secondment with immediate effect.
- 5.2. If a conflict of interests arises during the course of the secondee's work after the end of the secondment, the secondee shall decline to act for the participant or prospective participant in the relevant scheme or for any other client to whom he/she would owe a duty to disclose confidential information acquired in the course of the secondment.
- 5.3. During and after the secondment the secondee will be bound by the policy of the Client on conflicts of interest insofar as applicable.

6. Business Appointment Rules

The secondee will be subject to the Business Appointment Rules (attached as []). This means that the secondee may in some circumstances be required to seek the agreement of the Client or the Advisory Committee on Business Appointments before accepting any new post, and may also be required to report any approaches by outside employers offering employment for which approval may be required.

7. Confidentiality

- 7.1. All those working in the Civil Service, in whatever capacity, owe duties of confidentiality and loyal service to the Crown. The secondee will therefore exercise due care in the use of information which he/she acquires in the course of official duties with the Client and will protect information which is held in confidence. The rules governing the use of official information and related activities are attached as [] but are also set out in the [Client's Staff Handbook]. Any breach of the rules may result in the termination of this agreement and in certain circumstances criminal or civil proceedings.

- 7.2. During and after the secondment the secondee shall not disclose or make use of any confidential information except as required by law and the Solicitor shall not require him/her to do so, without the prior written consent of the Client.
- 7.3. Confidential information is defined in the [Client's Staff Handbook] and the Civil Service Management Code (appended at []), but without prejudice to the generality of such definitions, confidential information shall include information about the Client on which the secondee works during the secondment, which is not in the public domain (or which is in the public domain through the secondee's or the Solicitor's breach of this contract or of the secondee's contract of employment with the Solicitor).
- 7.4. During the secondment and for 12 months after its termination, the secondee shall not use the benefit of the secondment for the benefit of or on behalf of any participant or prospective participant in the Client or any other matter upon which he/she has worked during the secondment. The secondee will in any case comply with any additional restrictions imposed by clause 5 (Conflicts of Interest) over and above those stated in this clause.
- 7.5. The secondee will not be restricted from using and disclosing information of a general kind concerning the policies and practices of the Client providing this does not involve disclosure about the internal workings or particular proposed or actual policies of the Client or any other Contracting Body (as defined in the Framework Agreement) or public body, which the Client or which the Contracting Body or public body concerned could reasonably expect to be confidential or which the secondee is or ought to be aware is subject to a security classification.

8. Day-to-day operations

- 8.2. The secondee will work [full time] during normal office hours of [] to [] and such additional hours as the Client may reasonably require. These hours will normally be worked at the Client's offices at [address]
- 8.3. The secondee shall at all times be under the day-to-day control and supervision of, and take instructions from [] at the Client and comply with relevant office procedures and working practices; and shall in addition be responsible through [] at the Client to the Treasury Solicitor and Head of the Government Legal Service, and through the Treasury Solicitor, to the Attorney General as the Government's chief legal adviser.
- 8.4. The Client will, if requested by the Solicitor, provide such performance and appraisal reports on the secondee as may be reasonably required by the Solicitor. The Solicitor will be responsible for carrying out any appraisal or annual review required by its policies or the secondee's terms of employment.
- 8.5. If internal proceedings in relation to performance, conduct, incapacity or attendance are necessary these shall be carried out by the Solicitor. The Client will provide such information as the Solicitor may reasonably require for these purposes.

9. Indemnities

- 9.1. The Solicitor shall take out and maintain insurance policies for employer's liability, professional indemnity and public liability in respect of the secondee in each case in accordance with all relevant legal requirements and its usual practice from time to time.
- 9.2. The Client will indemnify the Solicitor on a continuing basis against all claims, rights, remedies, costs, expenses or proceedings of whatever nature whether arising at common law under statute or otherwise against the Solicitor, arising from the secondee's duties performed as a secondee on the instructions of or under the supervision of the Client on the condition that:

- (1) the secondee notifies the Client as soon as reasonably practicable of any claim, action or demand which may give rise to a liability and the Solicitor and the secondee take such steps in relation to such claim, action or demand (including settlement or defence) as the Client may reasonably require; and
 - (2) such indemnity will not apply to the extent that any liability is covered by an insurance policy effected by the Solicitor or which should have been effected by the Solicitor as set out in paragraph 9.1 above.
- 9.3. For the avoidance of doubt, the Client will not indemnify the Solicitor or be liable for claims, action, demands, rights, remedies, costs, expenses or proceedings ("Claims") that arise from any act or omission which is outside or inconsistent with the scope of the secondee's responsibilities during the secondment; any claims that arise from any wilful act or omission of the secondee that is dishonest, fraudulent, malicious, in bad faith or illegal; any claims arising out of wilful neglect/default; or for any loss of profit, loss of revenue, loss of use, loss of contract or goodwill or any indirect or consequential loss howsoever arising to the Solicitor.
- 9.4. The Solicitor will indemnify the Client and keep it indemnified against:
- (1) all losses and claims (including costs) arising from any wilful act or omission of the secondee that is dishonest, fraudulent, malicious, in bad faith or illegal, or from his/her wilful neglect or default; and
 - (2) all losses and claims (including costs) arising from any act or omission which is outside or inconsistent with the scope of the secondee's responsibilities during the secondment.

10. Holiday and absence

- 10.1. The Client will allow, in consultation with the Solicitor, reasonable absence for the secondee to attend such training courses and other meetings at the Solicitor's offices as are normally appropriate for a staff member of their level and experience provided that reasonable notice of such training courses and/or meetings is given by the Solicitor. Any such training courses and any related travel expenses will be paid for by the Solicitor.
- 10.2. The secondee will remain on the Solicitor's annual leave system and therefore be entitled to [] days' holiday per annum plus public holidays. The Client will honour present holiday commitments provided these are notified to it before the start of the secondment.
- 10.3. If the secondee is unable to attend work because of sickness or injury he/she should report this to the Solicitor in accordance with the Solicitor's policy, but should also notify [] of the Client as soon as possible.
- 10.4. The Client will not be responsible for payment of maternity/paternity/adoption leave pay, sick pay or any similar payments or benefits.

11. Data Protection

- 11.1. The parties acknowledge that the Solicitor and the Client need to hold, record and exchange personal data (including sensitive personal data) on the secondee in relation to this secondment. For the purposes of the Data Protection Act 1998 (the "DPA"), the Solicitor confirms to the Client that the secondee consents to the Client holding, processing and accessing his or her personal data, both manually and by electronic means for purposes relating to this secondment.
- 11.2. For the purposes of this clause references to "personal data" include "sensitive personal data" as defined by the DPA. - 11.3. In the interests of open government and public access to information, the Client is from time to time asked to release details of officials who are on loan or secondment to the Client from organisations other than the Civil Service. It is a condition of this secondment that the secondee and the Solicitor agree that details such as the identity of the secondee and the Solicitor and the nature of the job which the secondee is doing may be released and may be published on the Client's website.

12. Health and safety

During the secondment the Client will take care of the health and safety of the secondee in accordance with the relevant legislation to the extent that the Client has control of the same.
