- 17.2.1 comply with all the Customer's health and safety measures while on the Customer's premises; and
- 17.2.2 notify the Customer immediately in the event of any incident occurring in the performance of its obligations under the Agreement on the Customer's premises where that incident causes any personal injury or damage to property which could give rise to personal injury.

17.3 The Supplier shall:

- 17.3.1 perform its obligations under the Agreement in accordance with all applicable equality Law and the Customer's equality and diversity policy as provided to the Supplier from time to time; and
- 17.3.2 take all reasonable steps to secure the observance of clause 17.2 by all Staff.

- 17.5.2 section 182 of the Finance Act 1989.

18 Prevention of Fraud and Corruption

18.1 The Supplier shall not offer, give, or agree to give anything, to any person an inducement or reward for doing, refraining from doing, or for having done or refrained from doing, any act in relation to the obtaining or execution of the Agreement or for showing or refraining from showing favour or disfavour to any person in relation to the Agreement.

18.2 The Supplier shall take all reasonable steps, in accordance with good industry practice, to prevent fraud by the Staff and the Supplier (including its shareholders, members and directors) in connection with the Agreement and shall notify the Customer immediately if it has reason to suspect that any fraud has occurred or is occurring or is likely to occur.

18.3 If the Supplier or the Staff engages in conduct prohibited by clause 18.2 or commits fraud in relation to the Agreement or any other contract with the Crown (including the Customer) the Customer may:

- 18.3.1 terminate the Agreement and recover from the Supplier the amount of any loss suffered by the Customer resulting from the termination, including the cost reasonably incurred by the Customer of making other arrangements for the supply of the Services and any additional expenditure incurred by the Customer throughout the remainder of the Agreement; or
- 18.3.2 recover in full from the Supplier any other loss sustained by the Customer in consequence of any breach of this clause.

19 Dispute Resolution

- 19.1 The Parties shall attempt in good faith to negotiate a settlement to any dispute between them arising out of or in connection with the Agreement and such efforts shall involve the escalation of the dispute to an appropriately senior representative of each Party.
- 19.2 If the dispute cannot be resolved by the Parties within one month of being escalated as referred to in clause 19.1, the dispute may by agreement between the Parties be referred to a neutral adviser or mediator (the “Mediator”) chosen by agreement between the Parties. All negotiations connected with the dispute shall be conducted in confidence and without prejudice to the rights of the Parties in any further proceedings.
- 19.3 If the Parties fail to appoint a Mediator within one month, or fail to enter into a written agreement resolving the dispute within one month of the Mediator being appointed, either Party may exercise any remedy it has under applicable law.

20 General

- 20.3 The Agreement cannot be varied except in writing signed by a duly authorised representative of both the Parties.
- 20.4 The Agreement contains the whole agreement between the Parties and supersedes and replaces any prior written or oral agreements, representations or understandings between them. The Parties confirm that they have not entered into the Agreement on the basis of any representation that is not expressly incorporated into the Agreement. Nothing in this clause shall exclude liability for fraud or fraudulent misrepresentation.
- 20.5 Any waiver or relaxation either partly, or wholly of any of the terms and conditions of the Agreement shall be valid only if it is communicated to the other Party in writing and expressly stated to be a waiver. - 20.6 The Agreement shall not constitute or imply any partnership, joint venture, agency, fiduciary relationship or other relationship between the Parties other than the contractual relationship expressly provided for in the Agreement. Neither Party shall have, nor represent that it has, any authority to make any commitments on the other Party's behalf.
- 20.7 Except as otherwise expressly provided by the Agreement, all remedies available to either Party for breach of the Agreement (whether under the Agreement, statute or common law) are cumulative and may be exercised concurrently or separately, and the exercise of one remedy shall not be deemed an election of such remedy to the exclusion of other remedies.
- 20.8 If any provision of the Agreement is prohibited by law or judged by a court to be unlawful, void or unenforceable, the provision shall, to the extent required, be severed from the Agreement and rendered ineffective as far as possible without modifying the remaining provisions of the Agreement, and shall not in any way affect any other circumstances of or the validity or enforcement of the Agreement.

Annex 3 - Specification

1 Background

- 1.1 Defra is undertaking a focussed informal survey of approx. 350 meat and fish products to verify compliance with compositional standards and labelling.
- 1.2 [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] [REDACTED] [REDACTED] [REDACTED] [REDACTED] [REDACTED] Samples are analysed using an appropriate DNA-based multi-analyte screen which encompasses pork, beef, lamb, turkey, chicken, goat and equine species. White fish samples are analysed using a multi-analyte screen which encompasses cod, pollack and pangasius.
- 1.3 Those samples which are screened as positive (for a species not declared on the label) and a proportion of screen-negative results, are to be submitted for independent confirmatory analysis by a third-party laboratory, using appropriate DNA-based methodology for species verification and an assessment of how much is present; employing 1% weight for weight (w/w) as the figure above which deliberate adulteration is implicated. It is anticipated that the screening process will identify as 'positive' all samples where there is a greater than 0.5% proportion of non-declared species present in a sample. However, the figure which should be used at confirmatory analysis to indicate deliberate adulteration remains 1% (w/w).
- 1.4 This specification is concerned with the confirmatory analysis for samples which have screened positive for non-declared meat or fish species, or are part of the screen-negative batch to check for false negative results. The required analysis shall be supported by appropriate method performance data to verify analytical confidence in results to inform potential follow up action above 1% w/w.
- 1.5 It is anticipated that no more than 100 samples will be submitted for confirmatory analysis, in batches as agreed [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] Analysis shall be completed within 4 weeks of sample submission for confirmatory analysis.

2 Requirement

- 2.1 The requirement is to carry out confirmatory analysis to verify the identity of non-declared species in meat and fish samples (detected at screen); and to provide a quantitative or semi-quantitative assessment of the amount present using DNA-based accredited methodology such as that suitable for food law enforcement activity.

2.2 Specific objectives are as follows:

- 2.2.1 To carry out independent confirmatory DNA analysis (using RT-PCR and Sanger Sequencing) of those samples which show positive results for non-declared species following DNA screening analysis;
 - 2.2.2 To test 10% of total negative samples (at screen) through RT-PCR and Sanger sequencing as above.
 - 2.2.3 Optional: To carry out any further analysis of unusual findings; as directed by Defra [to be costed separately]
 - 2.2.4 To prepare summary reports of the results, including data interpretation, and an assessment of their analytical fitness for purpose and any limitations as agreed with Defra.
 - 2.2.5 To provide certificates of analysis.
- 2.3 Confirmatory analysis of samples is required as soon as practicable on sample receipt, and in any case within four weeks of sample submission. Any unusual confirmed findings shall be reported to Defra within 10 working days; with the final report submitted within 4 weeks of sample submission (as agreed with Defra).

3. Sample availability

- 3.1 Approximately 350 samples have been collected according to the sampling scheme given in Table 1. Samples have been taken from the retail, wholesale and catering sectors (using wholesale suppliers to the catering industry). Each sample, of approximately 250g, will be divided into 5 aliquots of approximately 50g each, and an aliquot of each sample will be subjected to a screening test using a multi-analyte screen between April and June 2022. The four remaining aliquots will be kept in storage [REDACTED] under appropriate conditions to minimise sample degradation.
- 3.2 It is expected that samples will be available for confirmatory analysis in batches from June 2022. Confirmatory analysis shall be completed within 4 weeks of sample collection, unless a sample requires fast-tracked analysis (criteria to be agreed with Defra).
- 3.3 The confirmatory laboratory will be responsible for engaging with [REDACTED] (the screening laboratory) to arrange suitable sample transport of positive screening samples (and transporting 10% of screen-negative samples) from the point of storage, in such a manner as to prevent cross contamination, damage during transportation, and minimise sample degradation.

Table 1: Proportion of food samples by food and product type

FOOD TYPE	PROPORTION OF SAMPLES	FOOD PRODUCT
CHICKEN	20%	Curry/kebabs

		Ready meals
LAMB	30%	Mince
		Ready meals
		Curry/kebabs
BEEF	30%	Mince
		Burgers
		Pies
PORK	10%	Sausage
WHITE FISH	10%	Processed fish

- 3.4 On receipt of the samples at the confirmatory laboratory, the samples shall be visually checked for condition, and that they are accompanied by all relevant documentation. The date and time of sample accession shall be recorded. All seals and packaging, including labelling information shall be retained by the laboratory for a period of 12 months or until instructed otherwise by Defra.
- 3.5 Thorough records must be maintained throughout the confirmatory analysis process, which must be maintained for 12 months from the date of sampling. Sample aliquots shall be assigned a unique ID, such that each sample aliquot can be unequivocally linked with the original sample from which the aliquot was taken (in storage); the other aliquots taken from that sample; all labelling, packaging and sampling information associated with the sample; the results of the screening tests; the results of the confirmatory analysis; and all underlying analytical data associated with the sample analysis process.

4 Analysis

- 4.1 Meat samples will already have been screened using a DNA-based screen which encompasses pork, beef, lamb, turkey, chicken, goat and equine species. White fish samples will have been analysed using a DNA-based screen which encompasses cod, pollack and pangasius. For the purposes of this study, the level at which deliberate adulteration is implicated is 1% (w/w); an appropriate screening methodology with sufficient sensitivity will have been chosen to allow such samples to be identified with an appropriate level of confidence.

Confirmatory Analysis

- 4.2 This requirement concerns the confirmatory analysis of positive results identified at the screen – that is, samples where there is mis-description between the actual sample composition and that indicated on the labelling. In addition, a proportion (approx. 10%) of screen-negative samples will be subjected to confirmatory analysis to check false negative rates.

- 4.3 Any positive results identified at screen – that is, samples where there is mis-description between the actual sample composition and that indicated on the labelling – will be subjected to confirmatory analysis to verify species presence and indicative amounts present. It is anticipated that the screening process will identify as 'positive' all samples where there is a greater than 0.5% (w/w) proportion of non-declared species present in a sample. However, the figure which should be used at confirmatory analysis to indicate deliberate adulteration remains 1% (w/w).
- 4.4 Confirmatory analysis shall be completed within 4 weeks of sample submission. Samples submitted for confirmatory analysis will have been stored under appropriate conditions to minimise sample degradation which could impact upon the analysis.
- 4.5 Confirmatory analysis of species shall be quantitative or semi-quantitative, and be based on a DNA technique, preferably standard species real-time PCR; supported by DNA sequencing (as discussed with Defra). Confirmatory analysis shall encompass pork, beef, lamb, turkey, chicken, goat and equine species for meat samples; and cod, pollack and pangasius for white fish samples and differentiate between Pacific and Atlantic Cod.
- 4.6 The reporting threshold above which deliberate adulteration is implicated is 1% (w/w), and the method shall have appropriate performance characteristics to facilitate a fit for purpose approach to verify deliberate adulteration. This includes the Limit of Quantitation (LOQ) and appropriate estimation of the associated measurement uncertainty. Measurement uncertainty shall be taken into account using an appropriate methodology to allow a comparison against the 1% (w/w) level.
- 4.7 The laboratory shall hold ISO 17025 accreditation relevant to this work, and the scope of the accreditation shall include the analyte of interest wherever possible. Methods must, where possible, be accredited to ISO 17025. Where accreditation is not held, methods and Standard Operating Procedures for analysis must be fully validated and a rationale provided as to their fitness for purpose and documented as part of the laboratories' Quality Procedures. Where possible, appropriate standards or reference materials at the 1% (w/w) level should be included as Quality Control material. Guidance on method validation for food authenticity purposes has previously been developed by Defra and is available on request if needed. In the event that a proposed method is not within the scope of a laboratories' ISO 17025 accreditation, evidence should be provided as to how the performance characteristics of the method (as detailed in Table 1 of the guidance) have been assessed. Laboratories should also refer to the Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) published for the real-time PCR quantification of horse DNA as an exemplar of a quantitative methods' capability:

<https://documents.foodauthenticity.uk/index.php/sops/doc-sop-dna/horse-relative-quantitation-version-2-3>

- 4.8 The confirmatory analysis shall verify species presence and indicative amounts present. Samples submitted for confirmatory analysis will have been stored under appropriate conditions to minimise sample degradation which could impact upon the analysis.

Data Interpretation

- 4.9 Interpretation of the data obtained will be conducted by the chosen laboratory, clearly setting out the justification for the decisions made. All results must be uploaded into an appropriate spreadsheet format and provided to Defra (inclusive of all raw data). Data for all samples including replicate analysis, positive and negative controls, and Quality Control materials together with details of how quantification was achieved shall also be recorded. All records shall be kept for a period of 12 months after the date of sampling. A report on the results of the survey shall also be prepared and submitted to Defra, clearly highlighting key findings.
- 4.10 Interpretation of the data must be carried out, clearly setting out the justification for the decisions or assumptions made. Any limitations of the method shall also be accounted for.
- 4.11 A report on the confirmatory results shall be prepared and submitted to Defra, highlighting key findings and how these should be interpreted. Risk management and Communications
- 5.1 As this is an informal survey, samples and analyses will not be used as part of any enforcement action. Results will be shared with the Food Standards Agency (FSA) and the National Food Crime Unit to help inform future sampling priorities. Any positive samples will be followed up via FSA's usual incidents route.
- 5.2 Substitution issues may be indicated which impact on cultural or religious concerns. In such cases, confirmatory analysis shall be fast-tracked and Defra informed at the earliest opportunity/
- 5.3 Any external communication relating to this research requirement shall be referred to Defra, in the first instance.

Timeframes and deliverables

- 5.4 Any additional analysis or follow up on unexpected results shall be discussed with Defra before commencing the work. Timeframes and deliverables for any additional study shall be arranged separately.
