Schedule 1: Services

The Initial piece of work to be carried out under this contract is described below, which is to be delivered by the 31st March 2022. I

It is likely this will lead to further requirements to be delivered. These will be called off from the contract using the Work Package Template found in Annex A.

FSA's Initial Requirements:

The FSA has a legal obligation to publish a register of authorised regulated products for two regimes (animal feed and GM foods) as well as a desire to formally publish a register for other regimes for ease of reference. We now have an MVP solution in place and online for feed additives, which was launched to the public in March 2021. An MVP has also been developed for GM foods but is still subject to some final revision and its publication is currently under discussion, but is likely due to happen in 2021.

Although the MVPs were initially developed separately, tailored to each of the regimes, some work has now been undertaken to generalise the register, in order to facilitate the addition of new regimes and avoid having to build and maintain ten separate products. Initial testing of the generalised solution with another regime (smoke flavourings) is currently underway.

After smoke flavourings, there will be the following regimes to add:

- Smoke flavourings
- Extraction solvents
- Flavourings
- Food contact materials (monomers, additives and polymer production aids)
- Novel foods – non-CBD
- Food additives, including their specifications
- Chemical contaminants in food
- Feed for particular nutritional uses
- Chemical contaminants for feed
- Radiological irradiated foods
- Radiological contaminants
- Undesirable substances in animal feed
- Substances authorised for the manufacture of regenerated cellulose film
- potential (if approved) completion of GMO

Adding new regimes is the priority. However, during this phase of the work there will be some additional issues to address around whether (and if so how) to capture and display policy divergence between nations, and change over time, and also how/whether to link the register to the applications side of the regulated products service.

In the future, we would like to add future lists of regulated products when they are assessed and authorised e.g. enzymes, CBDs and recycled plastics. However, these are not a consideration at the moment, though the capacity should be inbuilt into the system. We would also like to add non-statutory lists to the Register, in particular the Feed Materials Register and possibly the Novel Food Catalogue. However, these are of lesser priority currently.

Must haves:

- All regimes included in the register.
- Capacity for lists which will come into law in the future and so will need to be represented on the register.
- Look at commonalities across all regimes to try and streamline the addition of any new regimes or non-statutory lists in the future
- Extending the search function results so that at least 100 (possibly 200) results are given on each page.
- Existing filter and search functionality rolled out across all regimes, tailored to which fields are most appropriate to each regime. No additional functionality is a must have.
- The register will show a snapshot of the current situation for England, Wales and FSS. In this scenario, a snapshot of authorisations would be periodically captured in CSV format and published as open data by FSA, and we would need to make clear that the situation in any of the Devolved Administrations might differ.
- The procedure for updating the register will be automated, such that master data can be uploaded in a specific format to a specific location, and any updates will be automatically pulled through into the register.
- Any chemical formulae must be represented as formatted rather than plain text.
- The register must include historical as well as current information, where authorisations have been expired or withdrawn, or previously restricted products are now authorised, or where the levels and categories for which a product is authorised has changed over time. Other changes over time that might need to be captured include changes in food categories, and changes in group membership (e.g. additive groups, or functional groups for feed additives). Change could be displayed to the user as additional entries in the register and additional fields in the individual authorisations. Alternatively, users could be given the option to view the state of the register on a given date in the past or future.

Could haves:

- Ideally, subject matter experts and/or the Regulated products team would be able to make updates to the register without any intervention from FSA data team or Epimorphics. This could be achieved by building an editor interface for the register.
- The register could capture any divergence in authorisation between Scotland, England and Wales. A field could capture the nations to which the authorisation applies, with potentially another field(s) with the nature of these differences.
- The register could enable horizontal search across regimes for authorisations in a particular category, e.g. what 'additives, flavourings and smoke flavourings are currently authorised for use in cheese?'
- The register could show whether any applications are currently in flight for a given regulated product, e.g. a particular additive.
- A nice to have would be to expand what can be represented as formatted text, to include aspects such as symbols (e.g. trademarks), Latin names, bulleted lists, and paragraphs.
- A feature that some users would appreciate would be to allow them to 'subscribe' to particular products/authorisations and be notified when these are updated.

Success Criteria

- All regimes incorporated into the register by the end of the financial year 2022/23
- We have a clear and efficient procedure in place for updating the data

Additional Requirements

- Publicly visible API (and documentation) - a requirement / FSA commitment inherited from the GDS spend control approval - the need to have open API, visible for other potential users (in government or more widely)
