Information Security Policy

Purpose of Security

Patch My PC considers computers, data, network, and physical security-critical to its long term business success, and its relationship with its customers. Due to the nature of the information handled by Patch My PC and the potential losses, reputational impact, and legal violations that could result in itself and its customers from the improper handling of that information, Patch My PC believes that appropriate security policies and procedures are required. Patch My PC's security objectives are guided by the principles of ISO 270001, ISO 27002, the NIST Cybersecurity Framework (NIST CSF), and NIST 800-53. Patch My PC intends to meet or exceed the requirements of all applicable legislation and regulatory agencies.

The core to Patch My PC's security policy is centered around protection information assets while providing the necessary access to conduct business. To accomplish this object, Patch My PC has and will continue to take the following steps:

- Identify assets that require protection
- Identify threats to those assets
- Quantify risk for each threat
- Implement policies, procedures, and technology to mitigate risk to acceptable levels
- Periodic review of the effectiveness of implemented mitigations

This policy is reviewed and approved annually by the Information Security Committee.

2. Information, Threats, & Risk Assessment

Value of Information

All information maintained by Patch My PC, including information stored on PCs, servers, in the cloud, physical files, and configuration data has value to the company. This data must be protected from unauthorized access and distribution.

Possible Threats

Unauthorized Access

Unauthorized access refers to someone gaining logical or physical access without permission to a computer network, system, application software, data, or other resources. Unauthorized access can also occur when a user, legitimate or unauthorized, accesses a resource that the user is not permitted to use.

The Short form Contract

Information Security Policy

External

Outside intruders can be hackers/crackers, saboteurs, and thieves. If the network is compromised, intruders can attack or misuse the system. One common technique used by intruders to gain unauthorized access to the system is password theft. Other access techniques include:

- · Sniffing/wiretapping/eavesdropping
- · Exploiting security weaknesses
- · Internet Protocol (IP) spoofing
- · Social engineering

Once the intruders gain access to the internal network, they can approach, trespass within, communicate with, store data in or retrieve data from, interfere with, or otherwise intercept and change the system.

Internal

Insiders may have accounts giving them legitimate access to computer systems, with this access originally having been given to them to serve in the performance of their duties; these permissions could be abused to harm the organization. Insiders are often familiar with the organization's data and intellectual property, as well as the methods that are in place to protect them. This scenario makes it easier for the insider to circumvent any security controls of which they are aware. Physical proximity to data means that the insider does not need to hack into the organizational network through the outer perimeter by traversing firewalls; instead, they are in the building already, often with direct access to the organization's internal network. Insider threats are harder to defend against than attacks from outsiders since the insider already has authorized access to the organization's information and assets. Insiders can be either intentionally malicious or merely negligent.

Denial of Service

A Denial of Service (DoS) attack is focused on making a resource (site, application, server) unavailable for the purpose it was designed. There are many ways to make a service unavailable for legitimate users. If a service receives a vast number of requests, it may cease to be available to legitimate users. In the same way, a service may stop if a programming vulnerability is exploited, or the way the service handles resources it uses. Sometimes the attacker can inject and execute arbitrary code while performing a DoS attack to access critical information or execute commands on the server. Though DoS attacks do not typically result in the theft or loss of important information or other assets, they can cost time, money, and loss of reputation.

Software Bugs & Vulnerabilities

A software security vulnerability is a weakness that can be exploited by a threat actor, such as an attacker, to perform unauthorized actions within a computer system.

Third Party Vulnerabilities

Security software vulnerabilities in third-party libraries and applications can potentially be exploited in a supply chain attack to compromise company assets.

Social Engineering

Social engineering is the psychological manipulation of people into performing actions or divulging confidential information. This process includes techniques such as phishing, vishing, smishing, and impersonation.

Advanced Persistent Threats

An advanced persistent threat (APT) is a stealthy computer network threat actor, typically a nation-state or state-sponsored group, which gains unauthorized access to a computer network and remains undetected for an extended period.

Risk Assessment

A risk assessment determines possible threats, their likelihood and consequences, and the tolerances for such events. The results of this process may be expressed quantitatively. Risk assessment is an inherent part of a broader risk management strategy to "introduce control measures to eliminate or reduce" any potential risk-related consequences. Patch My PC leverages industry-standard tools to perform periodic scans of company assets.

3. Security Philosophy

Patch My PC's security philosophy is built on four key pillars. The first pillar is that

Information Security Policy

company, and customer data is the most critical asset that needs to be protected by all practical means and only collect necessary data. The second pillar is that users are often the first and best line of defense and should be given the training and tools necessary to perform their job duties securely. The third pillar is to maintain an "assume compromise" mindset, which forces all suspicious events and activities on company assets to be investigated appropriately. The fourth pillar is to build security into all products from the earliest stage possible.

Standards

Data Confidentiality

Access to or disclosure of personal, proprietary, or business-related information to anyone other than the customer or the customer's legal representative is prohibited unless express written consent is provided by the customer or otherwise allowed by law.

Employees using PCs containing Patch My PC data or connected to Patch My PC's network or assets must lock their PC when away from their PC to prevent unauthorized access to confidential data.

Encrypting Sensitive Data

Any transmission of customer, proprietary, configuration, or financial data is required to be encrypted before transmission or sent via securely encrypted communication channels

Customer Notification

Patch My PC recognizes its responsibility to notify customers of any unauthorized access or transmission of sensitive data. Patch My PC intends to abide by all applicable legal and regulatory requirements in the event of data compromise.

Credentials & Authentication

Credentials are an essential aspect of computer security. A poorly chosen password may result in unauthorized access or exploitation of company assets. All staff, including contractors and vendors with access to Patch My PC, LLC systems, are responsible for taking the appropriate steps to select and secure their passwords as outlined in the Credentials & Authentication policy. All production systems require multi-factor authentication (MFA) utilizing Azure

Information Security Policy

Active Directory (AD).

System Access

Any access to Patch My PC systems other than for specific job functions and duties is strictly prohibited. Any unauthorized use of Patch My PC assets for other than its intended purpose may be subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment.

Data Security

Encryption

All data handled by Patch My PC should be encrypted whenever operationally feasible.

In Motion

Data traversing or leaving Patch My PC's network will be encrypted using industry best-practice encryption methods and protocols. Currently, this includes the use of TLS 1.2 for web communications.

At Rest

Data stored on Patch My PC's cloud, servers, or PCs will be encrypted using best-practice encryption methods and protocols. Encryption is accomplished via disk-level encryption using tools such as BitLocker.

Retention

Digital data is retained following customer specifications unless this conflicts with legal or regulatory requirements applicable by data type or geographical region.

System Security

PCs & Servers

Company PCs are secured using industry best practice authentication methods and disk-level encryption. Anti-malware and anti-virus protection requirements are fulfilled using Windows Defender and Windows Advanced Threat Protection (ATP). Operating System patching is done one day after patch release and is managed by Microsoft System Center Configuration Manager (SCCM) and Windows Intune for mobile device patches. Third party application patches are deployed every day after patch release and are managed by Patch My PC.

Information Security Policy

Web

Server and web communication is protected by Cloudflare Web Application Firewall and uses TLS 1.2 encryption over https.

7. Software Development Standards & Procedures

Patch My PC's software development philosophy is to develop and deploy code that is as secure as possible and guided by the need to be aware of and avoid the top critical security risks defined in the OWASP top ten. When designing features, the concept of privacy by design will be considered.

Only authorized users will have access to deploy code changes. The source code management tool used will have multi-factor authentication enabled. The source code for products will be periodically analyzed using a static application security testing tool (SAST). SAST scan the code to be evaluated for vulnerabilities, code flaws, and weaknesses before becoming a security risk.

All EXE, MSI, DLL, script, and CAB files originating from Patch My PC will be codesigned using an extended validation (EV) code-signing certificate. EV code-signing certifications include the benefits of digitally signed code plus a rigorous vetting process and hardware security requirement to support multi-factor authentication. Any codesigned binaries will also require timestamping.

Administrator Access & Associated Controls

Accounts used to administer servers, databases, network equipment, and applications are limited to individual members of IT staff. Such access is audited periodically.

9. Configuration & Change Control

While acknowledging the ongoing need for innovation and improvement, every effort must be made to maintain system and application stability and integrity. All configuration and code changes or updates are thoroughly tested before being implemented in production. Peer review and independent approval must take place before changes are made to production assets and applications.

Security Incident Response Process

It is Patch My PC's policy to investigate and take appropriate action on any suspicious

Information Security Policy

event or activity occurring on or to the company's assets. Investigate includes any external or internal malicious or negligent acts as well as unwanted software on computing assets. Any security event impacting a customer's information will require a notification to best sent via email within 24 hours to contacts defined on the customer's subscription.

System Access

Provisioning and Deprovisioning of system access within Patch My PC is done promptly and will follow the security principle of least privilege. Access to systems outside of an employee's typical job duties will require managerial approval, and such access will be re-evaluated periodically. Deprovisioning accounts for exiting staff will occur as soon as possible and follow a standardized procedure that has been reviewed by the Information Security Committee. The Patch My PC Information Security Committee will review the provisioning and deprovisioning process annually.

Access to systems with sensitive information will take advantage of multi-factor authentication where feasible.

Access to labs and testing resources are granted to Patch My PC employees who require such access. Patch My PC labs will not be used to store sensitive customer information without prior customer approval. Lab environments are segmented from all production systems and data.

Security Training & Awareness

Patch My PC recognizes the need for the ongoing and thorough education of employees in security and security-related topics. Employees are often the first and best line of defense against malicious actors. With this principle in mind, the company provides new employees with resources to familiarize them with best practices for computer-related security. Employees are also offered additional resources on an annual basis on Patch My PC's security program and standards. The following topics will be covered in Patch My PC's security awareness program:

- Mobile Threats
- Password, Two-Factor Authentication
- Phishing
- Public WiFi
- Ransomware
- Shadow IT
- Social Media
- USB Safety
- Work From Home
