15. Force Majeure

- 15.1 Neither Party shall have any liability under or be deemed to be in breach of the Agreement for any delays or failures in performance of the Agreement which result from circumstances beyond the reasonable control of the Party affected. Each Party shall promptly notify the other Party in writing when such circumstances cause a delay or failure in performance and when they cease to do so. If such circumstances continue for a continuous period of more than two months, either Party may terminate the Agreement by written notice to the other Party.

16. Termination

- 16.1 The Customer may terminate the Agreement at any time by notice in writing to the Contractor to take effect on any date falling at least 1 month (or, if the Agreement is less than 3 months in duration, at least 10 Working Days) later than the date of service of the relevant notice.

Nothing in this clause shall exclude liability for fraud or fraudulent misrepresentation.
- 20.5 Any waiver or relaxation either partly, or wholly of any of the terms and conditions of the Agreement shall be valid only if it is communicated to the other Party in writing and expressly stated to be a waiver. A waiver of any right or remedy arising from a breach of contract shall not constitute a waiver of any right or remedy arising from any other breach of the Agreement.
- 20.6 The Agreement shall not constitute or imply any partnership, joint venture, agency, fiduciary relationship or other relationship between the Parties other than the contractual relationship expressly provided for in the Agreement. Neither Party shall have, nor represent that it has, any authority to make any commitments on the other Party's behalf.

SCHEDULE 2 - SPECIFICATION OF SERVICES

Definitions

For the purposes of Schedule 2, unless the context otherwise requires, the following words shall have the meanings given to them below

TB	means Tuberculosis;
bTB	means Bovine Tuberculosis;
OTF-W	means Officially Tuberculosis Free-Withdrawn;
Prev Vet Med	means Preventive Veterinary Medicine;
GIS	means Geographic Information System.

1. Background

- 1.1 The Animal and Plant Health Agency (APHA) require a contract as a follow-on to previous Research and Development (R&D) work that [REDACTED] has completed into badger control for TB. This previous contract ref PU/T/WL/13/35, 'Developing a Surveillance System to Report TB in Cattle Herds Exposed to Badger Control in England' expired on 31/03/2018.

2. Requirements

- 2.1 The Services to be provided to APHA by the Contractor are as detailed at Appendix A.

3. Costs

- 3.1 Costs are shown in Milestones Table / Agreed Payments Schedule within Appendix A, and in accordance with Schedule 3 – Pricing Schedule.
- 3.2 The maximum amount to be paid to the Contractor is not to exceed £24,650 Ex Vat for the duration of the Agreement.

4. Agreement Term

- 4.1 The Agreement Term will be from 01/04/2018 to 31/03/2022.

5. Delivery of Reports

- 5.1 All reports are to be emailed to:

6. Performance Management Framework (including Key Performance Indicators)

- 6.1 As part of the Authority's continuous drive to improve the performance of all Contracts, this Performance Management Framework (PMF) will be used to monitor, measure and control all aspects of the Contractor's performance of contract responsibilities.
- 6.2 The purpose of the PMF is to set out the obligations on the Contractor, to outline how the Contractor's performance will be evaluated and to detail the sanctions for performance failure. The Contractor is responsible for the performance of any sub-contractors.
- 6.3 Key Performance Indicators (KPIs) are essential in order to align Contractor performance with the requirements of the Authority and to do so in a fair and practical way. KPIs have to be realistic, measurable and achievable; they also have to be met otherwise indicating that the service is failing to deliver. Without the use of service credits in such a situation, this service failure places strain on the relationship as delivery falls short of agreed levels.
- 6.4 The proactive approach to correcting failures and addressing their cause improves the relationship and enables a partnership rather than a confrontational style of working. Its focus is on managing and improving service.
- 6.5 The Authority shall review performance against KPI's and, if appropriate, instigate meetings and work closely with the Contractor to agree action plans. The Authority expects the Contractor to agree and implement these plans.
- 6.6 The KPIs for this Contract are set out at Appendix B.
- 6.7 The KPIs may be adjusted to ensure that they are appropriate and achievable.

APPENDIX A – SCHEDULE OF WORK AND MILESTONES TABLE / AGREED PAYMENTS SCHEDULE

Main objective is to provide statistical and epidemiological expertise and advice to support work streams 1 and 2.

Work stream 1: TB in cattle herds exposed to badger control in England; ongoing monitoring

The approaches for this work stream have been described in detail in the publications mentioned below:

A report of the descriptive analysis of incidence for Year 3 of the culls in Somerset and Gloucestershire and the first year in Dorset was published on 11 September 2017.

<https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/bovine-tb-incidence-of-tb-in-cattle-in-licensed-badger-control-areas-in-2013-to-2016>

Brunton L.A., Donnelly C.A., O'Connor H., Prosser A., Ashfield A., Ashton A., Upton P., Mitchell A., Goodchild A.V., Parry J.E., Downs S.H (2017) Assessing the effects of the first two years of industry-led badger culling in England on the incidence of bovine tuberculosis in cattle in 2013-15. Ecology and Evolution <http://onlinelibrary.wiley.com/doi/10.1002/ece3.3254/full>

- AIM 1 - To provide and publish annual bTB incidence figures (and other appropriate measures of disease occurrence) for badger control licensed areas in England from routine bTB surveillance data.
 - Objective 1: Establish baseline disease frequency data for cattle located in new intervention areas for the purpose of annual surveillance reporting for each licenced area.
- AIM 2 - To assess and publish the effects of badger culling on the bTB OTF-W incidence in areas licenced for badger control as appropriate with the policy rollout.
 - Objective 2: Identify areas with no badger control measures to serve as comparison areas to those with the intervention for the purpose of assessing effects of badger culling on OTF-W incidence (when appropriate)

Work stream 2: Prospective cohort study to identify and quantify factors that can reduce the risk of TB recurrence – final design and feasibility.

- AIM is to complete design and determine implementation feasibility for a prospective cohort study.

Complete the design of a prospective cohort study that can be used to identify and evaluate risk factors, behaviours or interventions that reduce the risk of recurrent infection with M. bovis on British cattle farms.

Our approach is described in detail in document CO3131TBPRCoDesign_16.02.18. This document also includes an Appendix providing additional detail about sample size and statistical power.

(See attachment)

Objective 1: Establish a project design team that includes representatives from across APHA working in TB control, outside expertise eg from the academic community and farming community and also TB policy advisors to the English and Welsh Governments with which to agree and establish the appropriate sampling framework for selection of herds into the cohort / s.

During the 2018/19 financial year we will continue work establishing a project design team with appropriate expertise. As well as epidemiologists and statisticians working in quantitative research at APHA, the design team includes APHA vets leading TB control in the field, wildlife ecologists from the National Wildlife Management Centre and two external consultants with extensive experience in statistics and field epidemiological investigation of veterinary diseases. We are also seeking to engage individuals from APHA operational delivery as well as outside expertise in social research and the economic assessment of the impact of TB. We recognise that it is important to consider farmer behaviour in any assessment of factors that may influence TB risk. And additionally farmers are more likely to be influenced by the results from the study if we include a cost-benefit analysis of factors associated with TB control.

We anticipate that the design will require that two cohorts of herds are drawn from areas of high TB risk in England and Wales (one in each country). . The final sampling strategy will ensure that the project will have sufficient power to have a realistic chance of detecting effects; whilst also taking account of the likely response rate amongst farmers and the resources available within APHA operational delivery teams. The effect of sample size on the power to detect effects has been already considered (CO3131TBPRCoDesign_16.02.18) and work relating to this will continue. The table below suggests that the minimum number of herds that can be enrolled to achieve 80% power to detect a statistically significant reduction in recurrence of 50% is 63 per year for three years. However we will also consider evidence relating the distribution of biosecurity interventions on farms and how this may affect power. We intend to reach agreement with regard to the most appropriate sampling frame and size at the first project team meeting planned for September 2018.

Minimum number of herds and herd years of follow-up for different reductions in recurrence over a three-year follow-up*, assuming half of herds are in the baseline group and half of herds are in the reduced risk group.

Although there have been at least 14 studies of on-farm risk factors for TB in England, Wales or Ireland; all have been retrospective in design. Reported effects have differed between studies and have sometimes been counter-intuitive e.g. fencing of badger sets reported as an increased risk for TB on a farm (Broughan et al, Prev Vet Med 129 (2016) 88-98). The project team will determine the content of a questionnaire to measure farm biosecurity factors that may affect TB risk. This will include questions to measure biosecurity measures recommended in the Defra cross industry biosecurity campaign <http://www.tbhub.co.uk/biosecurity/protect-your-herd-from-tb/>. Members of the APHA GIS team will consider and make recommendations with regard to the most effective way to capture data during on-farm biosecurity assessments. We will take account of previous work to develop instruments to measure on-farm risk factors e.g. TB Advisory service <http://www.tbhub.co.uk/guidance/new-tb-advisory-service-to-be-launched-this-autumn/>.

We anticipate that the developmental work finalising the project design will be completed by January 2019.
