The Occupational Therapy programme at Northumbria University is in the early stages of developing a partnership with Northern Rights with the intention of developing placements for Occupational Therapy students. Occupational Therapy is a health and social care profession, working with individuals, groups and communities to help people to overcome barriers preventing them from carrying out activities and occupations that they want or need to do to maintain health and wellbeing. It is hoped that the first placements will start in October 2017, with the broad aim of exploring the role and contribution of Occupational Therapy to vocational and employment support services. On this basis, Northumbria University is willing to be included in the Work and Health Programme Shortlisted Reed in Partnership tender document for the North East CPA. However, it is important to note that the partnership is in the early stages and placements are only in the provisional stage at present.
