Mandatory Website Features/ Content (p4)	Please could you confirm that you under no circumstances would consider a commercial CMS delivered as Software as a Service (SaaS)? Mandatory Website Features/ Content (p4)	Would you be open to using other open source, cross platform web technology that is better suited to commercial solutions and has better performance than PHP?	We have specified PHP because it is so pervasive for server-side development of open-source content management type systems. We believe this popularity has benefits that outweigh purely technical considerations such as performance. You are welcome to submit a proposal incorporating alternative languages/platforms/ technologies to those we have suggested, with your reasons for doing so, and your tender submission will be evaluated as per the process outlined in the Invitation to Tender.
4	13/02/19	ITT	5. Overview of this Tender (p.3)	Can you please detail what type of development will be required throughout the life of this contract along with maintenance and support? The reason we are asking this, these development activities may extend up to the size of the initial design and development, depending on your future needs and requirements.	The details of future development for the Growth Hub website is as yet unknown and will be influenced by stakeholders at a local and national level as well as informed by intelligence gathered by the project itself. Future developments will be negotiated and agreed with the successful tenderer to ensure they can be delivered within the contract timescales and designated budget.

This response also provides further clarification on no.3: We have specified PHP as a mandatory feature of this website development.
