RAPID LIFE – practical management projects conducted to demonstrate strategic management of IAS at a sub-catchment level using best practice methodologies (LIFE16 NAT/UK/000582).

Action C3.2 - Small-scale IAS removal projects undertaken in priority areas – The North

1. Background

RAPID (Reducing And Preventing IAS Dispersal) LIFE is a three year project led by the Animal and Plant Health Agency (APHA), with Natural England and Bristol Zoo as key partners, that will pilot an innovative approach to Invasive Alien Species (IAS) management in freshwater aquatic, riparian and coastal environments across England.

Globally, IAS are considered to be one of the most significant causes of biodiversity loss, second only to habitat destruction. RAPID LIFE will deliver a package of measures to reduce the impact and spread of IAS in freshwater aquatic, riparian and coastal environments across England. It will help to conserve species protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives whilst assisting in compliance with the EU Regulation on IAS, Marine Strategy Framework Directive and the Water Framework Directive. The status of Natura 2000 sites will also be enhanced and protected.

RAPID LIFE will work in freshwater aquatic, riparian and coastal environments in five regions across England. For this action we are focusing on the North (see map at end of document):

RAPID LIFE seeks to bridge the gap between high level strategies (such as GB IAS strategy) and action on the ground at a local level. By contracting work to locally based experts in each region, the project hopes to engage local communities in strategic and effective IAS management and help them coordinate and collaborate with neighbouring regions, facilitating a bottom up approach.

The subject of these contracts is to support delivery of Action C3.2 of the RAPID LIFE project - Small-scale IAS removal projects undertaken in priority areas. There will be one project contracted per region. This region is for the North please see map below.

The aim of the projects is to reduce distribution of high priority IAS in the long term by using volunteers to survey species as well as apply best practice management methods exemplified in the IAS Management Toolkit (produced in a separate action within RAPID LIFE) with the goal of significantly reducing IAS in the targeted areas. By contracting locally based experts who have established connections with local/regional stakeholders, this facilitates the engagement of stakeholders and local communities with these activities now and into the future. The areas chosen will be highly impacted and/or vulnerable areas in each region as identified by the Regional IAS Management Plans (RIMPs), (these are also produced under a separate action within RAPID LIFE).

The targeted species will be region specific, based on the RIMPs.

2. Contract requirements

One contractor in the RAPID LIFE region of the North will:

1. Identify suitable sites for sub-catchment level management of IAS at targeted sites (highly impacted or vulnerable areas). These hotspots can be identified with the help of contractors producing the RIMPs for their regions. The species targeted will be site dependent.
2. Gain/renew landowner permission for the sites.
3. Carry out best practice management methods over the period of the contract.

4. Carry out monitoring activities and report data.
5. Hold one workshop in the project region to showcase the results.

Specific actions:

C3.2.1 – Identify suitable site for sub-catchment level management [by December 2018]

The chosen contractor in the RAPID LIFE region will identify a key strategic site for management of the target species at a sub-catchment level. Each site should be targeting a highly impacted/vulnerable area, it is essential that the contractor liaises with the contractor developing the RIMP (Regional IAS Management Plan) for their region, an objective of which is to identify IAS hotspots and vulnerable areas. Although the RIMPs will not be finalised until August, each RIMPs contractor should have sufficient information already gathered to assist with site choice. A justification of why the site was chosen will need to be included.

C3.2.2 – Gain/renew landowner permission for the sites [by December 2018]

The contractor will contact the owners of the sites identified in C3.2.1. If a landowner is amenable, the contractor will visit their site to carry out a final check that the situation on the ground is suitable. If the landowner remains supportive of the project, then the contractor will secure the necessary permissions and paperwork from the landowner. Natural England will support the contractors in securing any consent that falls within its remit.

C3.2.3 – Agree on targets and milestones [December 2018]

Once sites and target species have been selected and permissions for work gained, the contractor will liaise with APHA to agree on any additions or revisions to milestones and targets for the work to be carried out.

C3.2.4 – Carry out the best practice management methods over the period of the contract [December 2018 – May 2020]

Over the relevant periods of 2018, 2019 and up to May 2020, the regional contractors will work on the identified sites to apply the best practice management methods at a sub-catchment level. The work carried out in C3.2.1 and C3.2.2 will ensure that the management sites are in optimal locations.

C3.2.5 – Carry out monitoring activities and report data [December 2018 – May 2020]

During 2018-2020 a programme of monitoring will be carried out by the regional contractor, mapping the effects of the management on IAS extent, density and abundance. The contractor will send their findings to APHA and enter relevant location and management information into the supporting web-based platform produced as a part of the RAPID LIFE project. Where possible, photography should be provided of sites before and after management. Detailed baseline data will need to be collated at the beginning of works to facilitate the assessment of the effectiveness of the management intervention.

C3.1.6 – Hold one workshop in the region to showcase the projects [Spring 2020]

The contractor will hold a workshop in the region in which they are working, inviting local action groups, volunteers and other stakeholders to showcase the methods and results of their project. Each workshop will have a minimum of 30 attendees and facilitators will work with APHA to gather relevant data about the number and type of groups represented. The workshop will also include a presentation from at least one of the large scale flagship projects in East of England or South West regions. These large scale flagship projects are being undertaken as a separate action within RAPID LIFE out with the current sub-contract, APHA can provide details of relevant contractors.

3. Contract management

The contract is expected to begin on 1st August 2018 and needs to be complete by May 2020.

4. Contractor experience

The contractor will have:

- Detailed knowledge of local IAS issues
- Local knowledge of relevant habitats hosting IAS suitable for management
- Practical experience of carrying out best practice control methods for priority IAS in their local/regional area
- Access to established, comprehensive and up to date baseline data relevant to their chosen site
- Available to undertake field work during the critical periods each year
- Existing demonstrable relationships with relevant local groups/stakeholders and landowners
- Practical experience of project management and ability to work in a timely manner
- Experience working with local communities
- Experience of data collection and analysis and ability to write reports to project deadline
- Full driving licence

If deemed appropriate, the contractor is permitted to sub-contract elements of the work in order to address logistical issues with the large regions. Any such undertaking should be indicated in the contractor's bid.
