2. CALL-OFF CONTRACT SPECIFICATION - PROGRAMME CONTEXT

SOW Deliverables Background	DWP have been undertaking an ambitious Strategic Digital Transformation, with delivery of new application products as defined in the 'Application Reference Architecture' (ARA). These products will integrate and interlock with other DWP Digital Application Products, as well as utilise components from the Technology Reference Architecture (TRA) and ensure data standards are met, as defined in the Data Reference Architecture (DRA). On completion of the transformed technology ecosystem and new common business capabilities, we will achieve a fully integrated system that provides increased automation, greater opportunities for selfservice for our citizens, enhanced proactive business process capabilities within the systems due to improved and enhanced use of real time data, which in turn provides an enhanced customer experience, as well as achieving efficiencies and reductions in fraud and error across DWP. As the Strategic Digital Transformation has matured, DWP have recognised the need for implementing and institutionalising changes in how we deliver this suite of application /platform products to service citizens and DWP's operational needs. This complementary effort spans all areas of DWP for engagement and delivery to successfully achieve the Strategic Digital Transformation across DWP. DWP has made great progress, trialling different and new ways to approach speeding up the delivery of the SRA's ambition. Together, Supplier and Buyer have matured the thinking of how we tackle challenges across the SRA including the transition from 3 integrated strands of complementary work within this service: Optimisation, Acceleration and Foundation. The strands collectively work as part of the Strategic Delivery Unit, reporting to the Delivery Working Group, and in turn to the Delivery Board through our SRA Enablement Lead, who reports directly to the CTO.
Delivery phase(s)	This contract duration is structured to cover financial year 2024/25 with a view to facilitating focused service-base statements of work.
Overview of Requirement	This work is key, providing clarity and direction for SRA delivery teams, including, but not limited to, articulation of architectural knitting patterns aligned to service patterns, standards, ways of working, how work is prioritised, engagement practices, strategic alignment guidance. The ambition is that the execution of this work will support the SRA delivery teams to deliver more efficiently and effectively throughout FY24/25, to better serve the evolving and emerging needs of DWP, aligned to the strategic intent of the SRA. Objective As part of the Strategic Delivery Unit, the SRA Enablement service will measure and align itself to the following SDU portfolio goals:

- Democratic adoption and seamless integration of SRA throughout the business as a key product to maximise its value to digital delivery.
- Build the right things, in the right way, at the right time.

Each goal will be measured on a regular drumbeat across the SDU, to measure collective performance of the portfolio towards these objectives.

The overall goal for the three streams and the Strategic Transformation is effectively a fundamental shift in focus; moving primarily to a strategic, business-driven, enterprise-wide value approach based on the “knitting patterns” from the existing technology-first (sometimes tactical solution) approach.

This pivot in direction of the SRA delivery needs to be supported by the evolution of the existing SRA delivery approach; adapting it to focus teams on a set of collective outcomes teams are aiming to deliver and the associated value that they can release for both the business and citizens.

The model, guidance and education will be an enterprise-wide enabler; allowing product and development teams to fully collaborate, deliver and accelerate the release of value across dependent and interrelated shared components, benefits, services, and operational areas.

Understanding that this shift will be transitional, the SRA Enablement service will look to continue efforts to enhance the existing ways of working and current delivery model; by filling in capability and knowledge gaps to maximise SRA delivery outcomes and increase SRA adoption.

Requirement

DWP requires a supplier with the capacity, experience, and expertise to provide a delivery team to support the implementation and interrelated activities of this service. Orchestration of the SRA will shift to a more focussed delivery capability and stricter transformational and strategic alignment. This will require the SRA Enablement service to rapidly create, test, learn and prepare for scaling an SRA delivery model and “knitting pattern” and ‘interim feature-based’ approaches – ultimately transitioning to predominantly pattern-based delivery. This including technical guidance and education that enables development teams across all aspects of the Strategic Reference Architecture to deliver to aligned, enterprise-wide outcomes, maximising business-driven value. Orchestration includes:

Delivery Orchestration

- Co-create Defining a catalogue of knitting patterns based on high priority needs (with linked artefacts inc. sequence diagram, deliverability, process map etc.) aligned with component teams.
- Defining an interim feature-based approach for improving SRA consumption in the absence of scaling out the knitting patterns

Readiness Review Sessions

- Define, conduct and track readiness assessments with SRA delivery teams – both providers and consumer

- | | |
|--|---|
| | <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Document, produce and maintain summary reports with analysis from the readiness sessions. |
|--|---|

- Create, produce and maintain a tracker highlighting the number of sessions conducted and a “heatmap” of trends.
- Continually improving the approach to readiness sessions to maximise outcomes.

Knitting Patterns

- Identified gaps, document and validate the patterns against a sample set of benefits to understand adoptability.
- Providing recommendations and publicise how to increase adoptability of pattern i.e. scope changes to components.
- Initiating delivery of a knitting pattern between teams inc. ways of working, scope, team structure etc
- Building and showcasing a tracker to articulate the progress and totality of the defined patterns.

Management of Service

- Continuous measurement and analysis of trends of opportunity from the knitting patterns and readiness sessions.

Below are the specific requirements per stream.

Optimisation

The ‘knitting pattern’ SRA optimisation stream will seek to provide clarity and direction for the teams, via the coordination and creation of several ‘knitting patterns’ including, but not limited to, their recommended shape and structure, standards, solution architectures, ways of working, how work is prioritised, engagement practices, strategic alignment guidance etc as guided from previous SoW’s discovery phases. This stream of work requires delivery and service design SMEs as well as strong facilitators and business analysts to draw out common areas of need. The “knitting patterns” approach will firstly be defined and piloted with a few early adopter teams, selected based on a set of criteria and an understanding and agreement across the department on what areas and services to tackle first. These ‘test and learns’ as well as key items to be closed for the approach to be a success, will require delivery, facilitation and agile op-model skills provided as part of the service. Upon execution of the ‘test and learns’ the model, approach, guidance, and education will be reviewed and refined from the lessons learned, before preparation takes place to scale-out the model across the SRA.

The ambition is that the execution of this work will support the SRA delivery teams to deliver more efficiently and effectively throughout FY24/25, to better serve the evolving and emerging needs of DWP, aligned to the strategic intent of the SRA.

Acceleration

Working collaboratively; the Acceleration stream will create a clear and manageable pipeline of demand across the SRA by managing, accelerating, and swarming highly demanded SRA products to expedite delivery with the SRA Enablement service’s expertise when needed. This will require resources with skills in managing and aligning dependent teams with Scaled Agile Project Management techniques or equivalent.

Building out strategic adoption plans across each benefit line service, aligned to the existing feature-led approach (but mindful of convergence with knitting patterns), will enable the SRA Enablement service to funnel and manage demand across dependent teams (and future knitting patterns) and have a better understanding of what items of the SRA should be targeted first, allowing an impact assessment to be completed on dependent teams and a centralised backlog of highest demanded items to be established.

The Acceleration stream, co-ordinating with leading areas where applicable (CTO, Delivery Working Group attendees, Practice Leads, Heads of Role, Product Managers, and key SME leads etc) will be required to test, challenge and refine the existing ways of working, implementation and transition plans; evolving as it iterates and learn.

It is anticipated that current Acceleration focus will shift over Fy24/25 towards Optimisation as knitting patterns evolve and quickly mature.

3. BUYER REQUIREMENTS – SOW DELIVERABLES
