1. SERVICES REQUIREMENTS

(1.1) Services [and Deliverables] Required:

The Department first conducted a quantitative survey of private sector employers' pension provision in 1994. The survey's main aim was to build on existing qualitative evidence and gather quantitative information on the characteristics of organisations in the private sector in Great Britain which did and did not make pension provision arrangements for their employees. Since then a level of consistency between surveys has been maintained to permit comparisons to be made over time.

The workplace pension reforms aim to overcome the decision making inertia that currently characterises many individuals' attitudes towards pension saving and to make it easier for individuals to save for their retirement. The reforms require employers to automatically enrol all eligible workers aged between 22 and state pension age into a qualifying workplace pension scheme and contribute to it. Individuals can opt out once they have been enrolled if they wish.

In order to monitor the success of the reforms, a comprehensive evaluation is being carried out, which will utilise a wide range of data sources to monitor key outcomes. EPP 2017 will provide crucial data to inform the high-profile Review of Automatic Enrolment due to report in 2017, including for both the early activity on coverage/employer experiences, and post-2017 work regarding changes in contribution rates. The full evaluation strategy includes annual evaluation reports and official statistics.
