

战国

WARRING STATES

At the dawn of the Warring States around 475 BC, the state of Qin in the West is stronger than ever before but six powerful states are still a threat in the East: Han, Zhao, Wei, Chu, Yan and Qi. Their rulers are driven by greed for power and will not rest until one state conquers all.

Insert image caption. Insert image caption.
Insert image caption. Insert image caption.

© Palace Museum, Beijing

战国

WARRING STATES

At the dawn of the Warring States around 475 BC, the state of Qin in the West is stronger than ever before but six powerful states are still a threat in the East: Han, Zhao, Wei, Chu, Yan and Qi. Their rulers are driven by greed for power and will not rest until one state conquers all.

Insert image caption. Insert image caption.
Insert image caption. Insert image caption.

© Palace Museum, Beijing

Cross-section of the tomb mound viewed westwards showing the underground palace and tomb chamber