Action C1 - Undertake a Programme of Work to Prevent the Introduction of Novel IAS to “High Risk” Areas by Facilitating Positive Behaviour Change Amongst Water Asset Users (Action C.1.1- C1.3) to support the RAPID LIFE project.

1. Background

RAPID (Reducing And Preventing IAS Dispersal) LIFE is a three year project led by the Animal and Plant Health Agency (APHA), with Natural England and Bristol Zoo as key partners, that will pilot an innovative approach to Invasive Alien Species (IAS) management in freshwater aquatic, riparian and coastal environments across England.

Globally Invasive IAS are considered to be one of the most significant causes of biodiversity loss, second only to habitat destruction. RAPID LIFE will deliver a package of measures to reduce the impact and spread of IAS in freshwater aquatic, riparian and coastal environments across England. It will help to conserve species protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives, whilst assisting in compliance with the EU Regulation on IAS, Marine Strategy Framework Directive and the Water Framework Directive. The status of Natura 2000 sites will also be enhanced and protected.

RAPID LIFE will work in freshwater aquatic, riparian and coastal environments across England. To facilitate this approach England will be divided into five study regions (see attached map):

- North
- Midland
- East of England
- South East
- South West

The subject of this contract is to support delivery of Action C1 of the RAPID LIFE project - Undertake a programme of work to prevent the introduction of novel IAS to “high risk” areas by facilitating positive behaviour change amongst water asset users (Actions C.1.1- C1.3) to support the RAPID LIFE project.

The purpose of the RAPID LIFE Project is to improve IAS management across England and make it more strategic and coordinated. In an earlier action (A5), Regional Management Plans were produced to provide opportunities for stakeholders to work with a locally-based expert to identify the key actions to reduce the impact and spread of IAS in their region. This bridges the gap between high-level strategies (such as the GB IAS Strategy, see https://www.gov.uk/government/uploads/system/uploads/attachment_data/file/455526/gb-non-native-species-strategy-pb14324.pdf and action on the ground at a local level. RIMPs will consider both the prevention of new IAS and effective management of established IAS. In concert with other RAPID LIFE actions, RIMPs will deliver full spectrum planning for the management of IAS (prevention; early warning and rapid response; long term management). In addition, a web-based platform will be produced to support stakeholders in delivering the RIMPs (outside of this current contract).

This contract is to carry out conservation actions that will be in line with the RIMPs, with a focus on the “prevention” side of IAS management. Prevention is arguably the most important part of IAS management, as it is much easier to try and prevent a novel IAS from entering an environment, than to try and eradicate or control it once it has established. For this contract, the main focus of preventing novel IAS introduction will centre on positive behaviour change. This action will also concentrate its efforts on “high risk” sites, as identified through the RIMP planning process, so collaboration with the contractor of each region’s RIMP will be needed. This approach will allow biosecurity actions to be more targeted whilst embedding a more strategic approach to the management of well-established IAS.

The programme of work will include biosecurity workshops for water asset managers, erecting biosecurity signage and disseminating new biosecurity materials (as produced in RAPID LIFE’s action A1-A4) within their region.

Although the work of this contract will focus on RAPID LIFE’s target environments, the methodology developed and piloted can easily be adapted for use in other environments and geographical areas.

Animal & Plant Health Agency (APHA) will provide training packages, signage and other related biosecurity materials to contractors.

The specific requirement of this invitation to tender is for an expert(s) in East of England study region carry out three related actions:

- Biosecurity workshops targeted at water asset managers in high risk areas
- Placing of biosecurity good practice signage at suitable sites
- Dissemination of other related materials through suitable channels and distribution points

APHA will manage this contract and co-ordinate it with the contracts for the other four study regions to ensure that a consistent approach is adopted by the different contractors across all five regions. As part of the contract, each expert will:

- Deliver workshops in 6 high risk areas, 5 freshwater and 1 coastal, as identified in the RIMPs. They will be run using the materials produced as part of A6.1 and targeted at water asset managers. At least 20 managers are expected to attend each workshop and the workshop contractors will be expected to gather data on attendees using surveys provided by APHA. By the end of the freshwater workshop, the managers will be able to construct a simple plan to enhance their site’s biosecurity. The coastal workshops will be run in two sessions; the first to train managers in producing site specific plans and the second to share draft plans and actions to produce a final plan. (Note that the environment focus (coastal or freshwater) and the location of workshops are negotiable, depending on the high risk areas identified.) APHA will provide resources and support for workshop delivery. In addition to this, a survey form provided by APHA will be completed by stakeholders at each workshop at it will be the responsibility of the contractor to replicate this survey with as many of the same stakeholders as possible before the end of the RAPID LIFE project in 2020.

- Identify high risk areas for new signage and place at least 100 new signs in the region, 75 in freshwater areas and 25 in coastal ones. Areas can be identified using the RIMPs and also from the asset managers attending workshops. Contractors will be responsible for installing signage, logging locations and providing photographic evidence. (Note that the ratio between environments and locations of signs in freshwater and coastal areas are negotiable, depending on the high risk areas identified.) The signs will be provided by APHA.
- As required by the EU LIFE programme place 2 notice boards describing the RAPID LIFE Project in each region. Areas can be identified using the RIMPs, from the asset managers/water users attending workshops and will have to be approved by APHA. Contractors will be responsible for installing notice boards, logging locations and providing photographic evidence. (Note that the ratio between environments and locations of signs in freshwater and coastal areas are negotiable, depending on the high risk areas identified.) The notice boards will be provided by APHA.
- Disseminate other new biosecurity materials produced through A1-A4. Workshops may be used for some of this dissemination through asset managers' sites. The contractor is also encouraged to identify other key locations such as angling shops, marine chandleries, boat cleaning facilities or dive shops to approach as distribution points. Constructors must find a minimum of 50 sites within their region to form a network of distribution points that will remain in place after RAPID LIFE ends. Biosecurity materials will be provided by APHA.

The stakeholder workshops will follow the format presented in the IAS Management Toolkit, although the regional expert will be given scope to tailor the event so it is of interest to the maximum number of stakeholders in their region.

3. Outputs and contract management

The contractors will submit progress reports to APHA over the contract period to allow APHA to monitor progress and identify any issues.

4. Contractor experience

The contractor will have:

- In-depth knowledge of invasive non-native species issues, particularly locally/regionally
- In-depth knowledge of invasive non-native species ecology and management in freshwater, riparian and coastal ecosystems
- Knowledge of current invasive non-native species issues, management, relevant stakeholders and networks specific to your region
- Excellent interpersonal skills, team working and networking
- Experience of collaborating with a wide spectrum of locally/regionally relevant stakeholders
- Experience delivering training or workshops at a local/regional scale
