If we were to go for the tender is it a binding quote to say that we can deliver all the requirements within the budget or will there be a discussion from the outset, based on the plan, along the lines of what can be achieved for the budget? The reason being, that with signage and brochures, it becomes very difficult to imagine what the costs might be.	The successful agency will need to be capable of delivering the types of items outlined in the tender; this is no means an exhaustive list as items required over the contract period are yet to be determined. We estimate that 25% of the overall tender budget will be allocated to production costs.
