About Seafish

Seafish is a non-departmental public body (NDPB), set up to support the £10bn UK seafood industry from catch to plate. Our vision is for a seafood industry that is truly thriving and we use our unique position, right at the heart of the industry, to work in partnership with businesses, Government and other stakeholders to make progress together.

We're funded by a levy on the first sale of seafood in the UK which we use to deliver research, campaigns and events, business and industry support tools, information networks and training for the seafood industry.

Seafood is the way forward for business, our communities, the environment, and for personal health and wellbeing. Our aim at Seafish is to unite the industry behind a common purpose and build a common voice – we'll do this with a united team at our helm and the Seafish Corporate Plan as our compass, as we plot our course together.

What unites us?

The Seafish Four define who we are and what we stand for. They're our guiding principles; the attitudes and behaviours we demonstrate each working day, giving us collective purpose and direction. At Seafish, we are:

- Innovators; we explore new ideas.
- Enablers; we see opportunities and make sure things happen.
- Specialists; we're experts in our own fields.
- Team Players; we work together to deliver great results.

What helps us stay on course?

Our Corporate Plan provides us with direction and supports our rallying cry that seafood is the way forward. We've identified five key areas of focus within the plan, that we call Our Challenges. Each Challenge helps form our work programme and our annual plans:

1. Changing Landscape – addressing political, economic and regulatory challenges as the UK exists the EU.
2. Enjoy Fish – tackling stagnant consumer demand and strong competition from other protein and non-protein foods.
3. Safe and Skilled – competing with other food production sectors for access to a suitably skilled workforce, while addressing complex challenges around workplace safety.
4. Good Source and Supply – sourcing sustainable seafood in an increasingly competitive global market, alongside continued public concern over practices that compromise human welfare and the environment.

5. Deep Insight – successfully accessing the data, information and knowledge that will ensure the sector is equipped to understand and respond innovatively to a changing environment.

Seafish consumer marketing & 'Love Seafood'

Part of our overarching remit at Seafish is to ensure we have a consumer-facing marketing strategy that helps build upon UK consumption of seafood. Our consumer marketing work focusses predominantly on Challenge 2 (Enjoy Fish) from our Corporate Plan, with a desire to tackle stagnant consumer demand.

In 2019, with support and input from our Board and Sector Panels, we embarked on a journey to repurpose our consumer marketing strategy. Following declining consumption figures (particularly across retail), we're using our unique position as an NDPB (supporting industry, but not responsible for the sale of seafood), to build a revitalised strategy which places our consumer audiences and insights/research at the core. Instead of trying to directly impact sales, we're shifting our focus to, "positively impact consumer perceptions and attitudes towards seafood consumption".

Our strategy has formed the foundation of a proactive new initiative, which will bring industry together to fight the decline 'as one'; ensuring we're constantly engaging with key stakeholders to align our consumer marketing plans and efforts with theirs.

Through our strategic planning, we identified a great opportunity to create and cement a new brand platform which would support all of the above, and so 'Love Seafood' was born!

Seafood is currently the only protein with Public Health England-backed consumption guidelines. This provides us a strong foundation and ample ammunition to help reverse decline in seafood consumption, and radically change the lives of the nation, forever. We want people to live better. And we don't just mean health. It's about a life that's balanced, varied and full of possibility. By encouraging small changes, we can have huge impact.

We believe there's no better time for the UK to fall in love with seafood.

What (and who) are we looking for?

We're looking for a media planning and buying partner to support our consumer-facing marketing efforts and activity, by delivering against our set requirements within a budget of £265,000* across a period of 13 months (March 2020 to March 2021, inclusive; Year 1).

Following successful completion of project in March 2021, we plan to extend the activity for another 12 months, concluding in March 2022. We are calling this Year 2, which will be agreed and covered by a separate contract. Budget for Year 2 has not yet been confirmed, but will likely mirror indicative figures for Year 1.

We'll be releasing four Love Seafood-focussed Invitations to Tender in early 2020, which will require chosen partners to work closely together for collaborative delivery of all areas of our work. The four tenders will cover:

1. Media planning, buying and scheduling – including success measurement (KPI management)
2. Concept/campaign idea development and art direction
3. Content production; format delivery and optimisation/analysis
4. PR & Influencer – press briefing, media relations and influencer/partnership marketing (and analysis)

To deliver Love Seafood activity successfully, the media partner will be required to work closely with the Seafish marketing team, the Seafish Communications team, the Concept partner, the Content partner and the PR/Influencer partner.

We're ultimately looking for a partner who is able to offer the following, alongside embracing collaborative working and delivering against the requirements of the tender/eventual briefs:

- Shares similar cultural values to that of Seafish – and embraces the HOW as much as the WHAT.
- Looks at the WHY (strategic thinking), from all angles. Particularly, when it comes to understanding and applying the discipline of traditional planning, alongside marketing.
- Embraces what we already know about our audiences, and what our research is telling us – and helps build upon that, ensuring the consumer is at the centre of everything we do.
- Embraces a measured approach to success – understanding organisational objectives and being able to articulate ROI for Seafish at every turn.
- Offers a creative mindset – providing proactive solutions to challenges and changing demands, rather than relying upon a 'horse to water' approach.
- Understands the long-term approach to seafood marketing with consumer audiences. This is about changing hearts and minds over a long period of time (20 years) – so, it's important to build a partnership that will last, and develop ideas with longevity and vision.

Please note – budgets for FY2021 have not yet been finalised, therefore the amount above is indicative, and subject to change. Final budgetary amounts will be confirmed in March 2020.

Scope of project

Our new consumer initiative and brand, Love Seafood, is due to launch in the summer of 2020.

We'll be working across two traditional marketing models, with weighting of overall focus/spend as follows:

1. B2C (Millennials and Boomers*) – 80% focus.
2. B2B2C (Independents, Food Service, Processors and Retailers) – 20% focus.

More information on audiences and segmentation, available in next section.*

We have identified four main workstreams, which span the above models and will form the main areas of consumer campaign activity:

1. Seasonal – 35% workload.
2. Brand – 30% workload.
3. Fish & Chips – 20% workload.
4. Positive Industry – 15% workload.

Our workstreams have been created following development of our new marketing strategy. Alongside the requirement to centralise messaging and campaign creative (new brand), we have identified that we can increase budget effectiveness and audience engagement by running activity year-round (instead of ad-hoc). In this respect, Seasonal will be our 'always on' workstream – ensuring there is content and activity available for the audiences 24/7 – 365.

Fish & Chips has been identified as a key area for focus, due to its presence in market and the fact it's nation's favourite takeaway! It also acts as a 'consumer gateway' to consumption of other seafood, within foodservice and at home. It resonates well regionally, invoking positive emotional responses and engagement across the all home nations as a nostalgic favourite.

Positive Industry has grown off the back of consumer intrigue and concern around climate change, sustainability and other pressing global socio-economic issues. Identifying that there is a raft of misinformation and misrepresentation of the seafood industry, alongside confusion around industry practices and quality will form a core part of our workstream strategy – working closely with our Seafish corporate brand counterparts (Seafish Communications & PR) to ensure there's positive industry content and information for consumers to receive and embrace.

In terms of workload weighting, we would like Seasonal to receive the largest focus/spend, due to it's always-on nature – closely followed by Brand, which will require solid investment in its first year (to set foundations). Fish & Chips follows, with Positive Industry, as two areas requiring focus/spend, but not in the same depth as the others. Positive Industry sits just behind Fish & Chips as we'll need to tread carefully/lightly to begin with; testing the waters with consumers around contentious topics and areas.

See Appendix 6 for more information on our proposed workstream activity timings.

IMPORTANT – the Seafish marketing team will work very closely with industry through our newly formed ‘Love Seafood Group’, represented by members from businesses across the industry supply chain. Our aim is to gauge and absorb feedback for structuring our activity calendar around these four workstreams and defined audiences. We will expect all chosen partners to support our approach in ensuring our stakeholders are on-board with our activity plans, once formed.

Project objectives

Our overarching, industry-wide objective for (20 year ambition with Love Seafood at the centre) is:
“To support the doubling of seafood consumption in the UK to two portions per person a week.”

Love Seafood will support this by:

“Positively impacting consumer perceptions and attitudes towards seafood consumption.”

This ultimately means influencing hearts and minds through our new brand/platform. Our shorter-term goals for achieving this are:

1. Drive pan-UK awareness of Love Seafood from XX% to XX% by March 2021*.
2. Increase consumer understanding of reasons to buy (balanced living, choice and convenience) from XX% to XX% by March 2021*.
3. Increase consumer consideration and desire to eat more seafood, more often from XX% to XX% by March 2021*.

All values to be completed in collaboration with partners, once benchmarks have been set.

Project audiences and insights

Who are we targeting with our Love Seafood initiative and associated activity?

Our audiences have been pre-determined by our current Corporate Plan – and represent the two groups with the most buying power, penetration or influence over the next five+ years. As our marketing strategy and brand have been built with audience flexibility in mind, we have worked with Experian to segment the current cohorts – ensuring we’re able to target each audience and its sub-types directly and effectively.

- Millennials – those born between 1981 and 1996 (inclusive)
- Baby Boomers – those born between 1946 and 1964 (inclusive)

See Appendix 4 for more detail of our six Experian audience segments.

What do we already know about these audiences, through research and insights?

Audience insights are complemented by our consumer research, which adds depth to the segments; addressing some of the existing barriers to seafood consumption – and defining new challenges. Our State of the Nation research from 2018, partnered with our audience insights and segments from Experian sit at the core of our marketing strategy and brand development.

See Appendix 5 for UK consumer insights, which have helped drive our marketing strategy and creation of the Love Seafood initiative.

Project deliverables/requirements

What do we require our media partner to deliver?

We want to ensure we're engaging with our target audiences on the channels they interact with every day, and measuring the impact. So, we're looking for the following top-level deliverables:

- Nine-month media plan for Love Seafood, for Year 1 (July 2020 thru March 2021).
- Nine months' cross-channel media booking and scheduling for ALL Love Seafood activity, with transparency on all agency commission, for Year 1 (July 2020 thru March 2021). This should cover two major areas:
 - Digital advertising – considering, but not limited to:
 - Social media (paid advertising/boosted content)
 - Online display
 - Email
 - OOH
 - Streaming services
 - SEO & PPC
 - Traditional advertising – considering, but not limited to:
 - Outdoor
 - Print/press

channels identified, after Love Seafood launches, spanning Year 1.

- Collaborative working plan (regular discussions/meetings) created with Seafish and other partner agencies responsible for managing media and content production, to ensure synergy and consistency with all output.

Project measurement & evaluation

IMPORTANT: For this tender, providing direction on an approach to (and system for) measuring success against activity is a key deliverable; both benchmarking, and ongoing analysis.

'Awareness', 'understanding', 'consideration' & 'desire' are the measurable objectives at the heart of the Love Seafood marketing strategy.

- We would like our chosen media (and PR) partners to play a pivotal role in setting the values for the short-term goals mentioned earlier in this document – and provide knowledge and steer on further, activity-focussed KPIs for each of the workstreams and campaigns defined.

Traditionally, we have focussed our marketing activity efforts around winter – due to spikes in seafood sales during this period. Whilst we’re looking to move to an ‘always on’ campaign approach, we’d like to work with the tide and current consumer purchase behaviour. This is why October 2020 thru February 2021 is where most proposed activity sits.

We should look to dial up/down activity based on audience engagement, reaction and behaviours, as each of the workstreams and campaigns within develops.
