21 The special conditions that apply to this Contract are:

STATEMENT OF ADVERTISING POLICY

Introduction

1. The Statement of Advertising Policy for the Authority's publications & associated products sets out guidelines on the types and content of display advertising that may appear.
2. The Contractor shall ensure that all his staff members engaged on selling advertising are thoroughly conversant, and comply strictly at all times, with the guidelines contained in this statement.
3. The Designated Officer will have discretion regarding the acceptance or refusal of advertisements in the publications, based on his knowledge of its circulation and readership. These guidelines provide overall guidance within which the Contractor is to apply his discretion to ensure compliance with the Ministry of Defence view on key policy issues.

General Guidelines

4. All advertisements accepted for publication shall conform to the regulations published by the Advertising Standards Authority. Whilst there is a requirement for advertising revenue to be maximised, publications must never carry any form of display or loose insert advertising that may reflect badly on the good name and standing of the Ministry of Defence. The Designated Officer (DO) will be responsible for defining, on a case by case basis, what is acceptable in terms of taste, propriety and any current sensitivity. The DO shall have full recourse to seek advice from the appropriate specialist staffs within the Service whenever he judges that such advice should be sought.

Vetting of Advertisements

5. In order that the Designated Officer can meet his responsibilities to ensure the acceptability of advertisements, the Contractor is to submit a proof of any prospective display or loose insert advertisement to the Designated Officer for clearance before it is accepted for publication. Similarly, any proposed change to the imagery or wording of an on-going advertisement is also to be submitted for the Designated Officers clearance.

Particular Guidelines

6. Tobacco Products. Advertisements for cigarettes and other tobacco products shall not be accepted. In addition, no articles or pictures are to include or show direct tobacco advertising or sponsorship by a tobacco products' company.
7. Alcoholic Products. Advertising of alcoholic products is prohibited.
8. Financial/Insurance Services. Only national banks, national building societies and finance or insurance companies that are members of regulatory organisations such as the Financial & Insurance Services Association (FISA) or Personal Investment Authority (PIA) and operate under the provision of the Consumer Credit Act may advertise their services in the publications. Excepting the above types of companies, any proposed advertisements from finance or insurance companies are to be referred to the Designated Officer, for vetting prior to their publication. In all cases, the published advertisement must show details of the regulatory authority of which it is a member.

9. 'Adult Services'. Advertising of 'adult' material, including catalogues of 'adult' services is not to be taken.
10. 'Glamour' Photos. It is possible that in covering Service events, such as a morale-boosting trip made by a glamour model to troops overseas, photographs may be taken of the model surrounded by Servicemen. The publication of such photographs is acceptable so long as the model is not topless or posing in a suggestive manner. Moreover, the Designated Officer should consider the news value of such photographs, the potential for offence and the image it portrays of today's MOD to external readers. The same considerations apply to male 'glamour' photographs.
11. Politically Partisan Organisations. Advertising that is politically partisan is not to be accepted. Requests for advertisements from groups that are critical of Government policy should be handled with care and, before acceptance or refusal, the advertisement must be referred to the DO for decision.
12. Procurement Advertising: General advertising by companies in the defence industry, promoting either their image or a specific product, including products that may be the subject of a current MOD equipment procurement requirement, is normally acceptable, subject to the following provisions:
- The advertising contractor will not directly solicit advertising business related to a specific MOD procurement competition, but the Designated Officer is required, through periodically publishing information to give all interested companies an equal opportunity to see and apply for future opportunities.
  - The Designated Officer will ensure that any advertisements related to a specific competition are treated in the same way, including decisions on acceptance for publication, as those submitted by rival companies. As noted in paragraph 4 above all advertising materials are to be routinely submitted for inspection by the Designated Officer for clearance.
  - No advertisement will be accepted that criticises, or could be seen to criticise, however obliquely, products or services provided by any other company.
