CALL-OFF DELIVERABLES

Head of Product Management

Duration: 5 months, based on a charge rate of £1,100 per day.

The Head of Product Management provides strategic leadership of the CPS' casework products as we build and improve user-centric digital services to support our mission-critical functions. The role will lead the development of standards, practices and skills of product managers, enabling innovation and agility, ensuring that our digital projects meet user needs, provide assurance around the management of public money and adhere to the highest standards of risk management – particularly in security.

Responsibilities will encompass the strategic oversight of a suite of casework products, the leadership of a dedicated team of product managers (including third party consultancies working on our behalf), and the assurance of our adherence to cross-government approaches to product management.

The Head of Product Management will also play a critical role in the leadership of the Digital and Information Directorate, working with fellow heads of profession to run the technical governance of the Directorate, by contributing to Service Standard assessments, the Technical Design Authority and setting the strategic direction of the Directorate through the shaping OKRs (objective and key results).
