HSCNAs & EHIAs into H&J services across the South East
Contracts Finder – Additional Information

Additional text

HSCNA is a systematic method for reviewing the health and social care issues facing a population, leading to agreed priorities and resource allocation that will improve health and reduce inequalities (NICE, 2005). HSCNAs play an important part in guiding an organisation in effectively balancing their efforts in achieving the goals and objectives specific to their strategic direction alongside the government policy and direction of the time.

The provider will be expected to deliver (as a minimum):

- A description of the population at the relevant establishment including information and detail about the cohort demographics, as applicable
- A description of the current health provision for patients and wider health promotion activity; this will include direct reference to hours of operation; utilisation of service offers; nature of service delivery.
- An investigation of the full range of health needs and report on the epidemiology of health problems experienced by patients compared to the general population and also to patients in other similar secure settings
- A detailed report on the demand for prescribed medication, including: types of medication; level of demand.
- A gap analysis between current service provisions, needs of the population, best practice, effective interventions and national care standards.
- Service User feedback to hear the views of patients who use healthcare and try and understand any barriers of unmet need.
- Identify and report on organisational barriers to the delivery of current/proposed models of care.
- Formulate recommendations for existing pathway improvements and opportunities for onsite care to reduce the need for external appointments
- To obtain user and staff perceptions on current service provision and how services can be improved, and explore and report on the attitudes towards the delivery and effectiveness of healthcare in each setting through interviews with staff, service users, internal/external service providers and where possible carers, families and advocates
- To use robust research methodology, including statistical modelling and analysis to compare the health of those in secure settings with sensible comparator groups in the community and in other establishments
- A report on the equality of healthcare services access and provision in relation to the core equality strands (e.g. race, disability, age, religion and sexual orientation) and complete an Equality Impact Assessment; include specific reference to the utilisation of mental health provision by Black, Asian, Minority and Ethnic (BAME) groups.
- To make recommendations on future service developments.

- Review the staffing profile against need, business continuity, recruitment and retention and resources.

The EHIA will assess the equality of healthcare service delivery within a secure estate and identify which groups are disadvantaged as well providing actions to improve service delivery for those groups. Please find guidance attached

Developing EHIA's
Guidance Notes Mai

The provider will be expected to (as a minimum):
