Annex 2 – Specification

1. PURPOSE

- 1.1 As part of a wider overhaul of guidance on The Regulatory Reform (Fire Safety) Order 2005 – the Fire Safety Order (FSO) - the Home Office is seeking to commission an external supplier to produce new guidance and update existing guides. The guidance subject to this tender (Tranche 2) is intended to support the laying of any secondary legislation made under the FSO to implement relevant Grenfell Tower Inquiry Phase 1 recommendations following the outcome of the Fire Safety Consultation. This guidance will be needed in Q1 of 2021 when it is intended that the secondary legislation will be laid before Parliament.

2. BACKGROUND TO THE HOME OFFICE

- 2.1 The Fire Safety Unit (FSU) sits within the Fire and Resilience Directorate of the Home Office, which has overall responsibility for fire safety policy and messaging.
- 2.2 The Fire Safety Unit itself was created following the tragic Grenfell Tower Fire. Its role is to work closely with stakeholders to ensure fire safety legislation is amended where needed, so that people are properly protected from fire and can feel safe in their homes. FSU is also working closely with MHCLG, which is leading reforms to building safety with a particular focus on high-rise residential blocks of flats.
- 2.3 To enable any legislative changes to take effect on the ground, FSU established an implementation programme which includes a workstream focussing on guidance and the FSO Guidance Steering Group (GSG). GSG members represent government and external stakeholders. It is chaired by the head of FSU. The GSG acts as an advisory board to inform Ministers on all matters related to the overhaul of FSO guidance.

3. BACKGROUND TO REQUIREMENT/OVERVIEW OF REQUIREMENT

- 3.1 On 14th June 2017 a fire broke out in the 24 storey Grenfell Tower block. This fire directly caused 71 deaths. The Grenfell Tower fire represents the greatest loss of life from a residential fire in a century.
- 3.2 The morning after, the then Prime Minister announced there would be a Public Inquiry to investigate the circumstances surrounding the fire. In October 2019, the Grenfell Tower Inquiry Phase 1 Report was published.

- 3.3 It focussed on events of the night of the terrible fire and examined the organisation and response of the London Fire Brigade. The Government published a written response to the Phase 1 Report on 21 January 2020.
- 3.4 The Government's written response to the Phase One Report referenced the Fire Safety Bill (FSB), which is currently progressing through Parliament. The purpose of the Bill is to clarify the scope of the FSO as applying to the structure, external walls (including cladding and balconies), individual flat entrance doors between domestic premises and the non-domestic parts of multi occupied residential premises.
- 3.5 The Bill will create a firm foundation to enable the Government to lay regulations which deliver the legislative recommendations contained within the Grenfell Tower Inquiry Phase 1 Report. These include, but are not limited to, requiring building owners or managers to share information on External Wall Systems (EWSs) with Fire & Rescue Services, regularly inspect lifts and flat entrance doors, and provide fire safety instructions to building occupants. Following the outcome of the Fire Safety Consultation (published on 20th July 2020) the Home Office proposes to lay secondary legislation to deliver the relevant recommendations.
- 3.6 To support these and potential future legislative changes, the FSU is looking to overhaul the entire suite of guidance on the FSO. This is to ensure guidance adequately supports existing and potential future legislative changes to the FSO to assist those with responsibilities under the FSO to discharge their duties as well as Enforcing Authorities who enforce the FSO.
- 3.7 Consequently, the GSG has identified what new guidance may be needed and which of the existing guides should be updated. The complete content of some of this guidance is still to be established as it will depend on the outcome of the Consultation and subsequent policy decisions. The GSG also categorised and estimated when each updated guide and new piece of guidance should be ready, splitting them into three tranches:
- 3.7.1 Tranche 1 – New and updated guidance published deemed necessary to support Royal Assent of the FSB (estimated Nov/Dec 2020)
- 3.7.2 Tranche 2 – New and updated guidance published deemed necessary to support the laying of any secondary legislation made under the FSO to implement relevant Grenfell Tower Inquiry Phase 1 recommendations following the outcome of the Fire Safety Consultation (estimated Q1 2021).
- 3.7.3 Tranche 3 – New and updated guidance published deemed necessary to support any legislative changes to the FSO made in the Building Safety Bill and to complete the overhaul of the whole suite of HMG guidance on the FSO (estimated Q4 2021).

- 3.8 The requirement of this tender is for all the guidance that will be published as part of Tranche 2 only. For this tranche, the GSG concluded none of its members had the expertise and resources to undertake the work. Therefore, the Home Office is seeking to procure a supplier to produce this guidance.

4. DEFINITIONS AND ACRONYMS

Expression or Acronym	Meaning
Building Safety Bill	The bill was published in draft in July 2020 and is intended to put in place new and enhanced regulatory regimes for building safety and construction products, as well as ensuring residents have a stronger voice in the system
Fire Safety Consultation	The Fire Safety Consultation seeks views on proposals to strengthen the FSO, implement relevant recommendations from the Phase 1 Report of the Grenfell Tower Inquiry and to strengthen the regulatory framework for how building control bodies consult with fire and rescue authorities.
Fire Safety Order	This is shorthand for the ' Regulatory Reform (Fire Safety) Order 2005 ' – the legislation which underpins fire safety in non-domestic premises which extends to England and Wales.
FSB	The Fire Safety Bill – a Home Office bill currently progressing through parliament which clarifies the scope of the FSO.
FSO	The Fire Safety Order – the key primary legislation underpinning fire safety in non-domestic premises in England and Wales.

Updating Existing FSO Guidance	To update a guide, it is intended that the supplier will undertake two broad tasks:

	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Amend the existing guide where changes are required to support any new regulations implementing the Grenfell Tower Inquiry recommendations. 2. Go through the existing guide, line-by-line, to ensure it effectively supports compliance with the FSO.

5. THE REQUIREMENT

5.1 To deliver Tranche 2 of the FSO Guidance overhaul, the supplier is expected to produce new guidance and updates to existing guides. The guidance would apply to England & Wales.

5.2 New Guidance:

5.2.1 A 'How To' Guide for Responsible Persons (PDF Format)

5.2.1.1 A short (around 25 - 40 pages), accessible guide - written in simple language to assist a Responsible Person of any level of experience/expertise to discharge their duties under the FSO.

5.2.1.2 There are potential ways in which the guide can do this. For example, written information or interactive elements and links to more detailed guidance where necessary. The Home Office is open for the supplier to seek and suggest innovative ways to convey the information within the guide.

5.2.1.3 The supplier is responsible for identifying, in consultation with the Home Office, where interactive pages of the guide could be of most use and the content that would need to be conveyed. Home Office will develop the interactive elements of the guide, including the format and how it is presented.

5.2.1.4 The supplier is responsible for identifying all the duties, and resulting actions, any Responsible Person could be required to undertake under the FSO. The guide should explain how to complete these actions (where possible, see 5.2.1.6). This is to ensure the guide is comprehensive.

5.2.1.5 Examples of the topics this guide should cover include how to i) complete a Fire Risk Assessment, ii) mitigate fire risks, iii) develop Personal Emergency Evacuation Plans, iv) comply with information sharing requirements, and v) fulfil duties to cooperate with other Responsible Persons. This is not an exhaustive list and is dependent on the outcome of the Fire Safety Consultation and any regulations made. The supplier is expected identify all such topics (see 5.2.1.4), not just those listed above.

- 5.2.1.6 All Responsible Persons should be able to use this guide, no matter their level of fire safety knowledge or size or complexity of premises. Where more detail is required to meet obligations, such as those of a Responsible Person in a more complex premises, this guide should include links to further appropriate guidance but ensure high-level clarity on what is expected overall. The supplier is not expected to develop this more detailed guidance.

5.2.2 Implementation Guidance – secondary legislation (PDF Format)

- 5.2.2.1 This is intended to be a 2-part guide. Both parts should make clear where any new regulations impose precautions that must be taken to ensure fire safety in specific premises subject to the FSO. The first should be a high-level summary of the practical implications of the regulations. It should be brief and accessible.
- 5.2.2.2 The second part should be more in-depth, providing the details needed to comply with the new regulations made through the secondary legislation and implications for non-compliance. New or changed precautions to ensure fire safety, that must be taken by stakeholders, should be set out in detail.
- 5.2.2.3 The Home Office will provide the supplier with information, once it is available after policy decisions have been made following the Fire Safety Consultation and in confidence, on what exact changes are anticipated. This is to ensure the document is drafted accurately.

5.3 Existing government Guides that will require updates:

- 5.3.1 A Short Guide to Making your Premises Safe from Fire
- 5.3.2 Fire Safety Risk Assessment Checklist
- 5.3.3 Regulatory Reform \(Fire Safety\) Order 2005 guidance note no.1: enforcement

5.3.4 Fire Safety in Purpose-Built Blocks of Flats¹

- 5.4 The supplier is responsible for undertaking detailed research to identify in detail any areas of improvement required with the guides in 5.3 and updating (in line with the description in Section 4) them accordingly. The updates should go beyond ensuring the guides are consistent with the FSO as amended via the Fire Safety Bill and any secondary legislation implementing the Grenfell Phase 1 report recommendations. The supplier should also seek to 'improve' the guides and develop innovative solutions as to how this can be done. Proposals on existing and new guidance have been made in the Fire Safety Consultation. Policy decisions following the consultation's conclusion in mid-October 2020 will need to be reflected.
- 5.5 The new and updated guidance set out above should be ready for publication when secondary legislation made under the FSO is laid in Parliament following the outcome of the Fire Safety Consultation. The Home Office estimates this will occur in Quarter 1 of 2021.
- 5.6 All guidance produced, both new and updated, should reflect the FSO as it would stand after the FSB comes into force and any secondary legislation made under the FSO is approved.
- 5.7 The guidance you are being asked to draft is for use in England. At various stages in the production process, Welsh Government will amend the guidance for their use in Wales.
- 5.8 The Home Office will organise a stakeholder engagement process on initial drafts of the new and updated guidance. The supplier must actively participate in this stakeholder engagement; identifying and engaging relevant stakeholders (e.g. those representing Responsible Persons) and attending meetings/workshops that are organised. It is desirable, but not essential, for the supplier to take an even more active role in the stakeholder engagement by coordinating outreach and organising meetings/workshops.
- 5.9 The supplier is also responsible for redrafting guidance following the stakeholder engagement, after agreeing changes with the GSG and Fire Safety Unit. The same responsibility to redraft guidance applies at certain milestones in the production timeline [see Section 6].
- 5.10 The Home Office requires a close working relationship with the supplier. The supplier is responsible for providing regular written progress updates to the Home Office and attending the GSG, who provide governance of the guidance workstream.

- 5.11 New guidance produced should be in PDF form that is word searchable. The Home Office is reviewing and will supply a format. Existing guidance that is updated should retain its original format. Home Office will provide instructions on how to ensure amendments to existing guides are clearly identified to users.
- 5.12 The supplier is responsible for redrafting or amending any guidance produced up to 6 months after publication during a 'Review Period'.
- 5.13 The supplier is not responsible for the following:
- 5.13.1 Leading on the organisation of a stakeholder engagement process with stakeholders on the new and updated guidance it produces.
 - 5.13.2 Organising a peer review of the new and updated guidance it produces.
 - 5.13.3 Developing a format for the new guidance or format for highlighting changes in existing guidance.
- 5.14 This second tranche of FSO guidance is one element of a wider overhaul. Tranche 3 is anticipated to be a much larger piece of work with the aim of ensuring all guidance related to the FSO is up-to-date, clarifying associations with building regulations where necessary, and providing guidance on any amendments made to the FSO in the Building Safety Bill. We plan to put out a tender for this work in due course.
