A. THE SPECIFICATION

Background

The FSA has undertaken a range of horizon scanning and foresight activities in the past, but has recently consolidated this activity within a Strategic Insights Team (SIT) in the Analytics Unit of the Science, Evidence, and Research Directorate (SERD). The SIT acts as an all-source assessment cell, providing situational awareness, and identifying opportunities and challenges from the current and future operating environment to the achievement of the FSA mission. The team works hand in hand with the Strategy Unit and other areas of the FSA to help identify responses and policy options. The FSA mission and vision are:

- Food is safe
- Food is what it says it is
- Consumers can make informed choices about what to eat
- Consumers have access to an affordable diet, now and in the future (only in Northern Ireland).

We have initially identified a number of issues that have recently emerged for which further information is needed to understand the impact on the FSA mission and its ability to achieve that. This research requirement covers two separate areas, alternative proteins for human consumption, and personalised nutrition.

Alternative proteins broadly describe protein sources that are eaten as an alternative to meat, whether a diet is completely or partially meat free. These often (although not exclusively) seek to replicate the experience of eating meat in terms of taste and texture. There is already an extensive market in alternative protein materials, such as grain-based materials reprocessed to resemble meat in the form of sausages and burgers, or materials such as tofu. However two trends in particular are emerging in the alternative proteins market for human consumption in the UK:

- The introduction of new natural base materials for alternative proteins, such as peas, algae and insects. Although some of these may have been consumed elsewhere in the world, they tend to be new to the UK market, and there is a limited understanding of the extent to which they will be able to penetrate the UK market, what a large-scale production process might involve, and the potential for any long-term health impacts from their regular consumption.
- The introduction of laboratory cultivated meat. This is currently being produced by a relatively small number of start-ups, with no large-scale commercial availability as yet. We are also seeing similar approaches to the production of fish and dairy materials.

Both of these trends have the potential to have a dramatic impact on the UK food system, with drivers for their adoption being primarily based around perceptions of them being more sustainable, and healthy and nutritious alternatives to meat. However, there are still considerable questions around the likely nutritional profile, the extent to which they do represent genuinely sustainable choices, their cost, risks that might result from production processes and long-term consumption, and consumer acceptability. While the FSA is well placed to understand the likely consumer acceptability of these foods, the other elements are less well understood.

Personalised nutrition is a field with considerable uncertainties regarding its scope, impact, and future development. Broadly speaking personalised nutrition could be considered the deliberate adaptation of diet and nutritional intake based on an individuals or groups particular characteristics for the purpose of improved health outcomes. This might be through supplements or food additives, or through more general changes in diet. For some individuals and groups (e.g., elite athletes, sufferers of medical conditions) some degree of personalisation of nutrition is already in place, but in the majority of cases this is predicated upon an understanding of how broad categories of individuals have different nutritional requirements, and quite specific end goals.

As well as specific products, a range of services are also offered that claim to provide some form of personalised diet and nutrition, sometimes based around some form of genetic testing, and/or recording of metrics relating to physiology, diet and exercise.

The extent to which personalised nutrition will develop to be able to take account of an individual's physiology (e.g., variances in the gut microbiome, DNA profile) for the purposes of improving general health is unclear. A recent expert elicitation exercise identified a broad range of opinions regarding the potential of personalised nutrition. The responses fitted within a broad arc of possibilities. The more optimistic was that personalised nutrition would provide substantial health benefits with diet and nutrition able to be personally tailored to suit individual's needs for a broad sweep of the population. The most negative perceptions centred around a belief that our understanding of nutrition was sufficiently deep already that it was unlikely that significant advances in the field that would support any substantial improvements for individual's diet, with a concern over the potential for misleading claims.

Another issue raised in the expert elicitation exercise was the extent to which the personalised nutrition industry might present risks to consumers through provision of unsafe products, either in their own right, or through poor advice leading to an unsafe or poor overall diet. Products that have exaggerated claims or where consumers do not fully understand the implications of their consumption are also issues of concern.

The Specification

The two research questions are distinct and it is expected that there will be two separate outputs.

Alternative proteins overview

Tenders are invited to carry out an assessment of the development of alternative proteins for human consumption within the UK over the next 10 years. Particular questions to be answered are:

- What types of alternative protein will become available over the period and in what timescales?
- How commercially viable are they likely to be bearing in mind issues such as production and retail cost and consumer acceptability/desirability?

- Are there any specific risks to consumers that might be associated with the production and consumption of these products?
- To what extent are the various alternative proteins able to provide more sustainable and climate friendly food than current main sources of protein?

Methodology

Methodology is not prescribed. It is expected that a large element of desk-based research will be required; should interview or elicitation workshops be required the FSA will assist with providing suitable participant contacts as necessary.

Review meetings will be agreed at the start of the project to monitor progress as required, with an initial draft of the report to be provided to the FSA for review prior to publication.

Output

The output will be a written report. The report must be suitable for publication by the FSA (meeting the FSA's accessibility and branding requirements – more detail to be provided upon agreement of tender). The final report will be published in line with our Code of Practice on Openness, and it will be used internally to inform management and strategic decision making as well as to engage others in our horizon scanning and foresight projects.

The report should include:

- Executive summary or key findings from the research and analysis.
- Detailed narrative describing the findings.
- Identification of priority areas that require further research and analysis to inform FSA activities and priorities.
- Recommendations for actions by the FSA.

Personalised nutrition overview

Tenders are invited to carry out an assessment of the impact of personalised nutrition on food safety and consumer choice in the UK. This should provide a benchmark of the current state of the personalised nutrition industry, and a forward look of how the industry might evolve over the next ten years. Specific questions to be addressed are:

- What does the current market for personalised nutrition look like in terms of its offerings and consumer reach?
- What is the current state of scientific understanding underpinning the personalised nutrition industry? For example, considering the potential for our understanding of the impact of the gut microbiome on individuals health and nutrition - is there consensus on our understanding of its function and implications, and if not, what are the key areas of disagreement and uncertainty and their potential impact on the development of consumer products?
- What are the likely trends in how personalised nutrition will evolve in the next 10 years? What are the potential barriers and accelerants to its development?
- What are the current food safety risks (if any) from the personalised nutrition industry?
- How might the likely changes in the personalised nutrition industry impact on food safety risk?
- How might the likely changes in the personalised nutrition industry affect food regulation? What steps might the FSA need to take to protect consumers, both through ensuring food safety, and supporting any positive benefits to be derived from personalised nutrition?

Methodology

Methodology is not prescribed. It is expected a large element of desk-based research will be required; should interview or elicitation workshops be required the FSA will assist with providing suitable participant contacts as necessary.

Review meetings will be agreed at the start of the project to monitor progress as required, with an initial draft of the report to be provided to the FSA for review prior to publication.

Output

The output will be a written report. The report must be suitable for publication by the FSA (meeting the FSA's accessibility and branding requirements – more detail to be provided upon agreement of tender). The final report will be published in line with our Code of Practice on Openness, and it will be used internally to inform management and strategic decision making as well as to engage others in our horizon scanning and foresight projects.

The report should include:

- Executive summary or key findings from the research and analysis.
- Detailed narrative describing the findings.
- Identification of priority areas that require further research and analysis to inform FSA activities and priorities.
- Recommendations for actions by the FSA.

Openness:

FSA has values and specific policy on being open and transparent, which includes publishing the full dataset of its research and surveillance studies. Both the lead contractor and their sub-contractors must agree to this openness policy. Any potential issues with this should be highlighted within the proposals.

General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR):

Tenderers should also note that the EU's General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) was introduced in the UK from the 25th of May 2018. Tenderers are therefore asked to consider what additional measures may need to be taken in order to comply with the new regulatory regime for data protection and to include in their proposals an explanation of how they intend to implement these measures.

In particular, the processor (the lead contractor) must:

The Short form Contract

- process the personal data only on the documented instructions of the Controller (the FSA);
- comply with security obligations equivalent to those imposed on the Controller (implementing a level of security for the personal data appropriate to the risk);
- ensure that persons authorised to process the personal data have committed themselves to confidentiality or are under an appropriate statutory obligation of confidentiality;
- only appoint Sub-processors (any sub-contractors) with the Controller's prior specific or general written authorisation, and impose the same minimum terms imposed on it on the Sub-processor; and the original Processor will remain liable to the Controller for the Sub-processor's compliance. The Sub-processor must provide sufficient guarantees to implement appropriate technical and organisational measures to demonstrate compliance. In the case of general written authorisation, Processors must inform Controllers of intended changes in their Sub-processor arrangements;
- make available to the Controller all information necessary to demonstrate compliance with the obligations laid down in Article 28 GDPR and allow for and contribute to audits, including inspections, conducted by the Controller or another auditor mandated by the Controller - and the Processor shall immediately inform the controller if, in its opinion, an instruction infringes GDPR or other EU or member state data protection provisions;
- assist the Controller in carrying out its obligations with regard to requests by data subjects to exercise their rights under chapter III of the GDPR, noting different rights may apply depending on the specific legal basis for the processing activity (and should be clarified by the Controller up-front);
- assist the Controller in ensuring compliance with the obligations to implementing a level of security for the personal data appropriate to the risk, taking into account the nature of processing and the information available to the Processor;
- assist the Controller in ensuring compliance with the obligations to carry out Data Protection Impact Assessments, taking into account the nature of processing and the information available to the Processor; and
- notify the Controller without undue delay after becoming aware of a personal data breach.

At this moment in time, the FSA does not envisage the need to collect any personal data as part of this study.

TENDER REFERENCE FS 430887

PROPOSED START DATE 3rd January, 2022

PROPOSED END DATE 31st March, 2022

1: TENDER SUMMARY AND OBJECTIVES

A. TENDER SUMMARY

Please give a brief summary of the proposed work in no more than 400 words.

This proposal offers to deliver two reports to the FSA covering the current scientific evidence around the state of play as well as trends in two different emerging food areas: Alternative Proteins and Personalised Nutrition. The methodology used will be one of rapid evidence assessment to deliver broad assessment of significant scientific claims, their risks and potential benefits for consumers, and possible regulatory considerations as a result. More specifically, for each emerging area, we will report on:

1. Risks and potential impact of current scientific trends on FSA (including timeframes and urgency) in each of the areas.
2. Benefits and opportunities for FSA to regulate/intervene/guide the market
3. Sustainability. There is increasing interest in this subject and its role as an important market driver, but we recognise that in-depth assessment of sustainability of production processes and products is difficult within the

The Short form Contract

 - Name of the client who commissioned the project?
- Details of any collaborative partners and their contribution
 - The value
 - A brief description of the work carried out.
- How the example(s) demonstrate the relevant skills and/or expertise.

Name and Role of Person where known/ Role of person to be recruited	Working hours per staff member on this project

5: PROJECT MANAGEMENT

Please fully describe how the project will be managed to ensure that objectives and deliverables will be achieved on time and on budget. Please describe how different organisations/staff will interact to deliver the desired outcomes.

Highlight any in-house or external accreditation for the project management system and how this relates to this project.

The team is experienced in delivering this type of project to quality, budget and time. The lead has over 15 years leading grant funded projects as PI/Research Lead and the team has already delivered 2 such projects to the FSA in 2021. The project scope, milestones and deliverables are defined in this document, will be further refined and presented for approval to the FSA within 2 weeks of starting the project, a mid-term presentation will allow for progress assessment as well as ensuring that FSA expectations are being met, and draft final report will ensure that the report is delivered on time and to spec, as expected. To hit the milestones, the team will work together as follows:

1. Initial meetings with [REDACTED] and Personalised Nutrition expert to identify the key literature, critical streams of work and potential challenges as areas of divergent scientific evidence.
2. [REDACTED] will work together to identify, review, and synthesise the systematic literature review studies, structure and write up their findings.
3. Findings and evolving structure will be shared with [REDACTED] on a weekly basis. This will serve to ensure that progress is monitored and fresh expertise is brought in to sense check as well as co-create the findings and develop the regulatory recommendations.
4. Draft report shared with [REDACTED] and Personalised Nutrition expert for review and feedback.
5. FSA and expert feedback incorporated into the final report

6. RISK MANAGEMENT

In the table provided, please identify all relevant risks in delivering this project on time and to budget. Briefly outline what steps will be taken to minimise these risks and how they will be managed by the project team. Please add more lines as required

Identified risk	Likelihood of risk (high, medium, low)	Impact of Risk (high, medium, low)	Risk management strategy
Key Personnel loss	medium	low	[REDACTED] as an sme partner, mitigates 50% of the risk and offers further resources to cover other personnel loss risk
Access to timely information	low	medium	With the vast amount of work and data that is available through different channels, it is impossible to ensure that every significant report or paper is identified within the short time frame of this project. To mitigate this we are employing two strategies: 1. Conferring with subject experts; 2. Reviewing systematic literature reviews that have themselves been constructed over many months and cover a broad range of both quantitative and qualitative research.

The Short form Contract

Availability of expert interviewees in required timeframe	medium	low	Extra time would be required but alternative experts can be secured.
Force majeure	low	high	Unforeseeable, catastrophic events or change in current environment. Might be delayed.
Scope creep			As the work progresses, it might bring new insights to the client that might have modified the scope had it been known at the start, however that cannot be accommodated within the current work, despite it's relevance and significance. To manage this, it must be signposted as area for future research and work.

7. Quality Management

A. QUALITY MANAGEMENT

Please provide details of the measures that will be taken to manage and assure the quality of work. You should upload your Quality Assurance policy in the supporting documents section of your application.

This should include information on the quality assurance (QA) systems, which have been implemented or are planned, and should be appropriate to the work concerned. All QA systems and procedures should be clear and auditable, and may include compliance with internationally accepted quality standards specified in the ITT e.g. ISO 9001 and ISO17025.

Specific to science projects and where relevant, applicants must indicate whether they would comply with the Joint Code of Practice for Research (JCoPR). If applicants do not already fully comply with the JCoPR please provide a statement to this effect to provide an explanation of how these requirements will be met. The FSA reserves the right to audit projects against the code and other quality standards

The lead principle investigator is responsible for all work carried out in the project; (including work supplied by sub-contractors) and should therefore ensure that the project is carried out in accordance with the Joint Code of

B. ETHICS

Please identify the key ethical issues for this project and how these will be managed. Please respond to any issues raised in the Specification document

Please describe the ethical issues of any involvement of people, human samples, animal research or personal data in this part. In addition, please describe the ethical review and governance arrangements that would apply to the work done.

Applicants are reminded that, where appropriate, the need to obtain clearance for the proposed project from their local ethics committee. This is the responsibility of the project Lead Applicant. However, if a sub-contractor requires such clearance the project Lead Applicant should ensure that all relevant procedures have been followed. If there are no ethical issues please state this

This project does not involve any human or animal subjects.

C. DATA PROTECTION

Please identify any specific data protection issues for this project and how these will be managed. Please respond to any specific issues raised in the Specification document.

Please note that the successful Applicant will be expected to comply with the Data Protection Act (DPA) 1998 and ensure that any information collected, processed and transferred on behalf of the FSA, will be held and transferred securely.

In this part please provide details of the practices and systems which are in place for handling data securely including transmission between the field and head office and then to the FSA. Plans for how data will be deposited (i.e. within a community or institutional database/archive) and/or procedures for the destruction of physical and system data should also be included in this part (this is particularly relevant for survey data and personal data collected from clinical research trials). The project Lead Applicant will be responsible for ensuring that they and any sub-contractor who processes or handles information on behalf of the FSA are conducted securely.

At this time, we do not envisage the need to collect any personal data nor any data that is not available in the public domain, as part of this study. If interviews are conducted, only contact information will be collected and stored securely, accessible only to the research team

D. SUSTAINABILITY

The Food Standards Agency is committed to improving sustainability in the management of operations. Procurement looks to its suppliers to help achieve this goal. You will need to demonstrate your approach to sustainability, in particular how you will apply it to this project taking into account economic, environmental and social aspects. This will be considered as part of our selection process and you must upload your organisations sustainability policies into the eligibility criteria in Bravo.

Please state what(if any) environmental certification you hold or briefly describe your current Environmental Management System (EMS)

While we do not specifically hold an environmental certification. The project lead, [REDACTED] are based within the Centre for Industrial Sustainability at the University of Cambridge and the rest of the team share their commitment to sustainability and have a track record in working toward, and for, sustainability.

E. DISSEMINATION AND EXPLOITATION

Where applicable please indicate how you intend to disseminate the results of this project, including written and verbal communication routes if appropriate. Applicants are advised to think carefully about how their research aligns with the FSA strategy, what is the impact that their research has on public health/ consumers and decide how the results can best be communicated to the relevant and appropriate people and organisations in as cost-effective manner as possible. Please provide as much detail as possible on what will be delivered. Any costs associated with this must be documented in the Financial Template.

The applicant should describe plans for the dissemination of the results for the project team as a whole and for individual participants. Details should include anticipated numbers of publications in refereed journals, articles in trade journals etc., presentations or demonstrations to the scientific community, trade organisations and internal reports or publications. Plans to make any information and/or reports available on the internet with the FSA's permission are also useful, however, this does not remove the requirement for Tenderers to think how best to target the output to relevant groups.

If a final report is part of the requirement, please make sure, as part of the executive summary, that aims and results are clear to the general audience and that the impact of the research on public health/consumers and it's alignment to FSA priorities is clearly stated.

Please note that permission to publish or to present findings from work supported by the FSA must be sought in advance from the relevant FSA Project Officer. The financial support of the FSA must also be acknowledged.

Please indicate whether any Intellectual Property (IP) may be generated by this project and how this could be exploited. Please be aware the FSA retains all rights to the intellectual property generated by any contract and where appropriate may exploit the IP generated for the benefit of public health.

In this part Applicants should demonstrate the credibility of the partnership for exploitation of the results and explain the partnership's policy in respect of securing patents or granting licenses for the technology (if applicable). It should deal with any possible agreements between the partners to extend their co-operation in the exploitation phase and with relevant agreements with companies, in particular users, external to the partnership

Dissemination will take place at three levels as it did for previous work:

1. Publication of reports through the FSA
2. Presentations by the team at various food events and expert panels, in particular via the EIT Food network that the team is actively part-of.
3. As teaching material on food innovation and entrepreneurship courses (including the Food Accelerator programme) at the University of Cambridge and through partner universities during summer schools and other such educational intervention.
