15. Force Majeure

15.1 Neither Party shall have any liability under or be deemed to be in breach of the Agreement for any delays or failures in performance of the Agreement which result from circumstances beyond the reasonable control of the Party affected. Each Party shall promptly notify the other Party in writing when such circumstances cause a delay or failure in performance and when they cease to do so. If such circumstances continue for a continuous period of more than two months, either Party may terminate the Agreement by written notice to the other Party.

16. Termination

16.1 The Customer may terminate the Agreement at any time by notice in writing to the Contractor to take effect on any date falling at least 1 month (or, if the Agreement is less than 3 months in duration, at least 10 Working Days) later than the date of service of the relevant notice.

16.2 Without prejudice to any other right or remedy it might have, the Customer may terminate the Agreement by written notice to the Contractor with immediate effect if the Contractor:

- 17.2.1 comply with all the Customer's health and safety measures while on the Customer's premises; and
 - 17.2.2 notify the Customer immediately in the event of any incident occurring in the performance of its obligations under the Agreement on the Customer's premises where that incident causes any personal injury or damage to property which could give rise to personal injury.
- 17.3 The Contractor shall:
- 17.3.1 perform its obligations under the Agreement in accordance with all applicable equality Law and the Customer's equality and diversity policy as provided to the Contractor from time to time; and

- 18.3 If the Contractor or the Staff engages in conduct prohibited by clause 18.1 or commits fraud in relation to the Agreement or any other contract with the Crown (including the Customer) the Customer may:
- 18.3.1 terminate the Agreement and recover from the Contractor the amount of any loss suffered by the Customer resulting from the termination, including the cost reasonably incurred by the Customer of making other arrangements for the supply of the Services and any additional expenditure incurred by the Customer throughout the remainder of the Agreement; or
- 18.3.2 recover in full from the Contractor any other loss sustained by the Customer in consequence of any breach of this clause.

19. Dispute Resolution

- 19.1 The Parties shall attempt in good faith to negotiate a settlement to any dispute between them arising out of or in connection with the Agreement and such efforts shall involve the escalation of the dispute to an appropriately senior representative of each Party.
- 19.2 If the dispute cannot be resolved by the Parties within one month of being escalated as referred to in clause 19.1, the dispute may by agreement between the Parties be referred to a neutral adviser or mediator (the "Mediator") chosen by agreement between the Parties. All negotiations connected with the dispute shall be conducted in confidence and without prejudice to the rights of the Parties in any further proceedings.
- 19.3 If the Parties fail to appoint a Mediator within one month, or fail to enter into a written agreement resolving the dispute within one month of the Mediator being appointed, either Party may exercise any remedy it has under applicable law.

20. General

- 20.3 The Agreement cannot be varied except in writing signed by a duly authorised representative of both the Parties.
- 20.4 The Agreement contains the whole agreement between the Parties and supersedes and replaces any prior written or oral agreements, representations or understandings between them. The Parties confirm that they have not entered into the Agreement on the basis of any representation that is not expressly incorporated into the Agreement. Nothing in this clause shall exclude liability for fraud or fraudulent misrepresentation.
- 20.5 Any waiver or relaxation either partly, or wholly of any of the terms and conditions of the Agreement shall be valid only if it is communicated to the other Party in writing and expressly stated to be a waiver. A waiver of any right or remedy arising from a breach of contract shall not constitute a waiver of any right or remedy arising from any other breach of the Agreement.
- 20.6 The Agreement shall not constitute or imply any partnership, joint venture, agency, fiduciary relationship or other relationship between the Parties other than the contractual relationship expressly provided for in the Agreement. Neither Party shall have, nor represent that it has, any authority to make any commitments on the other Party's behalf.
- 20.7 Except as otherwise expressly provided by the Agreement, all remedies available to either Party for breach of the Agreement (whether under the Agreement, statute or common law) are cumulative and may be exercised concurrently or separately, and the exercise of one remedy shall not be deemed an election of such remedy to the exclusion of other remedies.
- 20.8 If any provision of the Agreement is prohibited by law or judged by a court to be unlawful, void or unenforceable, the provision shall, to the extent required, be severed from the Agreement and rendered ineffective as far as possible without modifying the remaining provisions of the Agreement, and shall not in any way affect any other circumstances of or the validity or enforcement of the Agreement.

21. Notices

- 21.1 Any notice to be given under the Agreement shall be in writing and may be served by personal delivery, first class recorded or, subject to clause 21.3, e-mail to the address of the relevant Party set out in the Award Letter, or such other address as that Party may from time to time notify to the other Party in accordance with this clause:
- 21.2 Notices served as above shall be deemed served on the Working Day of delivery provided delivery is before 5.00pm on a Working Day. Otherwise delivery shall be deemed to occur on the next Working Day. An email shall be deemed delivered when sent unless an error message is received.
- 21.3 Notices under clauses 15 (Force Majeure) and 16 (Termination) may be served by email only if the original notice is then sent to the recipient by personal delivery or recorded delivery in the manner set out in clause 21.1.

22. Governing Law and Jurisdiction

- 22.1 The validity, construction and performance of the Agreement, and all contractual and non contractual matters arising out of it, shall be governed by English law and shall be subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the English courts to which the Parties submit.

ANNEX 3

Specification

This Section sets out the Authority's requirements.

1. Overview / Context

Following the UK referendum decision to leave the European Union, there is an opportunity to develop more effective and bespoke approaches to environmental protection. In particular, the Environment Agency is focussing on developing better regulatory tools to deliver chemicals legislation requirements, and ensuring that environmental considerations are understood and incorporated appropriately into the UK regulatory response.

In order to achieve this and expand our abilities in the future, the Environment Agency plans to target resource at selected activities that provide greatest progress to meeting these aims. A key area for this work plan, and the tendered project is development of the ability to model water quality exposure risk from a range of known and emerging pollutants in UK specific circumstances.

2. Background to the Project

Environmental risks for industrial and consumer chemicals are currently calculated at EU level using the European Union System for the Evaluation of Substances (EUSES) model1 (or derivatives, such as a spreadsheet version, Chemical Safety Assessment and Reporting Tool Version 2 (CHESAR2) and the European Centre for Ecotoxicology and Toxicology of Chemicals Targeted Risk Assessment Tool Version 3 (ECETOC TRA3)). The basic EUSES model was developed for organic substances, and was last updated significantly around 15 years ago.

Building on existing proposals published by the European Chemicals Agency's Circular (ECHA4), the intention of the current project is to scope out what further work would be necessary to turn this model into a user-friendly tool that reflects current scientific understanding and is more tailored to UK risk management needs. The Environment Agency will capture key stakeholder details and provide a list to the contractor to aid in scoping user requirements.

A central part of the success of this project will be development of a system with broad appeal and uses across the range of UK stakeholders. Therefore, following extensive scoping by the contractor, the Environment Agency will seek and welcome additional input regarding alternative approaches and options.

It is envisaged that the tendered project will act as a development phase for a larger project, with a 2nd phase targeted at delivery of appropriate highlighted options.

3. Project aims

The aim of this study is to:

a) Review the existing EUSES model and compare it with other available models (e.g. used for plant protection products and by other organisations (e.g. the Canadian government)) to assess how it can be updated to reflect the best science available. For example, we believe it may be possible to include a more realistic scenario for protection of predators and the human food chain, and add elements such as groundwater assessment tools and waste disposal (e.g. landfill leaching). It is well known that EUSES is less useful for inorganics, so further work being conducted by industry⁵ and under nanomaterial research projects should also be reflected. Care should be taken not to duplicate the review already published by the European Chemicals Agency (ECHA).

b) Consider how the model could be improved in terms of release estimation (e.g. replacement of the old A&B tables with more relevant information such as Specific Environmental Release Categories (SpERCs) and other emission scenarios) and (if relevant) environmental partitioning and transport. This shall consider how sensitivity analysis can be incorporated and describe the scope for including and presenting probabilistic exposure estimates (e.g. based on experience for plant protection products).

c) Assess how the model can be modified to take more account of UK environmental factors, including a Geographical Information System (GIS) layer if relevant (e.g. river dilution, agricultural practice (for sewage sludge spreading), river length affected by a discharge, temporal and spatial scales, etc.). This could involve combining EUSES outputs with the Source Apportionment Geographical Information System (SAGIS) model which is used for the Water Framework Directive⁷, or other models as appropriate. As part of this, consider the feasibility of reflecting future UK climate change scenarios (e.g. temperature and increased variability in river flows) to make any assessment more future-proof. Perhaps this can best be considered on the basis of an individual catchment?

d) Evaluate how to derive clearer predictions of changes in chemical risk under different risk management scenarios (e.g. the time it will take for concentrations in key media to decline to a specific value following cessation of an emission source, or a graphical representation to show how concentrations would change over a fixed period).

e) Assess the possibility of producing a more intuitive user interface and graphical or pictorial outputs (e.g. mass of substance in different environmental compartments), and consider ease of updating, intellectual property rights and system operating requirements.

f) Consider whether relevant UK monitoring data (e.g. sewage treatment) can be used to develop and validate (parts of) the model or otherwise be used to over-write input data, and whether the model itself can be used to indicate when, where and how monitoring should be performed.

g) Research and compile key relevant input information for any suggested modifications, and assess whether this is available from data sets currently collected under the Registration, Evaluation, Authorisation and restriction of Chemicals (REACH) Regulation or made available by the public sector. Establish criteria to rank each proposal in terms of impact, likely programming difficulty and availability of input data, etc.

h) As a result of this work, present options for producing a viable model for the UK.

This work will constitute the initial phase of a wider project to develop EUSES for UK purposes. In addition, it will inform the UK's input to an ECHA project to revise EUSES, beginning with a workshop on 10-11 April 2018. It is suggested that the contractor attend this workshop to provide this input, remain up to speed with latest developments, and to aid with scoping.

The output from the project phase detailed will help us decide on the need, timing and likely cost for a 2nd project phase: the development of an actual model for use following EU exit, which may be tendered separately.

4. Requirements

4.1 Based on experience of using the models and structured interviews with key stakeholders (e.g. The Dutch National Institute for Public Health and the Environment (RIVM), industry, Environment and Climate Change Canada, Environment Agency and the Health and Safety Executive's Chemical Regulation Division (HSE CRD)), make a detailed record of issues and work already underway or completed that will be relevant to the project.

4.2 Following an initial appraisal of models and issues (both existing and in development), produce an interim report short-listing items with recommendations for further analysis.

4.3 Based on the comments of the Project Board, evaluate all prioritised items in detail in accordance with the aims outlined in Section 3. The draft final report shall include an options appraisal for each priority area, to identify potential risks versus benefits, technical feasibility and potential cost.

4.4 Following comments from the Project Board, produce the final report.

5. Milestones

Reviews and discussion with Natural England's Project Officer will be required throughout the project's life cycle to ensure continued progress (this can be done by email). The key milestones and review dates are identified below:
