SCHEDULE ONE1. BACKGROUND

There is currently no robust and reliable evidence on recruitment, retention and progression through the child and family social work profession. At 30 September 2016, the rate of turnover in child and family social work was 15% and the vacancy rate was 17% (DfE, 2017). According to Curtis et al (2010) the expected working life of a social worker is just over seven and a half years, compared to 16 for a nurse and 25 for a doctor, with the situation thought to be worse for those in child protection. DfE data show that in 2016, 60% FTE of child and family social workers leaving their local authority (LA) during the year had been in service for less than 5 years - but it is not clear how many of these moved into adult social work, to another LA or to the private/voluntary sector and how many exited the profession altogether.

Government is committed to a comprehensive reform programme for LA children's social care, which aims to attract the best people, equip them with knowledge and skills to deal with the realities of the job, develop strong leadership skills and retain talent. The National Assessment and Accreditation System (NAAS), a new regulatory body, specialist entry routes such as Frontline and Step Up, Teaching Partnerships and the Assessed and Supported Year in Employment (ASYE) - along with development programmes for new practice supervisors (firstline managers) and aspiring practice leaders (Assistant Directors) - aim to set high professional standards and improve recruitment, career development and retention in child and family social work. The findings from this study will feed into the continuing development of the Government's social work reform programme.

2. AIMS AND OBJECTIVES

The aim of the study is to collect robust evidence on recruitment, retention and progression in child and family social work. The study will follow the career trajectories of a large and representative sample of local authority (LA) child and family social workers at different stages of their career (including agency workers working in the LA), with a boosted sample of new entrants to the profession in their first year of practice (including ASYE). The study will be longitudinal, following respondents over the next five years. It will aim to establish a much stronger understanding of recruitment issues, career pathways, choices and decisions and how these differ according to demographics (age, gender, ethnicity etc), different entry routes, roles and responsibilities, region, LA types, LA performance and local labour markets.

The Contractor shall use all reasonable endeavours to answer the following key research questions:

- What attracted respondents to a career in child and family social work?
- What are their career aspirations? How long do they expect to remain in the profession?
- How well do they feel that their training paths (and ASYE) have equipped them for their career?
- What are their experiences of performance management, CPD and career development and what use do they make of the Knowledge and Skills Statements?
- What are their career trajectories over time? What drives their career choices and decisions?
- What are the specific issues for certain groups of the profession (e.g. those considering career breaks, returners, men/ women, those with caring responsibilities etc)?

- Do the above issues differ for those working in different roles within Children's Services?
- What push/ pull factors lead to decisions to leave social work altogether?
- What are the destinations of leavers? What factors and decisions affect whether and how long they stay in their roles/ in the profession?

4. METHODOLOGY

Initial phase of exploratory qualitative research

The aim of this component is to identify key current recruitment and retention issues from the perspective of LA child and family social workers and their employers, to inform the design of the survey questionnaire. The Contractor will undertake 25 face-to-face qualitative interviews within five 'case study' LAs (see table below). This will enable the Contractor to identify areas for further exploration in the survey e.g. including whether issues from previous retention research remain relevant, such as: low satisfaction with pay; working conditions, working hours; supportive management; role clarity; stress levels; and overly bureaucratic systems.

In each LA, the interviewees will include child and family social workers who are newly qualified within their first year of employment, with 1-5 years' experience, and with more than 5 years' experience. This data will be complemented by interviews using a similar but adapted interview guide with a first line manager and a senior manager to understand recruitment and retention issues from their perspective, the impacts of these, and how such issues are addressed.

The five LAs will be selected to represent different types of local authority social services governance arrangements. The Contractor will ensure a regional mix within England (including one LA each in the North, Midlands and South, one in a mainly rural LA, and one LA in London) and by Ofsted rating.

Face-to-face interviews will be undertaken to enable the researchers to build rapport more quickly with participants and get a 'feel' for the working environment within LAs. Each interview will last around 45 minutes to one hour and will be conducted in a private room within the local authority. Interviews will be digitally recorded with permission from participants and transcribed (all will be written up to a common note template, for consistency and to facilitate coding/analysis).

Researchers at Manchester Metropolitan and Salford Universities will lead two case studies each, and researchers from IFF will lead the case study in London. All organisations will contribute to analysis through a shared thematic framework and a joint analysis session to identify the key issues and implications for the survey design.

The output from this stage will be a short report (around 10 pages) highlighting the key issues, with illustrative quotes where relevant, and focusing on the implications for the questionnaire design.

Suggested sample structure: initial qualitative research

Participants	New entrant (in first year)	1-5 years' experience	5 years + experience	Team Leader	Senior Manager	Total
County Council	1	1	1	1	1	5
London Borough	1	1	1	1	1	5
Metropolitan	1	1	1	1	1	5
Unitary	1	1	1	1	1	5
Contracted out social services	1	1	1	1	1	5
Total	5	5	5	5	5	25

Longitudinal Survey of Child and Family Social Workers

The survey phase will adopt a longitudinal design, aiming to achieve a representative sample of LA child and family social workers in England.

Sample source

The most appropriate sample source is via local authorities, although the Contractor will explore alternatives such as the HCPC register during the inception stage of the study.

Sample approach

The survey needs to recruit a large enough sample of both new entrants and established social workers at Wave 1 (Autumn 2018) to retain sufficient numbers by Wave 5 (Autumn 2022) to enable reliable subgroup analysis e.g. by gender, age, length of service, full/ part-time etc. The aim is to retain at least 500-800 'new entrants' and 1000 'established' social workers in the study at Wave 5. This will enable analysis by key subgroups including gender, age band, working pattern, etc.

For the main survey, the Contractor will approach all 152 local authorities in England as soon as possible in early May 2018, requesting they assist with the research by providing us with the work email addresses and phone numbers of their child and family social workers. The letter will be addressed to the Director of Children's Services or equivalent. It will emphasise the importance of this research, include contact details for the research team and the lead project manager at DfE if there are any queries, and be co-signed by the Contractor and DfE. The letter should also include reassurances about data security and confidentiality.

The Contractor will then follow up the letter with telephone recruitment, to verify whether each LA is willing to assist with the research. The Contractor will approach all 152 local authorities, and assume that [REDACTED] will agree to participate. The Contractor will check the distribution of these and make every effort to ensure this is robust in terms of regional coverage, LA type, retention and vacancy rates, and OFSTED rating. This estimate is based on strong endorsement for the research from the DfE and ideally support from [REDACTED] and social work professional bodies such as [REDACTED] to encourage LA buy-in. The Contractor and the Department will work together during the inception phase to try and obtain this endorsement.

The next stage of the sample building exercise will involve collating contact information for child and family social workers from the participating LAs. The Contractor will ask participating LAs to provide details (work email addresses and if possible work telephone numbers) for all of their child and family social workers (including agency workers). This means that all relevant social workers working for a participating LA will be invited to take part in the survey. The Contractor will provide LAs with a template for sharing this information and will ask them to supply it via a secure FTP Site. LAs will be provided with an electronic copy of an opt out letter they can email to their staff, informing them about the survey and asking them to indicate if they do not want their contact details to be included. The letter will emphasise that participation in the research is entirely voluntary and confidential.

To generate a final sample of between 500 and 800 'new entrants' at Wave 5, a booster sample will be required that will cover graduates from all entry routes, including Step Up and Frontline, across each preceding 12-month period. This is because there would be insufficient numbers of new entrants from the initial research with a sample of local authorities to produce the required volume at Wave 5. The estimated population of new entrants is between 2,500 and 3,000 per year. A 'top-up' survey will be required for new entrants in Year 2 of the study onwards, in order to bring the final wave to between 500 and 800 respondents. The Contractor will adopt the same approach to this as in Year 1, but ask LAs to focus only on those child and family social workers who were newly qualified in the past 12 months and not in employment at the time of the previous year's sample collation.

Pilot

The contractor will test out a small number of key questions in the initial qualitative stage of the research and will also conduct a small-scale pilot (30 interviews) at the start of survey fieldwork (in Year 1 only) in order to test understanding and relevance of the questionnaire across social workers with different levels of experience.

Survey methodology and timings

For consistency, the survey will adopt the same methodology and timing each year. In September 2018 and of each subsequent year through to 2022, it will start with an online approach moving to telephone among non-responders after four weeks. The process will be as follows each year:

Timing	Activity
By end of July	Questionnaire finalised 'Keeping in touch' email sent out to respondents from previous survey wave
Start of September	Email invitations sent out with individualised survey link
Mid-September	Email reminder 1
Late-September	Email reminder 2
1 st October	Non-responders revert to telephone chasing/ telephone survey approach where contact number is available
October	Telephone fieldwork (4-5 weeks)
Mid November	Data processing and checking complete

Early December	Interim report and presentation
----------------	---------------------------------

After a four-week online survey period including two targeted reminder emails to non-responders, the Contractor will revert to a telephone methodology for those leads where they have phone numbers.

Maximising response rates and minimising attrition

The Contractor will work with the Department to gain endorsement/ publicity for the research from social work professional associations such as [REDACTED] and in relevant publications, in order to raise the profile of the survey. The Contractor will also create a survey web page where individuals can go for more information, to verify the authenticity of the research and to find contact details for any queries. The survey questionnaire will be kept as short and engaging as possible (Wave 1 will take around 20 minutes to complete; subsequent waves will take around 10 minutes).

A mixed mode research design will be used to maximise response and minimise response bias.

The Contractor will also seek to maximise response during fieldwork by:

- Using well-worded email invites, which concisely explain the purpose of the study and the importance of taking part.
- Designing a well-presented on-screen questionnaire which is easy to complete (to reduce the number of mid-interview quits). It will also be mobile/laptop friendly and will allow people to complete the survey in more than one sitting.
- Setting up a dedicated email and hotline number for any queries (and responding quickly to these).
- Sending two e-mail reminders to non-responders to the online survey.
- Providing each provider with their response numbers/response rate and a comparison with other organisations mid-fieldwork, to prompt them to encourage response.

In regard to the telephone element, the Contractor will ensure that:

- All interviewers will receive a face-to-face briefing.
- Fieldwork progress will be closely monitored through the desk-top real-time reporting system.
- Individuals will be called up to 7 times, at different times of day and across different days before considering withdrawing the sample. Whether a piece of sample is withdrawn is decided on a case-by-case basis depending on the outcome of the previous calls. Reasons for non-response will be recorded and summarised as part of the fieldwork update.
- Interviewers will make detailed notes after each call which will appear on screen for the interviewer the next time that respondent is called (hence the interviewer will know 'where things stand' and is not calling cold).
- If respondents prefer interviews in the evening or at weekends this can be accommodated, by collecting home/ mobile numbers.

Keeping in touch between waves

The Contractor will minimise attrition by ensuring that respondents are kept track of once between each survey wave. Respondents will be emailed a one-page summary of the research from each wave when it is published (eg Spring/Summer in each year) and they will be asked to let the Contractor know if their contact details have changed since the previous wave, using a short email proforma. The Contractor must ensure that a balance is struck between keeping in touch to ensure people are engaged in the research, and over-contacting them – as respondents can withdraw/ opt out of being re-contacted at any time.

The Contractor will collate a range of contact details at Wave 1 - home email and phone numbers as well as work contact details – so that they can still keep in touch with people if they move jobs or leave the profession.

Estimated sample numbers and attrition

The Contractor will use their best endeavours to achieve the estimates of achieved sample at each survey wave, set out in the table below, using a combined online and telephone approach, based on the method set out in this contract. The estimated response rates are based on [REDACTED] of LAs agreeing to provide staff contact details.

Estimated sample sizes and response rates:

	Wave 1	Wave 2	Wave 3	Wave 4	Wave 5
Starting sample based on [REDACTED] of LAs participating	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]
Online response (RR%)	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]
Telephone top-up	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]
Total response (combined estimated RR%)	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]
% agreeing to recontact for survey	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]

For the new entrants booster from Wave 2 onwards, the Contractor will employ the same approach and expect that the same local authorities will agree to assist. This would provide approximately additional 400 new entrant respondents per wave (based on the same [REDACTED] of LAs participating and around 18 new entrants per LA, per wave).

Questionnaire design

The Wave 1 questionnaire will be designed in a modular form around: reasons for becoming a social worker; qualifications, training and CPD including entry route into the profession and views on the efficacy of their training both pre- and post-qualifying; current job including role, length of service, job satisfaction, full-time/ part-time status, contractual status, salary, self-rated skills efficacy, workload, stress and other factors that may impact on retention such as relationships with colleagues/ line manager and feeling valued; previous employment in social work (if relevant); future plans and intention to stay or leave their job/ the profession, and why; demographics; recontact questions. The survey will draw on existing research for comparability where relevant (e.g. the Fast Track evaluation survey) and where appropriate will use validated scales to measure issues such as stress if these can be accommodated within the target survey length. The exact content will be agreed with the Department and the Advisory Group.

Waves 2-5 will be shorter (around 10 minutes) and will focus on the core sections that are subject to change over time (eg. whether role has changed and how/why; job satisfaction; access to CPD; relationship with line manager/ colleagues; workload; stress; future plans; etc). Each survey will include re-contact questions at the end of the questionnaire specifying permission to re-contact for the qualitative research and re-contact for the survey. The questionnaire for Waves 2-5 are expected to be very similar but the Contractor has allowed for a small number of changes per wave to accommodate issues arising/ new policy developments. These changes will be agreed with the Department and Advisory Group.

Ongoing qualitative research - annual snapshots of stayers and leavers

The Contractor will draw a purposive sample of 20 leavers each year. Leavers will be identified from participants who have taken part in the survey, given permission for re-contact, and provided alternative contact details (other than their original work email). The Contractor will decide how to structure the sample based on discussions with the Department around which survey themes and findings would most benefit from further qualitative exploration. It is expected that there will be around 3-4 subgroups of interest within the 20 interviews.

Once the purposive sample of leavers has been selected, the Contractor will select a 'matched' sample of 20 'stayers'. The matching will be based on a few key demographics, entry route, job role/dept, motivations for entering / aspirations as relevant and length of time in role (and any other key attitudinal or behavioural factors identified through the survey). This will provide a sample to compare and contrast qualitative findings from 'leavers' and 'stayers', across the selected areas of interest each year.

Areas of interest for the qualitative research will evolve from year to year, in response to policy and practice developments and new survey findings.

Qualitative interviews would be conducted over the telephone, which allows us to get a good geographical spread within a realistic timeframe and budget. Topic guides would be designed by IFF, peer-reviewed by MMU and Salford and signed off by the Department before use.

Decisions on the focus of the qualitative interviews will be made in agreement with Department and the Advisory Group each year, based on interim findings from the survey.

Analysis and Outputs

Qualitative data management and analysis

The Contractor will take a systematic approach which involves the following stages:

- A detailed write-up of each interview will be produced using the interview recording/ notes. Researchers will be asked to pull out the key points in bullets at the end of the notes, to help them prepare for the analysis sessions.
- The team will have interim analysis meetings to discuss emerging findings.
- Individual analysis of each discussion will be entered into an analysis framework. This will be structured under headings relating to the objectives – allowing cases to be compared and judgements made about the commonality of experiences. The framework will contain 'demographic' variables (e.g. social work entry route, level, number of years' experience, age, gender, type of LA) to identify subgroup differences. The framework is the starting point for interpretative analysis.

- A final analysis session will be completed, in which researchers develop their thinking regarding the findings and their implications. The Department's project manager will be invited to observe this session.

The Contractor will interrogate and map the data by theme and by sub-group - drawing out patterns, typologies and case studies considering both descriptive and explanatory evidence. They will also explore similarities and differences by sub-group across key variables such as entry route, type of LA, full-time/ part-time, undergraduate/post graduate qualification, number of years' experience, and characteristics such as gender, ethnicity, ageband and other demographics.

Survey analysis

The survey weighting approach will be developed by the Contractor and agreed with the Department, taking into account the need to minimise design effects.

Mid-way through fieldwork the team will come together to discuss analysis and will draft an analysis plan to be agreed with Department. The analysis plan will identify the key sub-groups for analysis such as: entry route, number of years' experience, type of LA, working hours, UK or international, etc. together with key demographics such as age, ethnicity, and gender. Computer tabulations will be produced showing bivariate analysis of the survey findings (the results analysed by these key sub-group variables). Statistically significant differences between sub-groups, and between sub-groups and the overall total, will be highlighted on the computer tabulations.

Over time, the Contractor will undertake multivariate analysis to explore some of the interrelationships between variables more deeply: one possible approach here is to use multivariate techniques (eg logistic regression) to identify the factors that are most strongly associated with staying or leaving the profession (using the longitudinal dataset). Another possibility that will be explored is attempting to 'match' stayers and leavers within the dataset (e.g. using Propensity Score Matching to find people with similar sets of characteristics and attitudes) to explore whether any particular training or job-related factors have 'made the difference' in terms of why some stay and some leave.

Outputs

The core outputs from the study will be:

- A short report (e.g. 10 pages) on the initial qualitative stage, with implications for the survey design
- Regular fortnightly progress updates (weekly during fieldwork)
- Interim report on the top-level survey findings in early December each year, followed by a presentation (e.g. 20-25 slides) which can be used to provide early findings to policy teams and refine thinking on the structure and content of the main report
- Draft report submitted in mid-February each year, to include qualitative findings, using the Department's Research Report template and style guide. This will be a concise findings report of 60-70 pages including an Executive Summary
- Finalised report by the end of March each year including copies of the research instruments.
- Clean, fully-labelled and coded SPSS dataset for submission to the UK Data Archive each year.

- A one-page infographic highlighting the key findings of the study each year, which can be emailed to participants as an engagement tool.

The Contractor will also produce a set of computer tabulations for the surveys each year (one set for the established workforce survey and one for the new entrants booster), and a concise technical appendix for the report.

Reports will be proofed and edited by the project directors, reports and presentations will also be systematically figure-checked by the research team prior to being sent to the Department. The social work academics at MMU will also review the full final internal draft, prior to it being sent to the Department. All reporting outputs will be carefully checked by at least two researchers to ensure respondent anonymity.

Dissemination

The Contractor and the Department will agree a communication and dissemination strategy to share details of the research and findings with different stakeholders.

5. STAFFING

██████████ (Director, IFF Research) will be the overall Project Director with responsibility for ensuring the research meets the Department's aims and objectives, is delivered on time, and adheres to high quality standards. She will be involved in all stages of the project but in particular in the design of research tools, analysis plans, and reporting.

██████████ will be supported in this role by ██████████ (Director, IFF Research).

The overall Project Manager will be ██████████ (Senior Research Manager, IFF) supported by a team of researchers working across the survey and qualitative strands of the work.

Core project team members at IFF will be:

- ██████████ (Research Manager) will work across all aspects of the study but will lead on the design of qualitative research tools and analysis.
- ██████████ (Senior Research Executive) will work on all aspects but would in particular support ██████████ on managing the survey fieldwork, data checking and analysis.
- ██████████ and ██████████ (Research Executives) will provide support across all aspects of the project, particularly at the initial stage of sample-building, online and telephone script and data checking, conducting qualitative interviews, and analysis. They will also contribute to draft reporting.

IFF will work with experts in child and family social work at Manchester Metropolitan University and Salford University:

- ██████████ will lead MMU's input and will be involved in the design of research tools, reporting, qualitative fieldwork and analysis.
- ██████████ (MMU) will conduct qualitative fieldwork and analysis.
- ██████████ (University of Salford) will lead Salford's input into the study: she will contribute to the design of research tools, reporting, and conduct of qualitative fieldwork and analysis.
- ██████████ will conduct qualitative fieldwork and analysis.

████████████████████ (Senior Research Officer) will be the Department's project manager.

Project management

The Contractor will provide the Department with brief fortnightly written progress updates throughout the project. These will typically include a summary of project activities and a breakdown of fieldwork progress, as well as flagging next steps (including any upcoming actions for the Department) and reviewing risks/ mitigations. Updates will be weekly during fieldwork, so that the Department can keep track of response rates / recruitment.

The Contractor will set up an IFF group e-mail. This means all communication about the study either from the Department or internally will go to this address so the full team are aware of it.

6. STEERING COMMITTEE

The Project Manager shall set up a Steering Committee for the Project, consisting of representatives from the Department, the Contractor, and any other key organisations whom the project will impact on, to be agreed between the parties. The function of the Steering Committee shall be to review the scope and direction of the Project against its aims and objectives, monitor progress and efficiency, and assess, manage and review expected impact and use of the findings from the Project against an agreed Project Communication Plan, through the standard Department Communication Plan Template. The Committee shall meet at times and dates agreed by the parties, or in the absence of agreement, specified by the Department. The Contractor's representatives on the Steering Committee shall report their views on the progress of the Project to the Steering Committee in writing if requested by the Department. The Contractor's representatives on the Steering Committee shall attend all meetings of the Steering Committee unless otherwise agreed by the Department.

The Steering Committee will meet at least once per year (up to a maximum of eight times over the project). Exact timings to be agreed by both parties.

7. RISK MANAGEMENT

Risk	Risk Level	Impact	Mitigation
LAs unwilling to take part in the study/ co-operate by providing access to sample	Med	High	The Department and relevant employer bodies and social work professional associations strongly endorse the study. A senior lead in the Department should co-sign the initial letter to LAs requesting their assistance, with, if possible, a lead from the [REDACTED] or similar high profile body. Communication about the research will emphasise the joint benefits to LAs and social workers themselves eg. of improving social workers' career experiences and addressing employers' recruitment and retention issues. IFF will manage the sample-building process to make it as least burdensome to LAs as possible. Possible alternative sources for sample if LA response is lower than anticipated will be investigated during the initial stage of the project.
Questionnaires do not meet policy information needs	Med	High	Time will be invested in the initial questionnaire development phase. A clear briefing from the Department's policy leads about the questions they would like to ask and how they are hoping to use the data. Question areas will be explored and tested during the initial qualitative research. A core questionnaire of around 10 minutes (Year 2 – Year 5) with another 5 minutes for changes/ new questions year-on-year, to respond to changing policy needs or findings from the previous year's research.
Lower than anticipated response rates to surveys	Med	High	The survey will be carefully explained to secure buy-in, and ideally will be endorsed by a range of professional bodies/ social work representative organisations. The Contractor will ensure that the online survey introduction makes full use of behavioural levers that encourage participation. Experienced interviewers will be used (for telephone element) and there will be a reasonably long fieldwork period of 9 weeks so that fieldwork can be progressed steadily. Achieval rates will be monitored on a daily basis to obtain early warning of any difficulties. The Contractor will increase interviewing resource (for telephone interviewing) if required or send additional email reminders.

Higher than anticipated attrition rates between the survey waves	Med	High	Tried and tested engagement methods will be used, including sending out one-page Infographic and Keeping in Touch emails to request updated contact details. Asking for home email, phone number and mobile at Wave 1 will help to minimise attrition by providing a range of contact information if one source changes or if the respondent leaves their job and the Contractors no longer have their correct work email address. Regular dissemination/ endorsement by professional bodies etc will emphasise the importance of the research and encourage the respondent to update us if their contact details change, via email or via the project webpage.
Local authorities unwilling to take part in initial qualitative stage	Low / med	High	Emphasising the Department's sponsorship of the study and being clear about the coverage of the interviews, and how valuable these will be to inform the survey. Emphasising the anonymity of the areas and the individuals taking part.
Illness of key personnel or staff leaving	Low / med	Low	Two IFF Directors will lead the study, which will give us coverage at the head of team for any absence. All members of the team will be kept up to date of progress so able to 'pick up' the project at any stage.
Not completing the reporting on time	Low / med	Med	Having a large team on the study and undertaking the data processing/ coding throughout the course of the project as responses are received. Agreeing data specifications and key sub-groups for analysis during fieldwork, and report structure in advance with the Department. The key staff assigned to the project will all contribute to analysis and report writing.

8. DATA COLLECTION

The Department seeks to minimise the burdens on Schools, Children's Services and Local Authorities (LAs) taking part in surveys.

When assessing the relative merits of data collection methods the following issues should be considered;

- only data essential to the project shall be collected;
- data should be collected electronically where appropriate/preferred;
- questionnaires should be pre-populated wherever possible and appropriate;
- schools must be given at least four working weeks to respond to the exercise from the date they receive the request; and
- LAs should receive at least two weeks, unless they need to approach schools in which case they too should receive 4 weeks to respond;

The Contractor shall clear any data collection tools with the Department before engaging in field work.

The Contractor shall check with the Department whether any of the information that they are requesting can be provided centrally from information already held.

9. CONSENT ARRANGEMENTS

The Department and the contractor shall agree in advance of any survey activity taking place the consent arrangements that shall apply for each of the participant groups. All participants should be informed of the purpose of the research, that the Contractor is acting on behalf of the Department and that they have the option to refuse to participate (opt out). Contact details should be provided including a contact person at the Department. Children who are 16 or over will usually be able to give their own consent but even where this is so, the Contractor, in consultation with the Department, should consider whether it is also appropriate for parents, guardians or other appropriate gatekeepers (e.g. schools, Local Authorities) to be informed when a child has been invited to participate in research.

10. PROJECT COMMUNICATION PLAN

The Contractor shall work with the Project Manager and Steering Group to agree the content of the Project Communication Plan on the standard Department Communication Plan Template at the start of the Project, and to review and update at agreed key points in the Project and at the close of the Project. The Communication Plan shall set out the key audiences for the Project, all outputs intended for publication from the Project, the likely impact of each output, and dissemination plans to facilitate effective use by the key audiences.

End of Schedule One

SCHEDULE TWO1 Eligible expenditure

- 1.1 The Department shall reimburse the Contractor for expenditure incurred for the purpose of the Project, provided that:-
- (a) the expenditure falls within the heading and limits in the Table below; and
 - (b) the expenditure is incurred, and claims are made, in accordance with this Contract.
- 1.2 Regular update reports provided by the Contractor will be used to mitigate the risk that the research study may not be able to recruit sufficient numbers of participants to make the study feasible. Progress against the sample size and response rate estimates set out in this contract will be reviewed regularly and contingency measures discussed. The Department will decide whether sufficient numbers have been achieved at each wave to merit continuing with the work. If the numbers fall short of the estimates set out in this contract, the project may be subject to early termination. There will be a break clause at the end of March each year, before which the Contractor and the Department will review the sample sizes and planned approach for the next year. Any resulting changes to the contract (including to the term of the contract) will be dealt with via contract variations to be agreed in writing by both parties.
- 1.3 Expenditure is subject to the outcomes of Spending Reviews.

The milestones below match those set out more fully in schedule 1 of the contract.

Any such further instructions shall be incorporated into this Schedule.

Description	Details
Subject matter of the processing	The subject matter of the processing will be career paths of child and family social workers, including reasons for entering the profession and qualifying route; job satisfaction; access to CPD and training; supervisory/ line management support; decisions to stay or leave job role and reasons why; changes over time. A key aim of the research is to track social work careers over 5 years in order to ascertain the influences on recruitment and retention.
Duration of the processing	The data will be processed on an ongoing basis between May 2018 and 2023. Personal contact data will need to be securely retained for those social workers who agree to be re-contacted at each survey point, in order to enable tracking over time. The survey data will be anonymised for analysis purposes (ie it will retain a unique sample identifier to enable longitudinal analysis, but the datafile itself will not contain names, addresses or other contact details).
Nature and purposes of the processing	The nature of the processing will involve collecting and storing data for analysis purposes, and collecting and storing data for the purpose of contacting those respondents who agree to re-contact, to keep in touch with them about the survey between fieldwork waves, and to then invite them to take part in the survey at its next stage of fieldwork. Participants will only be re-contacted if they have explicitly agreed to this and have provided their contact details for this purpose. Survey data collected during fieldwork will be anonymised in the analysis file (ie names, addresses and other contact information removed). Sample contact details (names, addresses, email, phone number) will be stored separately from the survey responses. The purpose of the processing is to conduct research on behalf of the Department to provide insights into recruitment, retention and career development issues among child and family social workers.
Type of Personal Data	Name, address, telephone number(s), email address(es) The above will be collected in order to invite participants to take part in the research. Personal contact details will be stored by the Contractor separately from the survey data file in a secure job folder to which only the project team and IT staff will have access. Some sensitive personal data will be requested from the participant in order to explore any patterns in the data for equal opportunities purposes. This will include ethnicity and disability/ health. The Contractor will ensure that participants are informed of this at the start of the survey when they give their consent to take part, and are given the option of refusing to answer these questions if they prefer.

Plan for return and destruction of the data once the processing is complete UNLESS requirement under union or member state law to preserve that type of data	How long the Contractor will keep data is separated into two categories. CONFIDENTIAL (broadly, regular Job folders) and RESTRICTED (broadly, Secure Files job folders) which includes any files containing personally identifiable information. Data retention is governed by this classification. Confidential data is included as part of the Contractor's general Business Continuity procedures by way of daily incremental backups (backups are encrypted in transit and at rest). A backup period covers one calendar month after which a new backup set will be established. The previous backup sets will be retained for 12 months, for archival purposes and for potential data recovery requests which extend beyond a previous months archives. All data backups are fully indexed. Maintaining file, file contents search capability via backup application interface. Backups are accessible only by the Contractor's IT administrative staff, with access governed by the Associate Director of IT. Restricted data backups are handled separately to general Business Continuity procedures. Broadly speaking similar processes surround the backup processes. The backups are accessible only by the Associate Director of IT and data recovery procedures are subject to restricted data access controls (with data controller authority) as detailed below. RESTRICTED data is stored encrypted, in a restricted area of the Contractor's system and subject to access controls. A data controller (Research Manager) manages access rights based on the principle of least privilege, with access right grants and revokes on demand. The entire process of restricted data access is in addition to controls, audited down to file level for who did what and when. CONFIDENTIAL data is accessible only via an authorised logon accounts. Data destruction principals follow guidelines issued via DoD 5220.22-M. Depending on the task at hand (determined by the granularity of the data in question) two data sanitisation applications will be employed. Microsoft SDELETE (for file level deletion demands) and Active@ ZDelete for broader (folder/sub-folder or volume) deletion demands. Survey data transferred as outputs to the Department / the Data Archive will be anonymised and transferred using a secure FTP site.
