Statement of Requirements

Introduction

An Operational Analyst is required for the Maritime Warfare Centre's Operational Logistics team to support recently delivered Logistics decision aid tools and to collect and analyse operational logistics data to improve sustainability and hence the operational effectiveness of front-line Royal Navy units.

Requirement & Deliverables

As part of the Operational Advantage Centre, the Maritime Warfare Centre (MWC) sits within the Commander UK Strike Force organisation and has the Fleet lead for operational knowledge exploitation. The Centre provides a complete service from the collection of lessons or information, analysis of data through production of decision-making tools and reports and is the custodian of maritime doctrine.

This is achieved primarily by Operational Analysis of current operations and exercises both to inform immediate operational feedback (including best practice) and to identify opportunities to refine naval warfare. Output is also delivered in response to requests by front line units or as directed development from Navy Command Head Quarters.

MWC is unique in the colocation of experienced maritime personnel alongside civilian science and analysis experts, who together have the time and resources to analyse and optimise maritime warfare.

An Operational Analyst is required to join MWC's Operational Logistics team to fulfil this requirement in this specialised field. To do so they will need to have a good understanding of the maritime operation logistics domain (and preferably the broader Defence Support Network), strong numerical, analytical and research skills as well as the ability to programme in VBA.
