STATEMENT OF REQUIREMENT FOR CHAIR OF THE ARMED FORCES REWARD AND INCENTIVISATION REVIEW

Time requirement – Around 8 - 10 days per month, on average through the life of the review

Location – In the main, this will be a remote post with travel to Defence Units across the UK as appropriate.

Payment terms – monthly in arrears after invoices are received for daily rate and expenses including receipts. Where-ever possible the MoD will book travel and accommodation.

Payments will be linked to key deliverables, and interim milestones (UK and overseas visits to key stakeholders and allies, interviews with key military personnel etc).

Role - The Armed Forces Reward and Incentivisation Review will consider all aspects of the offer to Service Personnel and how those must develop to reflect a changing world, a changing security environment and the new Integrated Operating Concept (IOpC) for our Armed Forces. A realigned, more flexible and better-targeted offer will be necessary to ensure we can affordably recruit and retain the skilled, motivated people we need to deliver the IOpC. The Review will recommend how Defence should develop a long-term reward and incentivisation strategy, in its true sense – a clear picture of how we can most effectively and efficiently use financial and non-financial levers to give us the people and skills we need to deliver Defence’s outputs.

The Review will be chaired by an external board-level expert in reward and will operate independently from the Department. This model has been chosen to ensure that we consider these issues from a global perspective, drawing on best practice from across the private and public sectors, and that the Chair has the freedom to challenge and innovate in their recommendations

The Chair’s role is to lead the review process and publish a report by Spring 2023. He will set out recommendations to make military terms and conditions of service fit for the future. These will look out to the 2030s and beyond to ensure that Defence can recruit and retain sufficient personnel with the right skills to meet its requirements - mindful of prevailing and expected labour market conditions and assuming the Department overall will have an operating budget that remains the same in real terms

Deliverables

1. A “problem statement” is to be delivered to Chiefs Committee on 12 April 2022.
2. An interim report is to be delivered to the Head of Secretariat, Independent Armed Forces Reward and Incentivisation Review in Autumn 2022.
3. A final report is to be delivered by Spring 2023 to SofS for Defence.
