CLARIFICATION QUESTIONS AND RESPONSES

The National Archives has received the following clarification questions relating to this opportunity. Those questions, and their associated responses, can be found below.

Q1: The supplier requirement clearly states the front end and middleware but not the backend. Could you please clarify a little furthermore on how and who will be managing the SQL Server database(s) as it is not clear in the supplier requirement.
A1: A third party supplier (already contracted) will have a copy of the database in which they use to develop as per what your requirements are. The supplier appointed via this current procurement exercise will be given a copy of the database for development work. The day to day running, administration and management of the MIMIR databases are all onsite at TNA, so therefore it is our in-house team managing the SQL Servers.
