

THE NATIONAL ARCHIVES

REVIEW AND REFRESH OF ARCHIVE SERVICE ACCREDITATION PROGRAMME

INVITATION TO TENDER – OPEN COMPETITION

DEADLINE FOR TENDER SUBMISSIONS – 5PM (UK TIME) 17 MAY 2023

1 ABOUT US

- 1.1 The National Archives is a non-ministerial government department. The Chief Executive of The National Archives is the statutory Keeper of Public Records who reports to the Secretary of State for Digital, Culture, Media and Sport. We incorporate the Office of Public Sector Information and Her Majesty's Stationery Office. We also perform the Historical Manuscripts Commission's functions in relation to private records.
- 1.2 TNA is the official archive and publisher for the UK government and guardians of over 1,000 years of iconic national documents. Archives can be used in a variety of ways, from enabling insightful and pioneering research, and inspiring art and literature, to informing decision making in all types of organisations.
- 1.3 Since 2012 TNA has held the responsibility for leadership of the archives sector. Part of its purpose is to ensure sustained or improved preservation of and access to the nation's archive collections across the private, public and voluntary sectors.

- 1.4 The Archive Sector Development department (ASD) is responsible for leadership of the archive sector in England, comprising over 2500 archives. Our work is framed by the strategic vision, Archives Unlocked. Our approach to the leadership role is a collaborative one, supporting partnership working to encourage a sustainable and innovative archive sector.
- 1.5 The National Archives is one of seven partners who collaborate to deliver the UK Archive Service Accreditation programme as a management standard and awards programme for all types and sizes of UK archive service. The other partners are: Archives and Records Association (UK & Ireland), Archives and Records Council Wales, National Records of Scotland, Public Record Office of Northern Ireland, Scottish Council on Archives and the Welsh Government. The programme is governed by a Memorandum of Understanding between partners, and by a Committee composed of members nominated by partners and recruited from the archives sector. There is open communication with the parallel Museum Accreditation programme managed by Arts Council England.
- 1.6 Archive Service Accreditation was developed collaboratively through a co-creation process with archives across the UK in 2012-13. The first awards were made in November 2013. As the programme nears its 10th anniversary, the Accreditation programme partners want to review and update the programme through further sector co-creation, addressing areas which have been identified as requiring further focus, and ensuring its ongoing currency and utility across UK archives.

2 PURPOSE AND BACKGROUND

- 2.1 The purpose of this procurement process is for The National Archives (TNA) on behalf of the Accreditation partners to select a supplier to review Archive Service Accreditation in collaboration with the archives sector and recommend approaches to updating the programme
- 2.2 The work will take place across two phases. This contract will cover only Phase one. Phase two is out of scope of this tender, and may be procured separately at a later date. TNA is not committing to progressing to Phase two at this stage. Please see Section 3 for details.
- 2.3 The budget is £16,500, exclusive of VAT, but inclusive of travel and all other expenses.

3 REQUIREMENT

- 3.1 The supplier will design and deliver a research and consultation process to review and develop Archive Service Accreditation as a relevant, current national standard after 10 years of implementation. This will include extensive sector consultation, identifying approaches to emerging priorities and areas for improvement, as the first phase of delivering an updated programme.
- 3.2 The supplier will work closely with the Accreditation team at The National Archives to:
- Undertake background research into four priority development areas (see 3.3) and other relevant material to enhance the Accreditation programme. A resource list is available (see separate document entitled 'Accreditation Review reference resources') of further reading and preliminary discussions with partners and sector on some elements, but it is expected that additional research will be required
 - Design consultation across partners and the wider archives sector, to review the programme content, securing effective representation of views from across the four home nations and types and scales of archive service
 - Ensure that the consultation design addresses the four identified priority areas for programme development, identifying ways forward for these to be reflected in Archive Service Accreditation
 - Ensure that the consultation design is sufficiently robust to allow for identification of areas not already prioritised for improvement where these would be of benefit to the archives sector and to explore the mechanisms of the programme with a view to recommending any improvements
 - Deliver consultation as designed, including working with Accreditation partners to use their expertise and to promote the activities across the archives sector in all home nations of the UK, also ensuring that the Museum Accreditation team at Arts Council England are sighted on developments
 - Use the results of consultation to develop recommendations for phase 2 in a report identifying further work areas and approaches to delivering the required change, and present this to partners to inform the programme's future.

3.3 Initial discussions with programme partners, the Accreditation Committee and at sector gatherings have identified four substantive areas where some content change is likely to be required. The consultation design should ensure that the ways that these themes are reflected and assessed in Accreditation and options for this to change to support ongoing improvement are discussed in full.

- Delivery of digital preservation: the archives sector has made progress with policy, planning and staff awareness on digital preservation but the revised Accreditation standard and programme must support and assess delivery of preservation of content at risk of loss and increasingly at scale. There are many existing tools and options which Accreditation could reference in this area, and the review needs to find a meaningful, scalable approach to using these.
- Inclusive practice: the Accreditation partners have identified this as a priority for current work, and have made light updates to the programme since 2021. In 2023 a series of sector workshops based on external challenge have explored the issue further, and outcomes will be shared with the appointed supplier. The review in this area needs to embed inclusive practice across the programme in ways which work for all types and sizes of archive service.
- Sustainability and carbon cost: this is an emerging area of concern with archive services at different levels of engagement. The potential for some reflection of these issues in Accreditation should be explored.
- Audience development and audience needs: stakeholders are a vital part of Accreditation, with a whole module dedicated to engagement with archives. This has been identified as a less robust part of the standard, and one where the pandemic appears to have driven change in audience expectations and service priorities. The consultation should explore how Accreditation can develop in this area to support archives meeting stakeholder needs effectively for the future.

It is recognised that the four areas are at different levels of maturity and will require different approaches and time commitment to review. However, the research and consultation design should include them all.

- 3.4 While partners are confident that the four thematic areas in 3.3 are of significant value in developing Archive Service Accreditation, the initial soundings which identified these do not constitute a full sector co-creation process. The consultation therefore also needs to welcome archive sector input in other areas of the programme, and be prepared to explore these in greater depth where appropriate. Initial discussions have identified potential for some aspects of programme delivery to be altered, such as the timing of reviews of Accredited status. Consultation should give some space for discussion of delivery as well as content of the programme.
- 3.5 The second phase of the review is not the subject of this invitation to tender, but for information it is anticipated that it will involve activity such as re-engaging partners with an updated Memorandum of Understanding; redrafting elements of the Accreditation standard to meet the needs of archive services of all types and sizes across the UK and reflect the outcomes from sector co-creation; revising content/presentation across the supporting programme guidance including the four priority areas; and recommending programme delivery updates in line with the outcomes of sector consultation.
- 3.6 The programme partners wish to support the review throughout. Support will be given through regular contact with the Accreditation team at The National Archives, through partner communication channels and hosting online meetings/webinars where relevant. The supplier may wish to make use of key dates such as DCDC conference 11-13 July 2023, Archives and Records Association Conference 1-3 September 2023 and a special meeting of the Committee which can be scheduled for autumn/winter 2023 if required.
- 3.7 The work must be completed and submitted to TNA by 31st March 2024.

5 EVALUATION

5.1 Submissions will be evaluated according to the following criteria:

Category	Maximum Score Available	Weighting	Maximum Available Weighted Score
Your understanding of the project and deliverables	10	2	20
Details of your understanding of the specific needs of the archive sector and Accreditation standards	10	2.5	25
Your proposed methodology for the work	10	2.5	20
Names and experience of individuals assigned to the project, and their knowledge of the archives sector, standards and guidance.	10	1.5	15
Price	10	2	20

The bidder submitting the lowest compliant price will be awarded the maximum of 10 (unweighted) points. All other bidders will be awarded a (unweighted) points score by applying the following formula:

$$((\text{lowest submitted price}/\text{bidder's submitted price}) * 10)$$

To illustrate this via a worked example:

Bidder 1 submits a price of £10,000

Bidder 2 submits a price of £17,000

Bidder 3 submits a price of £31,000

Bidder 1 is awarded 10 (unweighted) points – $((10,000/10,000)*10) = 10$

Bidder 2 is awarded 5.88 (unweighted) points – $((10,000/17,000)*10) = 5.88$

Bidder 3 is awarded 3.23 (unweighted) points – $((10,000/31,000)*10) = 3.23$
