Annex 3 – Proposal

The LowCVP and its secretariat team has been at the forefront of developing robust test, certification and monitoring systems for low emission vehicles for over 20 years since having developed the original Reduced Pollution Certificate scheme (and supporting policies).

Assessment of the emission and fuel economy performance of whole vehicles, subsystems and retrofit solutions is at the heart of LowCVP activity in support of both government policy and economic and environmental targets for the UK.

With its independent position, broad membership structure and central government links, LowCVP is uniquely positioned to continue to support the CVRAS, its outreach and adoption, and to coordinate consistent technical development of the scheme across a wide range of vehicles, technologies and locations.

With the COVID 19 crisis, aspects of the work originally anticipated will have to be conducted on-line rather than via physical meetings. Test houses (Millbrook etc) are still operating and witnessing of tests is still expected, however data review and programme outreach is anticipated to be delivered via virtual meeting formats requiring less travel but more time and more frequent webinar delivery (to reach the same number of people).

With delays to 2021 of both communications and implementation of CAZ (and London LEZ) we expect 2020 to ramp up interest significantly towards the end of the year but uptake will likely be delayed so our focus for support has been adjusted to reflect the increased activity in certification and support with enforcement development in parallel.

Retrofits and the CVRAS scheme

The CVRAS scheme (developed by EST and LowCVP and funded by Defra/JAQU) has been highly successful in creating a robust and widely accepted certification process for emission abatement retrofits for UK road transport. International system suppliers have supported the LowCVP/EST team in regular workshops to assess and develop the test cycles, emission limits and accreditation processes. The scheme is seen within Europe as one of the most robust available.

Originally aimed to support the widespread implementation of Clean Air Zones across the UK in 2019, the processes and initial approvals were accelerated to enable a core of technologies and vehicles to be rapidly identified and for supporting funding from local authorities to be robustly targeted to CVRAS approved technology.

With all the Clean Air Zones (including the London LEZ updates) delayed until 2021, limited communication or promotion of the retrofit market has delayed uptake of the technology and operators have delayed purchase of retrofit systems. The bus market has rapidly adopted retrofits particularly with the funding support of central government. Given the potential economic downturn post Covid, there is significant concern that the commercial vehicle operators will press to further delay CAZ implementation, citing the improved air quality during lockdown and the significant slowdown in new vehicle purchase. Successful retrofit programmes would enable the continued implementation of Clean Air policies in a timely manner.

LowCVP resources:

LowCVP have recently recruited a new Technical and Programme director to oversee the delivery of our work programme and to provide additional technical resource in support of the LowCVP activity (including the CVRAS support). Previously much of the CVRAS support has been provided by the Managing director. For 2020/21, LowCVP will spread the support across [REDACTED], the project manager of our Bus group and the new Director. [REDACTED] has significant experience in the Low and Ultra low emission bus accreditation (on which much of the CVRAS scheme development was based) and also has responsibility for the Retrofit Guide developed in 2019 to support the operators in assessing potential retrofit technology.

CVRAS will be supported by both the Managing director and the new Technical and Programme director, ensuring a broad capability and increased capacity with the LowCVP team.

Virtual working.

The LowCVP have already adopted a fully Virtual working environment and are running working group meetings and webinars for members via MS teams. This method will be applied to the Retrofit outreach activity to ensure continued communications during the lockdown and any subsequent social restrictions.

Retrofit Guide

In early 2019 the LowCVP published "The Clean Vehicle Retrofit Guide" to give operators clear and concise information on the available retrofit options. With the increase in vehicle application and technology providers, together with the delay to CAZ implementation, LowCVP will aim to update the guide and relaunch in early 2021 in order to promote the CVRAS and retrofit options together with the CAZ policy. This will be complemented by the LowCVP consumer CAZ leaflet developed within the Road Transport Emissions advice Group of DfT. Both of these initiatives will continue to be funded via LowCVP member contributions and existing revenue so will be at no cost to JAQU.

Background:

The CVRAS and Retrofit market has not developed as quickly as expected due (we believe) to the delays in implementing the CAZ in Leeds and Birmingham and undoubted resistance from the freight sector leading to uncertainty in the retrofit supply industry. There has been very little active promotion of the CAZ policy (no communication programme has yet been launched) so awareness has been limited nationally. With this backdrop, retrofit suppliers have struggled to identify the vehicles and business case to develop new solutions for applications other than buses (where retrofit grant funding is in place) LowCVP 2020/21 – 4. This has been compounded by the ongoing successful Bus retrofit market absorbing resources and attention of the retrofit supply chain. With the Leeds and Birmingham CAZ delayed to 2021, and importantly the London LEZ adopting ULEZ standards in October 2020 but not implementing charges into we anticipate a much greater awareness and appetite from the freight sector over the next year. The coach market supported by CPT, has shown significant interest over the last 6 months and retrofit suppliers have recently stepped up activity in this sector.

Additionally, TfL announced that they will be running an HGV retrofit fund (again something buses have enjoyed for some time), together with doubling of the van scrappage grant and scheme. These changes indicate how the price point for retrofit may be more advantageous, which combined with potential HGV retrofit schemes in other affected CAZ areas, shows the market for van and truck (of various types) becoming far more aware of the challenge (and retrofit potential) and rapidly picking up.

The compliant Euro 6/VI vehicle park remains limited (Vans were not fully compliant until Sept 2016) and both the Truck and Van markets saw their peak sales in the years leading up to Euro 6/VI implementation so there is a “bulge” in the Euro 5/V vehicle parc. Further detailed research on the market distribution of potential retrofit vehicles would be of benefit to the supply industry.

Interestingly we have also now seen the finance industry enter the retrofit sector with options to finance the equipment (spreading the cost to operators) and to regain some of the residual value lost in Euro V/5 vehicles.

With all of the above, we anticipate a significant increase in retrofit interest from the market, in 2020/21.

Maintaining CVRAS momentum in 2020

Key elements for LowCVP:

1. Continuation of technical support to CVRAS operations team (EST)

LowCVP provide ongoing expert technical advice both to the testing houses and CVRAS applicants and to policy implementation bodies (local authorities etc). LowCVP are also critical to the stakeholder engagement aspects in promoting and communicating the CVRAS and wider CAZ policy to the operators and trade bodies.

In 2020/21, we anticipate additional support to ensure van and car retrofit solutions are robustly evaluated (few have been approved so far).

2. Development of CVRAS enforcement system.

With the increasing adoption of Retrofit into the CAZ areas expected in 2021, it is important to create a robust process for in service monitoring and enforcement to ensure compliance. Full Euro VI vehicles will have sophisticated OBD (On-Board Diagnostics) which continuously monitor the vehicle emission systems and ultimately prevent the vehicle from being driven if the system is non operational (if emissions are excessive). These systems are robustly verified during certification. The Retrofit market is not able to implement such levels of diagnostics and control, so was mandated to report the emission continuously via telematics. However, currently there is no robust system or body in place to monitor this data and ensure that the retrofitted vehicle remains compliant in day to day use. Additionally, there is no ongoing process to sample and “spot check” retrofit systems in the field, either via PEMS or full laboratory testing. LowCVP will work with the EST to help develop a system (which would need ongoing funds to operate).

This will involve expert LowCVP input to the emissions data review and workshops with the enforcement community (DVSA etc) to design a robust scheme. LowCVP 2020/21 - 5 LowCVP will disseminate the CVRAS scheme and its enforcement processes with fleets and local authorities via 4 CVRAS workshops held in the initial CAZ areas.

New CVRAS Testing fund – to be delivered by LowCVP & EST

With the increased activity and market potential we believe that there will be greater uptake of the fund to test (and certify) new applications in 2020. The original programme suffered from coming at a time when the suppliers were heavily focussed on delivering the (grant funded) Bus systems and were also unable to define the market potential for Truck and coach (with no grant funding available). Additionally, the testing fund excluded development costs which represent the majority of the overall cost of a new certified system. 15 months on, and the position has significantly altered with CAZ hopefully becoming a reality for operators across the country. We are aware of several test programmes running in 2020 already which are now eligible for funding from the existing pot

The test facility (often a restriction on test capacity) is now better utilised and has spaces available over the next 6 months.

A new higher capacity test facility for fully laden trucks and heavier vehicles will be operational in autumn, further freeing up vital test capacity for the market. This will enable new vehicle types such as construction (a target market particularly for major projects such as HS2) to be tested accurately in a laboratory under laden conditions. We still have relatively few truck systems approved and none yet for vans so the potential opportunity is significant.

Germany have now developed a retrofit scheme which has encouraged further system development (in both cars and vans) however, we believe that the requirements are not as robust as the UK CVRAS scheme and would therefore aim to review this and retest at least a sample of these systems to ensure they met the UK requirements, before any reciprocal approval could be considered

Conclusion

LowCVP remain the only fully independent body with the expertise to support EST and the government departments and agencies with the delivery of the CVRAS scheme its enforcement and promotion leading to more successful Clean Air Zone implementation. LowCVP are ideally placed to ensure consistent policies and limits (and a national retrofit database) across Scotland (Low Emission Zones) and the London Low and Ultra Emission zones.

Continued funding to LowCVP will ensure EST and the CVRAS scheme is developed further and UK remains the most robust Retrofit market in Europe.
