SCHEDULE ONE1 BACKGROUND

The Teaching Excellence and Student Outcomes Framework (TEF) is a new scheme for recognising excellent teaching and student outcomes, in addition to existing national quality requirements for universities, colleges and other higher education providers. It provides information to help prospective students choose where to study.

The key objectives of TEF are to:-

- i. Better inform students' choices about what and where to study.
- ii. Raise esteem for teaching.
- iii. Recognise and reward excellent teaching.
- iv. Better meet the needs of employers, business, industry and the professions.

In June 2017, 295 Higher Education providers who took part in the scheme were awarded one of four awards: Gold, Silver, Bronze (231 providers) or Provisional (64 providers)¹. The awards were decided by an independent TEF panel of experts including academics, students and employer representatives. Providers' undergraduate teaching was assessed against ten criteria covering teaching quality, learning environment and student outcomes. The TEF panel considered evidence from a set of metrics using national data as well as written evidence submitted by the provider.

Now the initial awards have been made and are publicly available, we wish to gain an understanding of emerging evidence on whether the objectives of TEF are being met.

Some initial evaluative research for TEF has been undertaken across the sector by TEF stakeholders, e.g. Trendence (2017)². This research, undertaken on behalf of a consortium of Student Unions, is the 'largest research project to date'³, assessing almost 9000 students' views on TEF. It provides information about the teaching quality criteria students are interested in. However, whilst informative, it is not based on the views of students' who have actually used TEF results to make their HE choices.

Further and fuller evaluation is needed to specifically address the achievement of TEF against its objectives, and understand its effects for both students and HE providers (Higher Education Institutions, Further Education Colleges and Alternative Providers).

2 AIM

The Contractor shall use all reasonable endeavours to achieve the following aims:

To evaluate the TEF objectives;

- i. Better inform students' choices about what and where to study.
- ii. Raise esteem for teaching.
- iii. Recognise and reward excellent teaching.
- iv. Better meet the needs of employers, business, industry and the professions.

with:-

- A. applicants applying in 2017-18 for entry into HE during the 2018-19 academic year, who had the opportunity to use TEF to make their HE choice, and,
- B. HE providers.

² Teaching Excellence: The student perspective

³ What-sort-of-TEF-do-students-really-want?

3 OBJECTIVES

The Contractor shall use all reasonable endeavours to achieve the following objectives:

To answer the following research questions:-

A With Applicants to HE for 2018/19 Entry

1. Do applicants have accurate knowledge of TEF and TEF ratings?
2. How do applicants use and see the value of the TEF rating?
3. How has TEF affected applicants' perception of HE providers?
4. How has TEF affected perception of teaching?
5. Are applicants using TEF satisfied with their HE choice?

B With Providers (HEIs, FECs and APs)

1. Do providers have accurate knowledge of TEF and TEF bandings?
2. How has the HE sector engaged with TEF year 2 applications?
3. How do HEs use and see the value of their TEF rating?
4. What steps have providers taken to maintain or improve their TEF rating?
5. What is the TEF impact on:
 - a. Teaching approach?
 - b. Teaching recruitment?
 - c. Widening participation?
 - d. Confidence in the HE sector?

4 METHODOLOGY

The Contractor shall use all reasonable endeavours to achieve the following Part A and Part B methodologies.

Part A For Applicants to HE for 2018/19 Entry

Part A shall consist of two activities:

- i) An online Survey
 - ii) Follow-up telephone interviews
- i) Applicants Online Survey

The recruitment emails, and survey content and questions, shall be designed by the contractor, include detailed questions under each of the broad research questions, as identified below. Survey questions will need to be suitable for baselining in future evaluation of TEF. DfE and the project steering committee will provide input to the designs to finalise the survey materials with the contractor.

1. Whether applicants have correct knowledge of TEF and TEF ratings.

This shall include testing applicant's knowledge and understanding of;

- the purpose of TEF,
- how TEF awards are decided (criteria and process),
- what the awards mean, and,
- the awards their HE providers of interest had received

2. How TEF is used by applicants to make choices about where to study.

This shall include asking applicants;

- if they were aware of TEF at the time of application and how they became aware of it

- if they had used TEF to make their choice,
- how useful TEF had been alone,
- how useful TEF had been in comparison with other information available and used to make choices (e.g. location, course choice availability, accommodation cost), and,
- why applicants were not aware of TEF, did not use TEF information or did not find TEF information valuable.

3. Whether TEF influenced applicants' perceptions of the quality of a provider.

This shall include asking applicants to indicate if they had changed their mind about any of their potential choices when they saw the providers TEF award, adjusting their view about the quality of the provider, removing them from their selection or submitting their HE choices in a different order.

4. How has TEF affected perception of teaching?

This shall include asking applicants about their perceptions of the importance and quality of teaching quality and student outcomes factors, and how these may have changed because of TEF. This shall be explored further with applicants in the qualitative interviews.

5. Are applicants using TEF satisfied with their HE choices?

This shall include asking applicants about their level of satisfaction and confidence with their current HE choices they have submitted, and linking responses to question 2 above to;

- confirm if applicants using TEF are more satisfied and confident about their choices than applicants who did not use TEF, and,
- establish which data used by the applicants to make their choice predicts applicants' satisfaction and confidence with choice.

The survey shall also collect applicant demographics and request information on applicants' 5 UCAS HE provider choices.

The survey shall be administered online, including mobile utility, with a 'soft launch' to trial the survey.

The sample shall be drawn from HE applicants applying for an HE course by 15 January 2018, and intending to take up a place in 2018/2019. A sample of 2,000 UK applicants and 750 international and EU applicants (equal split) shall initially be drawn from Youthsight and UCAS. Additional targeted recruitment shall be undertaken to boost the number of UK applicants who have knowledge of TEF (greater than name only) to 1000.

Sample sizes shall be sufficient to enable comparison between the following subgroups: those who did and did not use TEF; subject of study; HE provider (including provider type AP/FEC/HEI, UCAS tariff, TEF award); international/UK/EU applicants; and, applicants by demographics (including age, gender, ethnicity, disadvantage measures POLAR quintile/parental education or occupation).

In addition to analysis of the survey as a whole and by subgroups identified above, analysis shall also specifically include: identifying the association between institutional TEF award and applicants' use and importance of TEF; a regression analysis to identify variables predicting applicants' confidence and satisfaction with their HE choice; and a regression analysis to identify variables predicting applicants' awareness and use of TEF.

ii) Applicants Follow-up interviews

Qualitative interviews shall be undertaken to understand questionnaire responses in greater depth. These shall include exploring in greater depth; how applicants used TEF to shape their decision-making processes, in the context of all available sources of information; how TEF has influenced student perceptions around the quality of a provider; and, whether the use of TEF increased applicants' confidence their choices.

The interview coverage and structure shall be designed based on responses from online questionnaires, with a minimum sample of 30 applicants, include applicants selecting different types of HE providers with different TEF bandings and mean UCAS tariff.

B For HE providers

Part B shall consist of two activities:

- i) One-to-one interviews with TEF points of contact and academic programme leaders
 - ii) Online survey with HE Providers
- i) HE Provider Interviews

The interviews shall be undertaken with TEF Points of Contact (PoCs) and Academic Programme Leaders (APLs) at HE providers. The interviews shall include detailed questions under each of the broad research questions below, relevant to both PoCs and APLs, with some specific areas that may be more relevant for POCs or APLs included below.

1. Do providers have accurate knowledge of TEF and TEF bandings?
2. How has the HE sector engaged with TEF year 2 applications?
 - POCs, to understand why some providers took part in TEF and others did not.
3. How do HE providers use and see the value of their TEF rating?
4. What steps have providers taken to maintain or improve their TEF rating?
5. What is the TEF impact on:
 - a. Teaching approach?
 - b. Teaching recruitment?
 - c. Widening participation?
 - d. Confidence in the HE sector?
 - POCs, to include whether HE providers have changed the way they are engaging with industry.
 - APLs, specifically on a) teaching approach and b) teaching recruitment, and also including d) confidence in the HE sector, specifically views on raising the esteem of teaching.

Interviews shall be undertaken with at least 45 HE providers split equally between POCs and APLs at a range of HE providers (HE institutions, FECs and Alternative Providers) across the UK, who have achieved different Provider Level awards or no award in 2017, and are or are not participating in the Subject Level pilots (2017-18). The sample shall also include a mix of institutions by UCAS tariff, size, region, nation and proportion of international students. IFF shall provide a sampling frame and sampling targets to achieve this sample.

Analysis shall be undertaken using Framework Analysis approach. This shall include analysis by themes defined by IFF and agreed with DfE before analysis is started, and also analysis by emerging themes, to allow for an exploratory approach and unanticipated themes to be included. The interviews shall be sufficient to achieve the sample frame and saturation of qualitative themes before the survey design is completed. If not, a small number of additional interviews will be completed within the budget and if a larger number is needed, additional interviews shall be undertaken by further agreement between the contractor and DfE and potentially resulting in a contract variation.

ii) HE Provider Online Survey

An online survey shall be designed using results from the interview research. The recruitment emails, and survey content and questions, shall be designed by the contractor, based on qualitative themes and findings from the HE providers. DfE and the project steering committee will provide input to the designs to finalise the survey materials with the contractor.

The survey shall

- examine the degree to which the themes identified from the interviews are true across the 295 providers taking part in Provider Level TEF, and 100 providers not taking part in TEF,
- provide a baseline for future years, to show the longer-term impact of TEF as it beds in and the impact of subject-level TEF for those institutions that have opted into the pilots.

It is anticipated different interview and survey questions may be required for providers participating and not participating in Provider Level TEF, in which case two interview and survey designs shall be provided.

Recruitment for the Provider Level research shall be undertaken by the contractor inviting participation by contacting Heads of Institutions and TEF Points of Contact, via contact datasets provided by DfE. Details of Academic Programme Leaders will be requested. This will form a sample base from which to select interview and survey participants, with the contractor additionally building the sample to include HE providers not currently involved in TEF.

There are currently 295 providers participating in Provider Level TEF, and the survey shall be sent to each of them. For all providers, non-responders and providers required to meet the sample frames will be followed up by email and with telephone calls. Analysis shall include comparisons of different types of HE provider e.g. by TEF award, UCAS Tariff, provider type. The analysis shall be further scoped by the contractor, with input from DfE and the project steering committee, as the survey is designed.

8. RISK MANAGEMENT

As Project Director, David Vivian will be the Risk Register 'owner'. The table below sets out key risks; risks and mitigation shall be discussed and expanded following inception. The contractor shall constantly review risks throughout the project, and supply weekly updates to DfE.

	Risk	Likelihood	Potential Impact	Mitigation
Applicant	Low response to quant	Low	High	Collaboration with the two leading applicant panel providers. Potential to mail out to further applicants should response be lower than expected.

HE provider	Applicants to alternative providers and FECs significantly under-represented	Medium/high	Medium/high	IFF to explore with UCAS and Youthsight estimated volume of returns and potential for additional targeting. IFF to explore possibility of returning to FEC and AP completers from previous TEF study. IFF to also explore further contingency sampling options (eg liaising directly with providers) and to provide DfE with paper on implications of this (including costs and timings).
	Survey design	Low	Medium	Ensure liaise with stakeholders prior to launch to ensure meet survey objectives. Soft launch.
	Low response to qual	Medium	Medium	Incentive payment. Engaging interview.
	Not reaching the right respondents	Low	High	Feedback already gathered from institutions providing direction on how to identify POC/ APL. Further liaison with DfE and friendly HEPs to scope out roles and responsibilities. Liaise with DfE after first few interviews to check appropriate respondent and content.
	Low response/bias	Medium	High	Early buy in to research from POCs and POCs through initial comms and dealing with queries. Engaging survey content and attractive online survey design to maximise response. Different options for telephone chasing (encouraging POCs to chase own APLs and / or IFF direct to POCs and APLs). Potential to go back to POCs from qual for further warm leads.
	Identifying TEF narrative across provider type	Low	Medium	In depth analysis across HE provider type will ensure clear understanding of different TEF experience and management processes
	Reporting not to desired quality	Low	Medium	We will agree a report structure with DfE at an early stage. The report will be led by both directors and will be thoroughly checked and proof-read.

9 DATA COLLECTION

The Department seeks to minimise the burdens on Schools, Children's Services and Local Authorities (LAs) taking part in surveys.

When assessing the relative merits of data collection methods the following issues should be considered;

- only data essential to the project shall be collected;
- data should be collected electronically where appropriate/preferred;
- questionnaires should be pre-populated wherever possible and appropriate;
- schools must be given at least four working weeks to respond to the exercise from the date they receive the request; and
- LAs should receive at least two weeks, unless they need to approach schools in which case they too should receive 4 weeks to respond;

The Contractor shall clear any data collection tools with the Department before engaging in field work.

The Contractor shall check with the Department whether any of the information that they are requesting can be provided centrally from information already held.

10. CONSENT ARRANGEMENTS

The Department and the contractor shall agree in advance of any survey activity taking place the consent arrangements that shall apply for each of the participant groups. All participants should be informed of the purpose of the research, that the Contractor is acting on behalf of the Department and that they have the option to refuse to participate (opt out). Contact details should be provided including a contact person at the Department. Children who are 16 or over will usually be able to give their own consent but even where this is so, the Contractor, in consultation with the Department, should consider whether it is also appropriate for parents, guardians or other appropriate gatekeepers (e.g. schools, Local Authorities) to be informed when a child has been invited to participate in research.

11. PROJECT COMMUNICATION PLAN

The Contractor shall work with the Project Manager and Steering Committee to agree the content of the Project Communication Plan on the standard Department Communication Plan Template at the start of the Project, and to review and update at agreed key points in the Project and at the close of the Project. The Communication Plan shall set out the key audiences for the Project, all outputs intended for publication from the Project, the likely impact of each output, and dissemination plans to facilitate effective use by the key audiences.
