Background

The Committee on Fuel Poverty, an executive NDPB for whom BEIS sets aside a research budget each year, has requested BEIS commission a research project on the enforcement of new Minimum Energy Efficiency Standards (MEES). From 1 April 2018, the Minimum Energy Efficiency Standards have required private landlords to improve homes rated at Energy Performance Certificate Bands F or G to improve their property to E before renting it out, unless their property is eligible for an exemption. These regulations are an important part of decarbonization and reducing heating costs for fuel poor households, as per the Clean Growth Strategy. Future energy efficiency regulations for landlords are expected to put into place, requiring landlords to improve properties to an EPC Band C by 2030. The expected reductions in carbon emissions and fuel poverty are dependent on a high level of landlord compliance, which is meant to be enforced by Local Authorities.

Recent research (The Warm Arm of the Law and The Evolving Private Rented Sector) has identified several challenges with the enforcement of MEES by Local Authorities. In particular, Local Authorities are currently unable to identify landlords in violation of the regulations, and costs of enforcement may exceed Local Authorities' limited budgets. The Committee on Fuel Poverty is concerned this may lead to the under-enforcement of these regulations, leaving many vulnerable and low-income people in substandard tenancies.

This research seeks to address these challenges by asking the question: To achieve the housing stock improvement and reduction in fuel poverty sought from the new Minimum Energy Efficiency Standards, what alternative enforcement models could be adopted and how might they work?

The Committee on Fuel Poverty has proposed a research project aimed at clearly defining the problem and identifying potential options for better enforcement. The report will be released by the Committee for Fuel Poverty and used to inform its work advising Government on Fuel Poverty. It will also feed into Private Rented Sector and Fuel Poverty policy.

Aims and Objectives of the Project

The project aims to:

- Review existing literature regarding the effectiveness of existing monitoring and enforcement of PRS regulations.
- Appraise policy alternatives for enforcement, including considering a mandatory national landlord licensing scheme.
- Compare the identified alternatives systematically, considering the expected level of compliance and expected costs of each option.
- Suggest principles for effective future enforcement.

The questions we expect to be answered from the evidence review are:

1. How does the Government in England identify landlords, verify compliance, and enforce PRS regulations, and ensure tenant rights are protected? How well is this working? What are the barriers to enforcement?
2. How do governments/regulatory agencies identify landlords, verify compliance, and enforce regulations in other nations (including Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, as well as other countries with similar rental sectors)? How are tenant rights protected in the process?

3. Which new or innovative policy alternatives could improve identification of landlords, verification of compliance, enforcement of PRS regulations, and protection of tenant rights (e.g. putting the burden of compliance on letting agencies; using blockchain as part of a landlord register)?

The questions we expect to be answered from interviews/seminars with stakeholders are:

5. How effective, feasible, and deliverable might the above policy alternatives be? (Consider, for example, the value for money provided by the alternatives identified in question 2 and question 3.)
6. What key principles should a new enforcement scheme draw from? What do stakeholders consider to be the most important priorities when deciding between enforcement options?

How could preferred options be funded?

Suggested Methodology

We expect contractors to set out their proposed research methods. We would expect their approach to include, but not be limited to, the following:

Phase 1: The first stage of the research will involve an evidence review of existing material. This will involve identifying relevant existing Fuel Poverty, Private Rented Sector, and regulation literature, assessing its robustness, synthesising it into one place and mapping out where the evidence gaps are. Contractors will be asked to set out their search strategy for identifying relevant literature and how they will assess the robustness of this. It is anticipated that this would include using a systematic approach through specific search terms (e.g. relating to the topic areas and key regulation in other countries) and looking at research citing the main existing evidence in the area. This may also include interviews with experts in the field, including academics, who can signpost researchers to key sources. It is anticipated up to 20 days of time would be spent on this stage of the research including the provision of a first stage report to the steering group. A key output of the first stage of the research will be an accessible, high level comparative assessment of different options for government enforcement of the Minimum Energy Efficiency Standards.

Phase 2: The second stage of the research will explore the feasibility of the options generated by the evidence review. Researchers would be expected to conduct 10-20 seminars and interviews with key stakeholders; for example, representatives from Local Authorities, Devolved Authorities, the Association of Local Authority Energy Officers and Environmental Health Officers, or the National Landlords Association. BEIS and/or the CFP may be able to assist with introductions to these stakeholders, although a list of potential interviewees should be generated by researchers. Additionally, this stage should include identification of potential costs of the most promising alternatives and how these options could be funded.

Deliverables

Slide pack (or similar electronic update) of interim findings (mid-February)

Final report (end of March)

Presentation to Committee on Fuel Poverty (date tbc)

Section 5 – Evaluation of Bids

The evaluation model below shall be used for this Mini Competition, which will be determined to two decimal places.

Where a question is 'for information only' it will not be scored.

To maintain a high degree of rigour in the evaluation of your bid, a process of moderation will be undertaken to ensure consistency by all evaluators.

After moderation the scores will be finalised by performing a calculation to identify (at question level) the mean average of all evaluators (Example – a question is scored by three evaluators and judged as scoring 5, 5 and 6. These scores will be added together and divided by the number of evaluators to produce the final score of 5.33 ($5+5+6 = 16 \div 3 = 5.33$))

Scoring criteria
Evaluation Justification Statement
In consideration of this particular requirement the Contracting Authority has decided to evaluate Potential Providers by adopting the weightings/scoring mechanism detailed within this Mini Competition. The Contracting Authority considers these weightings to be in line with the framework.
Questionnaire	Q No.	Question subject	Maximum Marks
Price	AW5.2	Price	20%
Quality	PROJ1.1	Approach	30%
Quality	PROJ1.2	Staff to Deliver	10%
Quality	PROJ1.3	Understanding the Environment	30%
Quality	PROJ1.4	Project Plan and Timescales	10%

Evaluation of criteria

Non-Price elements

Non-Price (Quality) elements

Each question will be judged on a score from 0 to 100, which shall be subjected to a multiplier to reflect the percentage of the evaluation criteria allocated to that question.

Where an evaluation criterion is worth 20% then the 0-100 score achieved will be multiplied by 20%.

Example if a Bidder scores 60 from the available 100 points this will equate to 12% by using the following calculation:

$$\text{Score} = \{\text{weighting percentage}\} \times \{\text{bidder's score}\} = 20\% \times 60 = 12$$

The same logic will be applied to groups of questions which equate to a single evaluation criterion.

The 0-100 score shall be based on (unless otherwise stated within the question):

0	The Question is not answered, or the response is completely unacceptable.
10	Extremely poor response – they have completely missed the point of the question.
20	Very poor response and not wholly acceptable. Requires major revision to the response to make it acceptable. Only partially answers the requirement, with major deficiencies and little relevant detail proposed.
40	Poor response only partially satisfying the selection question requirements with deficiencies apparent. Some useful evidence provided but response falls well short of expectations. Low probability of being a capable supplier.
60	Response is acceptable but remains basic and could have been expanded upon. Response is sufficient but does not inspire.
80	Good response which describes their capabilities in detail which provides high levels of assurance consistent with a quality provider. The response includes a full description of techniques and measurements currently employed.
100	Response is exceptional and clearly demonstrates they are capable of meeting the requirement. No significant weaknesses noted. The response is compelling in its description of techniques and measurements currently employed, providing full assurance consistent with a quality provider.

All specific: questions will be marked based on the above mechanism. Please be aware that there may be multiple evaluators. If so, their individual scores will be averaged to determine your final score as follows:

Example

Evaluator 1 scored your bid as 60

Evaluator 2 scored your bid as 40

Evaluator 3 scored your bid as 80

Evaluator 4 scored your bid as 60

Your final score will be calculated as follows $(60+40+80+60) \div 4 = 60$

Price elements will be judged on the following criteria.

The lowest price for a response which meets the pass criteria shall score 100.

All other bids shall be scored on a pro rata basis in relation to the lowest price. The score is then subject to a multiplier to reflect the percentage value of the price criterion.

For example - Bid 1 £100,000 scores 100,

Bid 2 £120,000 differential of £20,000 or 20% remove 20% from price scores 80

Bid 3 £150,000 differential £50,000 remove 50% from price scores 50.

Bid 4 £175,000 differential £75,000 remove 75% from price scores 25.

Bid 5 £200,000 differential £100,000 remove 100% from price scores 0.

Bid 6 £300,000 differential £200,000 remove 100% from price scores 0.

Where the scoring criterion is worth 50% then the 0-100 score achieved will be multiplied by 50

In the example if a supplier scores 80 from the available 100 points this will equate to 40% by using the following calculation: $\text{Score}/\text{Total Points} \times 50$ (80/100 x 50 = 40)

The lowest score possible is 0 even if the price submitted is more than 100% greater than the lowest price.

Section 6 – Evaluation questionnaire

Bidders should note that the evaluation questionnaire is located within the e-sourcing questionnaire.

Guidance on completion of the questionnaire is available at <http://www.uksbs.co.uk/services/procure/Pages/supplier.aspx>

The Contracting Authority reserves the right to amend any security related term or condition of the draft contract accompanying this Mini Competition to reflect any changes introduced by the GSC. In particular where this Mini Competition is accompanied by any instructions on safeguarding classified information (e.g. a Security Aspects Letter) as a result of any changes stemming from the new GSC, whether in respect of the applicable protective marking scheme, specific protective markings given, the aspects to which any protective marking applies or otherwise.
