9. There appears to be a duplication of deliverables in terms of study for Package A and report for Package B as well as a proposition for Package A and proposition for B. Can you please clarify?

Answer In answer to your request for clarification on an apparent duplication on deliverables for Package A and Package B, we would like to confirm that these packages are discrete pieces of work with different focus and different target audience.

Package A focuses on research to identify and understand GM's offer in respect of a number of digital and physical disruptive technologies and sub-sectors (listed on page 7), and the report and proposition materials will be focussed on promoting these opportunities to tech businesses globally. We are expecting a set of fully developed, market ready proposition materials on each of the key enabling digital technology sub-sectors.

Package B focusses on a specific opportunity for traditional non-technology companies to re-locate some or all of their technological functions to GM. The report and proposition materials will analyse these opportunities, marrying up GM's strengths (which may include some of the technologies/sub-sectors identified in Package A) with the market needs of these non-tech companies.
