Section 1 – About UK Shared Business Services

Putting the business into shared services

UK Shared Business Services Ltd (UK SBS) brings a commercial attitude to the public sector; helping our Contracting Authorities improve efficiency, generate savings and modernise.

It is our vision to become the leading service provider for the Contracting Authorities of shared business services in the UK public sector, continuously reducing cost and improving quality of business services for Government and the public sector.

Our broad range of expert services is shared by our Contracting Authorities. This allows Contracting Authorities the freedom to focus resources on core activities; innovating and transforming their own organisations.

Core services include Procurement, Finance, Grants Admissions, Human Resources, Payroll, ISS, and Property Asset Management all underpinned by our Service Delivery and Contact Centre teams.

UK SBS is a people rather than task focused business. It's what makes us different to the traditional transactional shared services centre. What is more, being a not-for-profit organisation owned by the Department for Business, Energy & Industrial Strategy (BEIS), UK SBS' goals are aligned with the public sector and delivering best value for the UK taxpayer.

UK Shared Business Services Ltd changed its name from RCUK Shared Services Centre Ltd in March 2013.

Our Customers

Growing from a foundation of supporting the Research Councils, 2012/13 saw Business, Energy and Industrial Strategy (BEIS) transition their procurement to UK SBS and Crown Commercial Services (CCS – previously Government Procurement Service) agree a Memorandum of Understanding with UK SBS to deliver two major procurement categories (construction and research) across Government.

UK SBS currently manages £700m expenditure for its Contracting Authorities. Our Contracting Authorities who have access to our services and Contracts are detailed here.

Section 4 – Specification

1. Background

The Centre for Connected and Autonomous Vehicles (CCAV) has three key aims: ensuring safety and security of self-driving technology, securing the industrial and economic benefits of self-driving technology and delivering societal benefits of self-driving technology. There are many challenges and outcomes that must be realised to achieve these aims including technology and infrastructure development, legislative and regulatory change. However, public understanding and acceptability of the technology is required if we are to ensure that connected and automated mobility (CAM) matches end user needs, has a market and can be integrated within future transport networks.

CCAV's social and behavioural research programme aims to address these and has three overarching aims:

- Understand the needs and concerns of end users and public perceptions of CAM
- Identify and embed these into the design of CAM technologies and services
- Improve public awareness, knowledge and understanding of the technologies and expected behaviours

The programme has delivered a number of large scale projects to help achieve these objectives including:

- Future of Transport Deliberative Research: Understanding perceptions of safety, focusing on understanding in more depth the factors influencing perceptions of safety how this vary across different levels of automation and types of self-driving vehicles as well as understand what minimum requirements need to be addressed for the technology to be considered safe enough to use
- Great Self-Driving Exploration: Looking to understand what role end users see for self-driving vehicles in a future transport system, including understanding the potential for self-driving vehicles to address currently unmet transport needs; Understand how different types of exposure to self-driving vehicles can influence perceptions and understanding; Understanding how to communicate information about self-driving vehicles effectively.

The first project looked to help understand the factors influencing perceptions of safety and the requirements to help address these. It provided a strong list of recommendations and research priorities including that more needs to be done to engage with the public as these technologies and services are being developed to ensure they meet the needs of the end users, particularly those with mobility needs and in more rural areas who could benefit most. In addition, that more needed to be done to effectively communicate the work that has been done to date to help the public build confidence in the technology and ensure that members of the public know how to behave both in and around the technology. Two particular recommendations were taken forward and were the basis of the Great Self-Driving Exploration:

- Build knowledge about the capabilities of self-driving vehicles by demonstrating visually that self-driving vehicles are able to safely interact with UK infrastructure and road users
- Normalise the concept and presence of CAM by increasing public familiarity and exposure to it

The Great Self Driving Exploration project implemented these recommendations by conducting a large scale deliberative research programme to understand how different types of exposure can influence awareness, understanding and perceptions of self-driving vehicles and with the insight of informed citizens what is required to ensure the deployment of self-driving vehicles that meet end users requirements and drive public acceptability. The research provided eight overarching implications and recommendations including that (further detail of which can be found in Annex A):

- Communication, education and public engagement are critical to the acceptable rollout of CAM
- Public education on the “basics” of CAM is needed, including reassurance on safety, before laying out potential benefits
- Dialogue, in local areas and between the public and other stakeholders, is key to engage the public and identify new use cases
- Government (especially national) should be a key player in terms of investment, regulation and education

These recommendations further emphasise the importance of education in securing both the safe and successful deployment and integration of CAM in the UK. CCAV is making good progress understanding the varying education and training requirements and working with industry to start developing the necessary resources but there is still a lot to be done to enable the delivery of education. Given this and the above recommendations we propose to launch of an education and engagement programme that will enable CCAV to meet these recommendations. This project will look to fund the delivery of a programme of CAM engagement and education activities and act as a delivery partner to the outputs developed through the CCAV led AV-DRiVE and broader social and behavioural research programme. Allowing CCAV to be involved in the design, development and delivery of education campaigns ensuring they are grounded in best practice methods and draw on our growing understanding of the technology itself and how to educate different user groups without these having to be official government campaigns allowing us to deliver our ambitions more quickly and in partnership with industry, assuring greater buy-in.

2. What options have been considered

Findings from CCAV research have clearly evidenced the need for increased and consistent education and engagement to enable the successful integration of self-driving vehicles. Failing to do so would impact overall acceptability of the technology and consequently uptake, which is necessary to unlock the societal and economics benefits that this technology could provide. The public also see national government as playing a key role in the delivery of this education and engagement to ensure that information is grounded in facts and not driven by commercial motivations.

However, there are many challenges associated with launching official government campaigns, government sponsored events or government acting as a host to resources including time, resources and the type of information that can be disseminated. These can prevent us from adopting the proactive approach required to meet CCAV's objectives as set out in our CAM 2025 paper and addressing the concerns that end users have towards CAM that will ultimately impact the uptake of these new technologies.

Simply putting out these recommendations and hoping industry act on these alone also comes with a number of risks, we are unable to ensure that these campaigns or communications are grounded in best practice methods or don't focus on just selling a single technology at the expense of effectively educating the general public.

This approach will enable government to be involved in the design, development and delivery of these materials, drawing on our knowledge of user requirements whilst collaborating with industry and academic experts to deliver large scale education and engagement to support the deployment of self-driving vehicles.

The project will also include an evaluation to assess the effectiveness of the programme, identify the effectiveness of different communication types, help shape future content and determine funding for future years.

3. Project Scope

The intended outcomes:

- Increased public and industry education and engagement leading to improved understanding of CAM (responsibilities, requirements, limitations, capabilities) and the opportunities they may bring
- Increased understanding and evidence around the types and mechanisms for education and engagement that are effective and where these differ across different user groups.
- Increased public awareness and understanding of CAM technologies and services as well as the safe behaviours expected of them when engaging in and around vehicles for a range of different end users (e.g. demographic groups, transport mode users)
- Enable the public to develop accurate mental models of the technologies
- Increased international collaboration on education and training through partnerships with industry.
- Continuing to build the available evidence to inform future behavioural change interventions that will enable the successful introduction and acceptability of CAM.
- The creation of PAVE UK. A sibling organisation of PAVE and PAVE Europe whose goals are to support the conversation about AVs in the public.

4. Project Plan

The specific outputs for this project include:

- Development of a resource hub providing industry and the public with trialled and tested education resources that can be used
- Development of new resources based on identified user requirement (e.g. the outputs from the Great Self-Driving Exploration)
- Development and launch of a series of public and industry focused education events based on evidenced and validated methodologies,
- Delivery partner to support with the dissemination of materials developed as part of AV-DRIVE and CCAV's Social and Behavioural Research programme
- The creation of PAVE UK - A sibling organisation of PAVE and PAVE Europe whose goals are to support the conversation about AVs in the public. Including advisory councils, events and activities.

In the long term it is expected that this project would enable the development of a continuous programme of education that does not require continual funding from CCAV (the creation of PAVE UK would enable the programme to generate it's own revenue to run events in the future). However, it is expected that government would continue to fund this programme on a more ad-hoc basis for specific requirements (e.g. the development of specific educational content in line with advances in CAM).

For the first 18 months the funding allocated will be £100,000, which will be reviewed for years to come to reflect the impact of the programme (as determined by the project outcomes) and the specific needs of CCAV.

Terms and Conditions

Bidders are to note that any requested modifications to the Contracting Authority Terms and Conditions on the grounds of statutory and legal matters only, shall be raised as a formal clarification during the permitted clarification period.

Section 5 – Evaluation of Bids

The evaluation model below shall be used for this ITQ, which will be determined to two decimal places.

Where a question is ‘for information only’ it will not be scored.

The evaluation team may comprise staff from UK SBS and the Contracting Authority and any specific external stakeholders the Contracting Authority deems required.

To maintain a high degree of rigour in the evaluation of your bid, a process of commercial moderation will be undertaken to ensure consistency by all evaluators.

Scoring criteria

Evaluation Justification Statement

In consideration of this particular requirement the Contracting Authority has decided to evaluate Potential Providers by adopting the weightings / scoring mechanism detailed within this ITQ. The Contracting Authority considers these weightings to be in line with existing best practice for a requirement of this type.

Evaluation Envelope	Q No.	Question subject	Maximum Marks
			Overall	Breakdown
Commercial	AW5.1	Price	20.00%	20.00%
Technical	PROJ1.1	Understanding the Project Environment	80.00%	10.00%
Technical	PROJ1.2	Approach / Methodology		30.00%
Technical	PROJ1.3	Ability to Deliver		20.00%
Technical	PROJ1.4	Ethics and Quality Assurance		10.00%
Technical	PROJ1.6	Social Value		10.00%

Evaluation of criteria

Non-Commercial Elements

Each question will be judged on a score from 0 to 100, which shall be subjected to a multiplier to reflect the percentage of the evaluation criteria allocated to that question.

Where an evaluation criterion is worth 20% then the 0-100 score achieved will be multiplied by 20%.

Example if a Bidder scores 60 from the available 100 points this will equate to 12% by using the following calculation:

$$\text{Score} = \{\text{weighting percentage}\} \times \{\text{bidder's score}\} = 20\% \times 60 = 12$$

The same logic will be applied to groups of questions which equate to a single evaluation criterion.

The 0-100 score shall be based on (unless otherwise stated within the question):

0	The Question is not answered, or the response is completely unacceptable.
10	Extremely poor response – they have completely missed the point of the question.
20	Very poor response and not wholly acceptable. Requires major revision to the response to make it acceptable. Only partially answers the requirement, with major deficiencies and little relevant detail proposed.
40	Poor response only partially satisfying the question requirements with deficiencies apparent. Some useful evidence provided but response falls well short of expectations. Low probability of being a capable supplier.
60	Response is acceptable but remains basic and could have been expanded upon. Response is sufficient but does not inspire.

80	Good response which describes their capabilities in detail which provides high levels of assurance consistent with a quality provider. The response includes a full description of techniques and measurements currently employed.
100	Response is exceptional and clearly demonstrates they are capable of meeting the requirement. No significant weaknesses noted. The response is compelling in its description of techniques and measurements currently employed, providing full assurance consistent with a quality provider.

All questions will be scored based on the above mechanism. As there will be multiple evaluators their individual scores and commentary will be recorded, then a consensus meeting will be convened by the evaluators to determine your score. Note this will include a chairperson or lead and all evaluators are of equal status.

Example

Evaluator 1 scored your bid as 60

Evaluator 2 scored your bid as 60

Evaluator 3 scored your bid as 40

The convened meeting came to a consensus that the final recorded score to given to your submission against this question should be 60, with the justification and reasons for this score recorded.

Once the consensus process has been finalised, all justifications recorded and all non-priced scores are agreed, this will then be subject to an independent commercial moderation review.

Commercial Elements will be evaluated on the following criteria.

Price will be evaluated using proportionate pricing (lowest bid / bid * mark). A bidder's score will be based on the lowest total score received divided by their total cost and then multiplied by the marks available.

For example, if the total basket price for three bid responses is received and Bidder A has quoted £50,000 as their total price, Bidder B has quoted £80,000 and Bidder C has quoted £100,000 then the calculation will be as follows:

(Maximum marks available in this example being 12.5)

Bidder A Score = $50000/50000 \times 12.5 = 12.5$

Bidder B Score = $50000/80000 \times 12.5 = 7.81$

Bidder C Score = $50000/100000 \times 12.5 = 6.25$

This evaluation criteria will therefore not be subject to any averaging, as this is a mathematical scoring criterion, but will still be subject to a commercial review.

Evaluation process

The evaluation process will feature some, if not all, the following phases.

For these purposes, the Contracting Authority may disclose within Government any of the Bidders documentation/information (including any that the Bidder considers to be confidential and/or commercially sensitive such as specific bid information) submitted by the Bidder to the Contracting Authority during this Procurement. The information will not be disclosed outside Government. Bidders taking part in this ITQ consent to these terms as part of the competition process.

- 7.43 The Government revised its Government Security Classifications (GSC) classification scheme on the 2nd April 2014 to replace the previous Government Protective Marking System (GPMS). A key aspect of this is the reduction in the number of security classifications used. All Bidders are encouraged to make themselves aware of the changes and identify any potential impacts in their Bid, as the protective marking and applicable protection of any material passed to, or generated by, you during the procurement process or pursuant to any Contract awarded to you as a result of this tender process will be subject to the new GSC. The link below to the Gov.uk website provides information on the new GSC:

<https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/government-security-classifications>

The Contracting Authority reserves the right to amend any security related term or condition of the draft contract accompanying this ITQ to reflect any changes introduced by the GSC. In particular where this ITQ is accompanied by any instructions on safeguarding classified information (e.g. a Security Aspects Letter) as a result of any changes stemming from the new GSC, whether in respect of the applicable protective marking scheme, specific protective markings given, the aspects to which any protective marking applies or otherwise. This may relate to the instructions on safeguarding classified information (e.g. a Security Aspects Letter) as they apply to the procurement as they apply to the procurement process and/or any contracts awarded to you as a result of the procurement process.
