We would recommend that, in addition to the 10 days outlined above, that PHE procure a further 10 days of consultancy as a contingency pot to be called down on as required.

To note:

- The above table is representative of how time may be used against tasks. It should not be considered as a prescriptive approach. The CSM and Consultant will work with the client team to ensure time is applied to the area's most effective to drive success
- Time is called on a Time and Material basis
- Launching of a Unily Digital Workplace is not reliant on completing all tasks within the table.
- Indicative column demonstrates how long each task may take. However only the consultants' time is chargeable.
- Due to the limited consultancy time, the majority of the work within the table will be conducted remotely in order to make most effective use of the time.

5. CUSTOMER SUCCESS MANAGER/PROJECT MANAGER

The Customer Success Manager will be the main point of contact for the client within Unily throughout the lifecycle of your engagement with Unily.

During the 'PLAN' phase, a project plan will be drawn up between the CSM and Client, highlighting the resource needs, phasing and engagement plan. As with all good engagements, this plan will continue to be updated based upon regular and proactive discussions with both parties.

The CSM will organise all Unily resource, and will ensure access to the right people at the right time.

6. INDICATIVE PROJECT PLAN

The following plan identifies at a high level how the engagement may look. It should be noted that dependencies on both sides will drive the pace of any engagement, and as with every project, a lead time should be considered to start the journey.

However Unily and Client have the right to change and accept or reject any Out of Scope task via the Change Control Process provided written notice with signatures from both parties.

11. CHARGES AND INVOICING

Upon completion and acceptance by Client of each milestone, Unily shall submit to Client an invoice clearly delineating the applicable milestones described in Section 4. All invoices will be sent by email. Unily shall include the following information on each invoice:

All invoices, (including ones for travel, accommodation and subsistence), are due thirty days (30) after receipt by the client. An electronic invoice is deemed received by the client on the same day as transmitted by Unily, if sent to the client before 5pm on a business day. Otherwise it is deemed accepted the following business day after it is sent.

Unily will recharge at cost, separately to the project invoices, any reasonable travel, subsistence or accommodation costs incurred on the project. Where travel of over one (1) hour from Unily's offices to client site is required, unless otherwise agreed, services must be booked in multiples of one (1) day, each day consisting of 7 and a half (7.5) hours, this will allow for a reasonable amount of travel time.

12. ASSUMPTIONS & DEPENDENCIES

12.1. Assumptions

This section refers to project wide assumptions.

In providing consultancy, training and other services, and making recommendations to the client, Unily will base these recommendations on its own experience and on the information supplied by the client in relation to its business and the market in which it operates. Statements of expectations, opinions, forecasts or recommendations provided to the client by Unily are not guarantees and will depend, among other things, on the effective implementation by the client and its staff.

All Unily documentation and planning work will be conducted remotely at Unily's offices. Workshops will take place at the client's offices unless otherwise agreed between the parties.

12.2. Dependencies

The Client project team members and IT support representatives will be available to the Unily team for telephone or face-to-face discussions, as reasonably required.

13. CHANGE MANAGEMENT

When a change request is submitted, this goes through a standard resource assessment and quote process.

Once the scope of these changes is agreed, the definition should be submitted via a Change Request form (CRF). The CRF is passed to the Unily CSM who will assign a Change Request ID. The client must recognize the potential impact of the change requests in terms of additional cost to complete the request (including project slippage) and this will be captured on the CRF. Resource time to scope additional requests may be charged.

All costs will need to be approved by the client before processing.
