4.1.4 NEW HEALTH RESEARCH

Contribution to new research (of mixed methodologies and including review of pertinent literature) projects and conduct cross sectional or longitudinal epidemiological analysis to gain further understanding of the health risks from occupational exposure. Working alongside HSE's health researchers could include;

- Jointly developing research projects with an agreed business case, funding and ethics approval, using existing or new protocols
- Identification of more modern ways of best collecting health data (e.g.

electronically rather than in hard copy) along with the appropriate governance procedures.

4.1.5 UTILISATION OF NATIONAL DATA

Scoping new ways of utilising national data e.g. Clinical Practice Research Datalink (CPRD) and the possibility of working with research councils.
