Annex A: Brief

1. Introduction

United Kingdom Research and Innovation (UKRI), Innovate UK (IUK) provides a world-class cloud platform for Innovation Funding (the Funding Platform, Data Platform, Integration Platform and HCM/Finance Platform).

Underpinning the cloud platform our DevSecOps approach / capability (the practices, and tools that increases our ability to deliver applications and services securely) provided by UKRI's DDaT (Digital Data and Technology) function.

DevSecOps (Development, Security, and Operations) automates and integrates application development, infrastructure provision, and security seamlessly into Agile processes and tools. DevSecOps enables "software, safer, sooner" by automating the delivery of secure software without slowing the software development cycle. DevSecOps can be considered as the foundations on which Services are delivered; without solid, reliable foundations Services cannot be reliably delivered.

Innovate UK's Business Systems and Insights (BS&I) team are delivering ongoing, significant change to their IT systems, processes and tools all which support day to day operations. Under this programme of continuous improvement, BS&I are setting up a project (DevSecOps Project) to take ongoing control of the DevOps provision to transform the service to meet Innovate UK's requirements, and reduce the risk of cyber threats to our platforms and the services we provide.

The desired target state for this future service is outlined below:

- A service that integrates security practices into every phase of DevOps
- A DevSecOps service where IUK has visibility and control over the outcomes
- A defined and measurable service with appropriate boundaries and service levels
- A technical environment that is appropriate to our capability and capacity
- A service that is managed, monitored, understood and reported on, with structured processes
- A service that has Change and lifecycle management in place
- Investment in fit for purpose technology that is future proof
- Ability to support innovation services for other departments
- Ensuring high priority outages rarely happen (i.e., payment run)
- The ability to underpin Service Level targets set across Innovate UK's complete Service Offerings

BS&I are looking to transform and enhance the service to align with the UKRI Cyber Security Development Framework such that:

- Security is improved; we will integrate security considerations into every phase of BS&I's software development and deployment, resulting in a more secure Services. Innovate UK deals with sensitive information, making security a top priority.
- Time-to-deliver is reduced; a reliable DevSecOps environment enables end-to-end automation allowing for faster software development and deployment. Innovate UK often has tight deadlines and therefore needs to release software quickly to address pressing issues. DevSecOps helps teams to work more efficiently, delivering software quickly while maintaining high-quality standards.

Cost savings are realised; by integrating security earlier in the software development process, DevSecOps reduces the cost of fixing security vulnerabilities in later stages of development. It also helps to identify and eliminate defects earlier

2. Aims and Objectives:

The main aim is to procure Datadog logging and monitoring solution in order to enable comprehensive visibility, proactive detection, and efficient management of system performance, security incidents, and operational issues across the infrastructure and applications.

3. Background to the Requirement:

Innovate UK's Business Systems and Insights (BS&I) team has embarked on a journey of substantial change. This ongoing initiative seeks to transform IT systems, processes, and tools to support day-to-day operations effectively. Part of this transformation involves the initiation of the DevSecOps Project, designed to take control of the DevOps provision and modernize the service to align with Innovate UK's evolving requirements. It also aims to minimize the exposure to cybersecurity threats on our platforms and the services they provide.

The target state for this reimagined service encompasses several key objectives:

- Integration of security practices at every DevOps phase.
- Enhanced visibility and control over outcomes.
- Well-defined and measurable service with clear boundaries and service levels.
- A technical environment aligned with capacity and capability.
- Comprehensive management, monitoring, understanding, and reporting with structured processes.
- Implementation of change and lifecycle management.
- Investment in future-proof technology.
- Support for innovation services beyond Innovate UK.
- A substantial reduction in high-priority outages.
- The ability to underpin Service Level targets across Innovate UK's complete Service Offerings.

BS&I seeks to align this transformation with the UKRI Cyber Security Development Framework, with several benefits in mind:

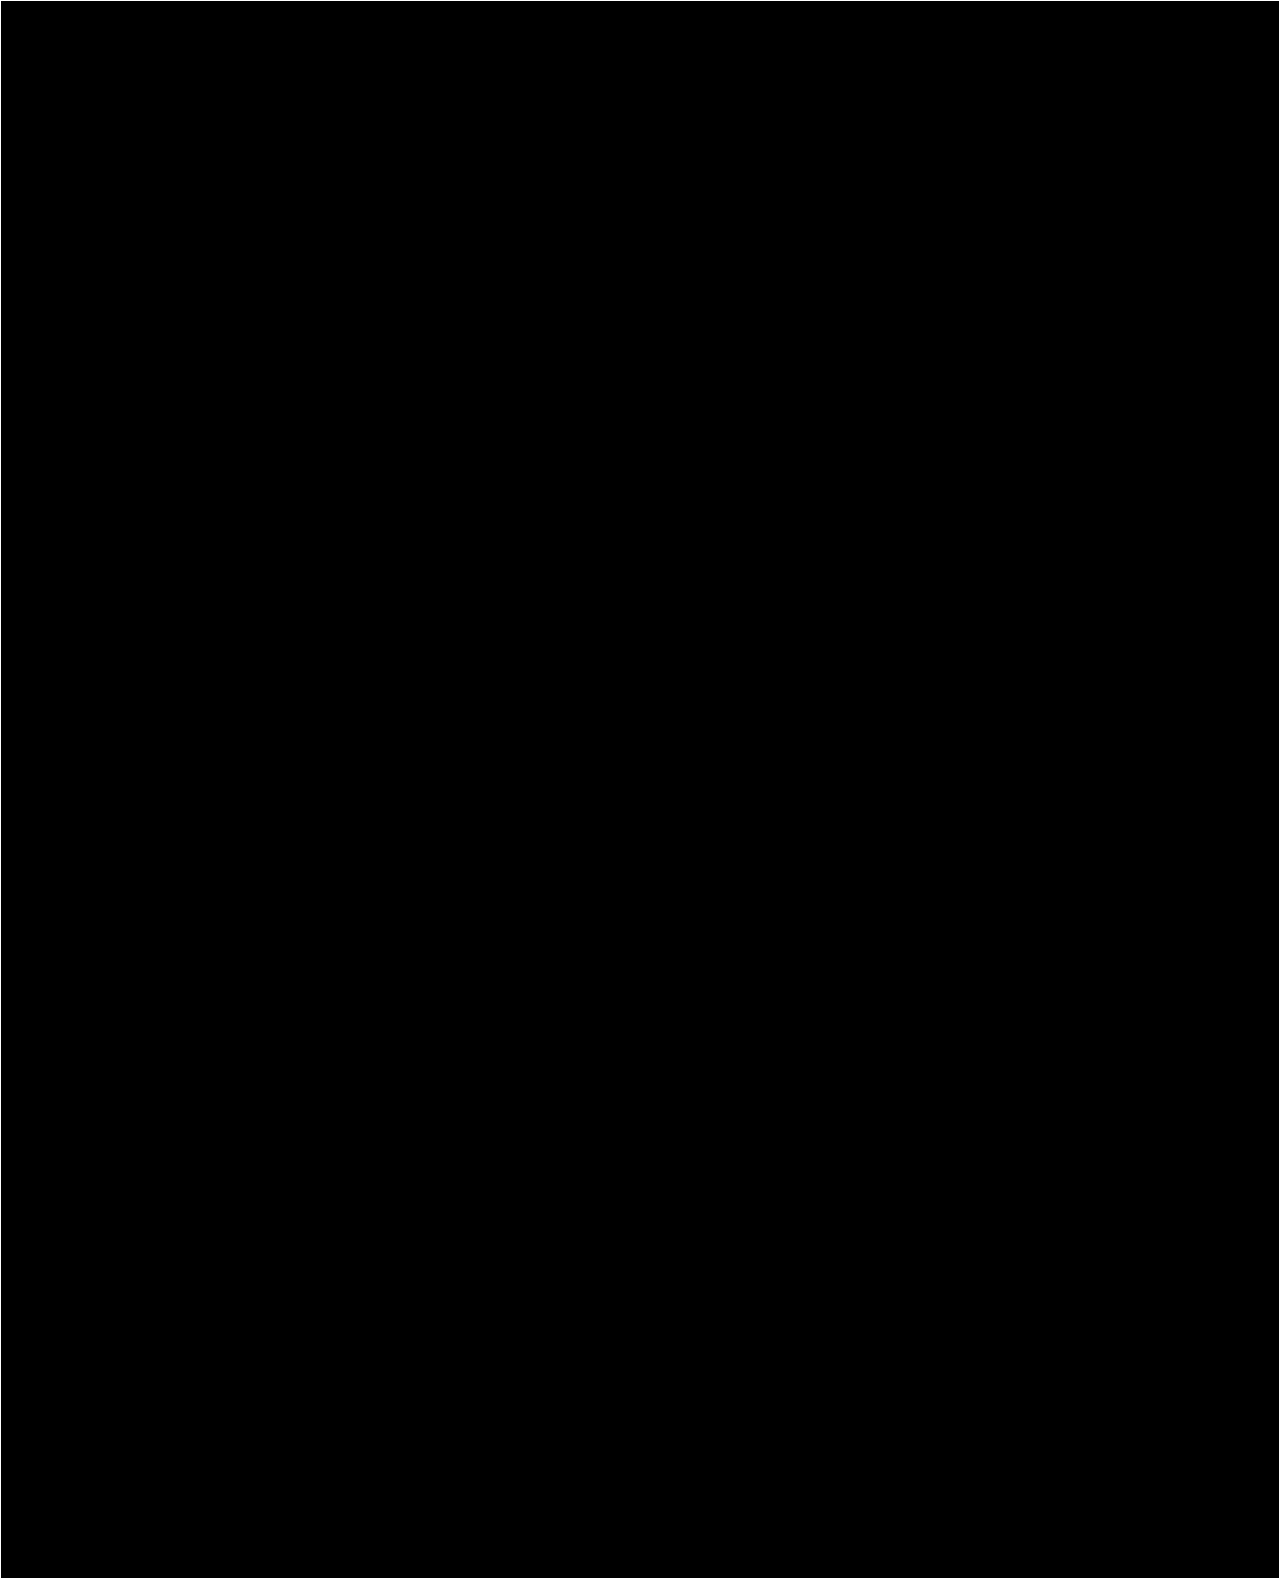

- Improved security with security considerations integrated into every phase of software development.
- Reduced time-to-deliver, ensuring faster software development and deployment.
- Realized cost savings through the early integration of security and defect elimination.
- In essence, this transformation is not just about enhancing efficiency and security but also about ensuring that Innovate UK's commitment to
- innovation and funding remain robust and adaptable in an ever-evolving technological landscape.
