- D3.2 Subject to clause D3.1, a person who is not a Party has no right under the CRTPA to enforce any provisions of the Contract but this does not affect any right or remedy of any person which exists or is available otherwise than pursuant to the CRTPA and does not apply to the Crown.
- D3.3 No Third Party Beneficiary may enforce or take steps to enforce any Third Party Provision without Approval.
- D3.4 Any amendments to the Contract may be made by the Parties without the consent of any Third Party Beneficiary.

D5 Environmental Requirements

D5.1 The Contractor shall in the performance of the Contract have due regard to the Authority's environmental, sustainable and ethical procurement policies ("Environmental Policies") which require the Authority through its procurement and management of suppliers:

- (a) conserve energy, water, wood, paper and other resources and reduce waste;
- (b) phase out the use of ozone depleting substances;
- (c) minimise the release of greenhouse gases, volatile organic compounds and other substances damaging to health and the environment;
- (d) minimise the use of products harmful to health and the environment such as hazardous substances and solvents, replacing them with more benign substances where feasible and, where such substances are necessary, to ensure that they are stored in properly labelled containers, used and disposed of in compliance with legal and regulatory requirements and any instructions from the Authority;
- (e) reduce fuel emissions wherever possible;
- (f) maximise the use of recovered materials and, if recycled materials are not suitable or not readily available, to maximise the use of materials taken from renewable sources; and
- (g) promote the design of products that are capable of reuse or remanufacture or easily separable into recyclable parts consisting of one material (e.g. steel, plastic, textile).

D5.2 The Contractor shall ensure that any equipment and materials used in the provision of the Services do not contain:

- (a) ozone depleting substances such as hydrochlorofluorocarbons (HCFCs), halons, carbon tetrachloride, 111 trichloroethane, bromochloromethane or any other damaging substances; and/or
- (b) HFCs and other gaseous and non-gaseous substances with a high global warming potential;

unless given written permission by the Authority to do so.

D5.3 The Contractor shall conserve energy and water; reduce carbon emissions and other greenhouse gases; minimise the use of substances damaging or hazardous to health and the environment and reduce waste by, for example, using resources more efficiently and reusing, recycling and composting and respecting biodiversity.

D5.4 If required by the Authority the Contractor shall provide the Authority with information about its compliance with its obligations under clause D5.3.

D5.5 The Contractor shall ensure that its Staff are aware of the Authority's Environmental Policies.

D5.6 The Contractor shall:

- (b) if such risks have been identified, enhance the resilience of its organisation to enable it to adapt and deal with the effects of such extreme events, including by having the necessary awareness-raising, evaluation, preventive, preparatory, recovery measures and support systems in place in order to minimise any disruption to the supply of the Services.

D6 Timber and Wood Derived Products

D6.1 For the purposes of clauses D6.1 to D6.8 the following terms shall have the following meanings:

- (a) “Timber” means any product that contains wood or wood fibre, with the exception of "recycled" materials (see below). Such products range from solid wood to those where the manufacturing processes obscure the wood element, for example, paper. Timber and wood-derived products supplied or used in performance of the Services that have been recycled or reclaimed are referred to as "recycled" timber, which is defined below. Timber and wood-derived products supplied or used in performance of the Services that are not recycled are referred to as "virgin" timber when the distinction needs to be made for clarity. Short-rotation coppice is exempt from the requirements for timber and wood-derived products and falls under agricultural regulation and supervision rather than forestry;
- (b) “Legal and Sustainable” means production and process methods, also referred to as timber production standards, and in the context of social criteria, contract performance conditions (only), as defined by the document titled "UK Government timber procurement policy: Definition of Legal and Sustainable for timber procurement" (available at www.gov.uk/government/publications/timber-definition-of-legal-and-sustainable or CPET). The edition current on the day the Contract is awarded shall apply;
- (c) “FLEGT” means Forest Law Enforcement, Governance and Trade, and is a reference to the EU scheme to address the problem of illegally logged timber;
- (d) “FLEGT-licensed” means production and process methods, also referred to as timber production standards, and in the context of social criteria, contract performance conditions only, as defined by a bilateral Voluntary Partnership Agreement (“VPA”) between the European Union and a timber-producing country under the FLEGT scheme, where both Parties have agreed to establish a system under which timber that has been produced in accordance with the relevant laws of the producing country, and other criteria stipulated by the VPA, are licensed for export by the producing country government;
- (e) “Recycled” means recovered wood that prior to being supplied to the Authority had an end use as a standalone object or as part of a structure. The term "recycled" is used to cover the following categories: pre-consumer recycled wood and wood fibre or industrial by products but excluding sawmill co-products (sawmill co-products are deemed to fall within the category of virgin timber), post-consumer recycled wood and wood fibre, and drift wood. It also covers reclaimed timber which was abandoned or confiscated at least ten years previously. Documentary evidence and independent verification also apply to recycled materials, but will focus on the use to which the timber was previously put rather than the forest source;

- (f) “Short-rotation coppice” means a specific management regime whereby the poles of trees are cut every one to two years and which is aimed at producing biomass for energy. It is exempt from the UK government timber procurement policy requirements and falls under agricultural regulation and supervision rather than forestry. The exemption only refers to short-rotation coppice, and not 'conventional' coppice which is forest management and therefore subject to the timber policy; and
- (g) “CPET” means the UK Government’s Central Point of Expertise on Timber.

D6.2 All Timber supplied or used by the Contractor in providing the Services (including all Timber supplied or used by Sub-Contractors) shall comply with Schedule 1 and shall originate from a forest source where management of the forest has full regard for:

- (a) identification, documentation and respect of legal, customary and traditional tenure and use rights related to the forest;
- (b) mechanisms for resolving grievances and disputes including those relating to tenure and use rights, to forest management practices and to work conditions; and
- (c) safeguarding the basic labour rights and health and safety of forest workers

(the “Social Criteria”).

D6.3 If requested by the Authority and not already provided in its Tender, the Contractor shall give the Authority evidence that the Timber supplied or used in providing the Services complies with the requirements of Schedule 1 and with the requirements of the Social Criteria.

D6.4 The Authority may at any time during the Contract Period and for 6 years after final delivery under the Contract require the Contractor to produce the evidence required for the Authority's inspection within 14 days of the Authority's written request.

D6.5 The Contractor shall maintain records of all Timber delivered to and accepted by the Authority for 6 years from final delivery under the Contract.

D6.6 The Authority shall decide whether the evidence submitted to it demonstrates legality and sustainability, or FLEGT-licence or equivalent, and is adequate to satisfy the Authority that the Timber complies with Schedule 1 and complies with the requirements of the Social Criteria. If the Authority is not satisfied, the Contractor shall commission and meet the costs of an "independent verification" and resulting report that will: (a) verify the forest source of the timber or wood; and (b) assess whether the source meets the relevant criteria.

D6.7 In the Contract "Independent Verification" means that an evaluation is undertaken and reported by an individual or body whose organisation, systems and procedures conform to ISO Guide 65:1996 (EN 45011:1998) General requirements for bodies operating product certification systems (as amended from time to time) or equivalent, and who is accredited to audit against forest management standards by a body whose organisation, systems and procedures conform to ISO 17011: 2004 General Requirements for Providing Assessment and Accreditation of Conformity Assessment Bodies (as amended from time to time) or equivalent.

D6.8 The Authority may reject Timber that does not comply with Schedule 1 or with the Social Criteria. If the Authority rejects any Timber the Contractor shall supply alternative Timber which does comply at no additional cost to the Authority and without causing delay to delivery of the Services.

F5 Waiver

- F5.1 The failure of either Party to insist upon strict performance of any provision of the Contract, or the failure of either Party to exercise, or any delay in exercising, any right or remedy shall not constitute a waiver of that right or remedy and shall not cause a diminution of the obligations established by the Contract.
- F5.2 No waiver shall be effective unless it is expressly stated to be a waiver and communicated to the other Party in writing in accordance with clause A4 (Notices and Communications).
- F5.3 A waiver of any right or remedy arising from a breach of the Contract shall not constitute a waiver of any right or remedy arising from any other or subsequent breach of the Contract.

F6 Variation

- F6.1 If, after the Commencement Date, the Authority's requirements change, the Authority may request a Variation subject to the terms of this clause 6.
- F6.2 The Authority may request a Variation by notifying the Contractor in writing of the Variation and giving the Contractor sufficient information to assess the extent of the Variation and consider whether any change to the Price is required in order to implement the Variation within a reasonable time limit specified by the Authority. If the Contractor accepts the Variation it shall confirm it in writing.

- F6.5 A CCN takes effect on the date on which both Parties communicate acceptance of the CCN via Bravo. On the date it communicates acceptance of the CCN in this way the Contractor is deemed to warrant and represent that the CCN has been executed by a duly authorised representative of the Contractor in addition to the warranties and representations set out in clause G2.

F6.6 The provisions of clauses F6.4 and F6.5 may be varied in an emergency if it is not practicable to obtain the Authorised Representative's approval within the time necessary to make the Variation in order to address the emergency. In an emergency, Variations may be approved by a different representative of the Authority. However, the Authorised Representative shall have the right to review such a Variation and require a CCN to be entered into on a retrospective basis which may itself vary the emergency Variation.

F7 Severability

F7.1 If any provision of the Contract which is not of a fundamental nature is held invalid, illegal or unenforceable for any reason by any court of competent jurisdiction, such provision shall be severed and the remainder of the provisions of the Contract shall continue in full force and effect as if the Contract had been executed with the invalid, illegal or unenforceable provision eliminated.

F8 Remedies Cumulative

F8.1 Except as expressly provided in the Contract all remedies available to either Party for breach of the Contract are cumulative and may be exercised concurrently or separately, and the exercise of any one remedy shall not be deemed an election of such remedy to the exclusion of other remedies.

SCHEDULE 1 - SPECIFICATION

Specification – A Review of Point of Contact testing for Food Authenticity Analysis

Defra's vision is for a world leading food and farming system. Consumer confidence in food and drink underpins the trust that consumers have in the food chain. This is an essential part of ensuring a resilient and safe supply chain, and of growing a competitive and thriving food industry. Food authenticity – knowing what food is, how it is produced, where it comes from, and that it is correctly labelled – is a key part of this. Defra's Food Authenticity programme develops analytical methods to verify food authenticity and compliance with food labelling legislation. These methods include rapid screening tools, supported by more complex confirmatory analysis, which are used to support food law enforcement.

Background

Point-of-Contact (POC) technology enables testing and screening of food to take place in real time, at the point of contact with a sample. POC testing is employed in many different arenas, typically for screening for the presence or absence of an analyte of interest. Tests are typically portable, rapid, cheap, and give the test operator information on what may or may not be present at the point of contact with the sample. POC testing is already extensively used in the diagnostic and forensic arenas, including food forensics, and is based on a wide range of technologies, including colorimetric reagents and immunoassays. Tests can also be reusable and non-invasive (for example, spectroscopies), allowing the sample to be subjected to further testing if needed. Testing is usually considered to give an indication of sample composition, rather than definitive identification, and samples may be subjected to confirmatory analysis to support further action.

Historically, Defra's Food Authenticity programme has focussed on the science underpinning single analyte detection methods to verify food composition, some of which require complex, expensive analysis. Defra has also pioneered simplifying some of these methods for use in the field via 'lab on a chip' technology. The programme has also developed proof of concept ELISA approaches for several more complex methods, with limited success. Recent non-invasive techniques such as spectral imaging have proved to be more successful. New technologies offer opportunities for non-targeted multi-analyte analysis for food authenticity testing. Rapid, easy and quick to use, these would have potential application in the field and across the supply chain, as well as in the laboratory.

Aim

Defra wishes to undertake a two part study. Firstly, a review of POC technology, through a food authenticity lens, with a specific focus on applications as rapid tools to detect food fraud (e.g. to detect misrepresentation and mislabelling of foodstuffs). The review should provide 1) information on what current and emerging POC tools are available to detect potential food fraud or verify food authenticity, and how they are currently used, 2) priority areas for POC applications within the food chain, 3) the 'fitness for purpose' of existing POC tools (i.e. proof of concept stage or beyond) to meet these needs, 4) what opportunities exist in other sectors to develop POC applications for food authenticity testing, including the risks and benefits associated with potential new POC applications, and 5) where additional research and development would be needed to further exploit this powerful diagnostics platform in the field of food authenticity.

In parallel, Defra wishes to undertake a pilot study to trial new and emerging technologies to develop and demonstrate the suitability of POC technology applications in the food chain. The pilot study is intended to trial new approaches, for example through lab-based experimental work, to put the right tools in place to move novel technologies forward and enable rapid uptake of technology to meet food authenticity needs within the food system. The pilot study experimental design should focus on 1) overcoming key barrier(s) to implementation of POC technology, and 2) practical road testing of novel approaches in relation to a specific scenario or product type to maximize impact of this technology for use in a variety of settings (in the field, lab, by industry)

Objectives

1. To carry out a review to:

- Explore the availability of POC applications from a food authenticity testing perspective. This includes the pipeline of test development, and the potential use of POC technologies currently employed in related arenas. This should include consideration of technologies from related sectors (e.g. forensics, pharma, etc.) and new and innovative digital approaches.
- Understand the main analytical challenges and end user needs that would benefit from POC technology, acknowledging that rapid screening will not always be preferential to lab-based testing, e.g. for food law enforcement. This should incorporate different food product types, end users (e.g. trading standards, port authorities), and requirements (e.g. imports screening, product surveys).
- Understand in which new situations POC tests could be applied, including where POC technology could replace or compliment lab-based methods. The performance data and benefits of existing or potential POC application should be quantified wherever possible, if applicable, including through the design and implementation of a pilot study (see below).
- Understand limitations from using POC technology and the extent to which these limitations impact on the development of potential applications. This should include impacts of miniaturisation of technology on performance and instrument specification compared with lab-based methods including data capacity/storage, costs, validation and accessibility, end user needs. The review should also highlight the impact of any false results, and how this could be mitigated.

- Explore support mechanisms to ensure fitness for purpose (including validation or reference databases), and the challenges and opportunities of operationalising tests, particularly in relation to knowledge transfer, competence and training.

2. Road-testing new approaches: Carry out a pilot study to:

- Pilot experimental approaches using POC approaches to verify food authenticity.
- In developing the pilot study, practical consideration should be given to the barriers or limitations of POC applications and their uptake within the chosen area, and how the pilot study will take account of these. Barriers could include technological maturity, device availability, training, validation, databases, fitness for purpose etc. For example, if the barrier to uptake is a lack of existing technology to rapidly screen for food authenticity issues, the pilot study should include laboratory testing of new technologies to develop appropriate tools.
- The pilot study should focus on a specific, high-impact authenticity-related area of the food chain where the benefits of POC testing to verify food authenticity would be maximized.
- As part of the pilot study, the performance of POC testing in relation to existing and alternative laboratory-based approaches should be quantified wherever possible.
- We anticipate proposals for the pilot study to be novel, innovative and based on sound science and run for 12-18 months.

Research questions

- 1) The landscape review should explore the potential applications, opportunities, challenges and development areas for POC testing in food authenticity. Accordingly, the research questions are grouped into the following themes:

Current use of POC technologies

- What POC technologies are currently used in the food authenticity testing arena, either in a mobile or lab-based setting? How widely used are they (at both a national and international level)? What issues, challenges or opportunities have resulted through their use?

- Where the biggest gaps in food authenticity which would benefit from PoC approaches to verify food composition, labelling and standards?
- What technology gaps / barriers exist limiting the use of POC technology from a food authenticity perspective? How could additional research and development address these? What would research look like, what would be likely outcomes?

Performance – analytical considerations

- What are the limitations of POC testing? Are there any data on the performance of POC testing that is either deployed or could be deployed in food authenticity testing, and how could risks arising from any false results be mitigated? What are the performance issues associated with miniaturisation of a techniques? What are the associated running and maintenance costs, training needs, and data validation and management requirements?
- What is preventing POC testing being used more widely across techniques and commodities? What technological developments are needed to overcome these barriers?

New Advances

- What Commercial-Off-the-Shelf (COTS) equipment is currently available that could be applied in a food authenticity setting? Are there any technologies from related areas (such as forensics) that could have applications from a food perspective? Are there any late TRL (technology readiness level) or near-market tools that would be applicable? What are the benefits and risks of any new applications compared to current approaches?
- What are the likely step-changes in POC testing, and what would be their implications? Are there emerging developments that could be transformative from a food testing perspective? What are the barriers (technological, scientific, other) to achieving them, and how could they be resolved? What underpinning science or evidence is needed to support transformational change?
- What opportunities could there be to use POC technology from related areas and apply it to food authenticity testing? What opportunities are there for new (digital) approaches?

Validation

- What key issues need to be considered when validating PoC applications?
- What existing mechanisms are there for the validation, verification and approval of POC tests for authenticity? What accreditation, standards, best practice and guidance exists? What additional validation and approval mechanisms need to be developed to ensure fitness for purpose?

- What mechanisms for training and ongoing competency already exist? What additional mechanisms need to be developed?

2) The pilot study should identify technological and other solutions to existing barriers which preclude the widespread implementation of POC technologies in the food authenticity arena. The design of the pilot study should consider the key barriers to uptake of POC, as well as fitness for purpose, applicability for use in the field, resource availability (e.g. reference materials, expertise etc.), and expected impact.

Methodology

Whilst Defra would appreciate expert advice on the suitable approach to meet the project's objectives, we envisage the landscape review will consist primarily of an analysis of evidence (including market survey data for COTS equipment). This analysis should be supplemented by expert engagement (industry, academia, enforcers, policy makers, etc.) to determine particular settings at different stages of the food chain in which POC testing could be used.

It is expected that the pilot study should trial approaches that clearly address barriers to innovation or uptake of POC within the food chain. These barriers should be informed by the landscape review, in addition to the successful bidders' experience. Defra acknowledges that the focus of the pilot study will be dependent upon the specific requirements and availability of POC testing within the food chain. However, the pilot study should experimentally quantify and demonstrate the potential benefits and risks of new POC applications, as well as road-testing the feasibility of new approaches, and is expected to run in parallel with the landscape review in order to accelerate research findings and impact.

Deliverables

The expected project deliverables include:

- Inception meeting with Defra (August 2019)
