SCHEDULE 1- SPECIFICATION OF SERVICES

This Section sets out the Authority's requirements.

Introduction and background to Natural England

1.1 The Authority is Natural England. Natural England (NE) is the government's advisor on the natural environment. We provide practical advice, grounded in science, on how best to safeguard England's natural wealth for the benefit of everyone. Our remit is to ensure sustainable stewardship of the land and sea so that people and nature can thrive. It is our responsibility to see that England's rich natural environment can adapt and survive intact for future generations to enjoy. Further information about the Authority can be found at: <https://www.gov.uk/government/organisations/natural-england>

Background to this research project

1.2 Natural England's 2021/22 action plan outlines the need to address inequalities in our society in terms of access to high quality natural environments, including both green and blue space. This project has arisen out of the need to better understand what 'high quality natural environments' mean for children and young people and how this quality impacts their use and benefit from these spaces.

1.3 Previous research, including Natural England's children's 'People and Nature survey' (C-PANS) has shown evidence of this inequality in children's access to nature (<https://www.gov.uk/government/statistics/the-people-and-nature-survey-for-england-child-data-wave-1-experimental-statistics> and Building Partnerships for Nature's Recovery: Natural England's Action Plan 2021-2022 \(publishing.service.gov.uk\))

1.4 During the pandemic (August 2020) C-PANS found that larger numbers of children from ethnic minority backgrounds and lower income households reported spending less time outside since coronavirus than white and higher income households respectively. To unpick the nature of these inequalities further, it is important to not only look at differences in the time children are spending outdoors, but also the nature of those experiences and how this varies by demographic and other factors. This includes what kind of natural environments children have near them, how they perceive the quality of these spaces and how that impacts on the time they spend there, how they connect with nature and the benefits they receive from spending time in those spaces.

Aims of the research project

1.5 The aim of this project is to carry out qualitative research with different groups of children (aged 8-15) to develop our understanding of how they experience and describe the 'quality' of natural environments close to their home (based on these being the natural spaces they most commonly visit). The aim is to use these insights to feed into the way quality of natural environments is measured in further waves of C-PANS, through the development of a measure of 'perceived quality of the local natural environment'.

1.6 Research questions include (but are not limited to):

- What aspects of their local natural environments do children and young people like/dislike?
- What do children like to do in their local spaces?
- What benefits do they get from spending time in those spaces?
- What would make them spend more time in those spaces?
- What puts them off spending time there?
- How do these responses differ between different groups of children (for example, based on age group, gender, urban/rural living, income, ethnicity, and disability)?
- How can these insights inform the measurement of perceived quality of local natural environments in a way that is meaningful to a diverse range of children?

Scope of work

1.7 The research aims/questions have the potential to be addressed using a range of methods (creative methods encouraged) and we welcome applications that draw upon the expertise of researchers and research collaborators to strengthen outputs. However, broadly, the scope of this work should include:

- Phase 1 – A brief evidence review to identify key metrics and insights around quality in relation to the natural environment (whether earlier work with children or drawing upon insights from research with adults).
- Phase 2 – Qualitative research with children and young people to reveal children's preferences around local natural environments, what they like and dislike about certain spaces, what they would like to see in spaces and how they experience and benefit from them (as per research questions, section 1.5) . Analysis of qualitative research insights to describe the data and unpick how children and young people themselves view quality in the local natural environment. Appropriate sample size and criteria should be outlined by the contractor dependent on chosen methodology.
- Phase 3 – Use of the evidence review and qualitative research to develop a concise (composite) quantitative measure of 'perceived quality of local natural environments' for use with children (aged 8-15 years old) in C-PANS and wider surveys.
- Phase 4 – Early piloting (testing/validation) of the 'perceived quality of local natural environments' measure with children and young people from diverse backgrounds.

A steering group composed of Natural England social scientist/s and 'Connecting People with Nature' programme staff will oversee the research.

Expertise required for this research project

1.8 We are particularly interested in experts or consortia of experts with a track record of the following:

- social science expertise in the project area and an ability to show thought leadership in developing this work;
- experience of working with children and young people, adhering to strict ethical procedures;
- qualitative research expertise, including collection, management, analysis and interpretation of qualitative data, and;
- a track record of completing and writing research for publication in peer-reviewed journals as well as for lay audiences.
- Desirable: experience of scale development, piloting, and validation.

Key Deliverables for this research project

- 1) Final work plan developed in collaboration with Natural England
- 2) Brief evidence review including list of final references
- 3) Anonymised qualitative data from phase 2
- 4) Finalised (composite) measure of perceived quality of local natural environments
