Buyer contractual details

This Order is for the G-Cloud Services outlined below. It is acknowledged by the Parties that the volume of the G-Cloud Services used by the Buyer may vary during this Call-Off Contract.

G-Cloud lot:	This Call-Off Contract is for the provision of Services under: Lot 1 - Cloud hosting
G-Cloud services	The Services to be provided by the Supplier under the above Lot are listed in

required:	Framework Section 2 and outlined below: The Supplier will provide the facility for the automatic creation of case records from scanned letters and/or emails to create case records and will redirect them to the appropriate workflow depending on the case type; the solution also allows for reporting and analysis based on case type (and many other dimensions). The Supplier will provide a web-based interface all – with access from all common platforms (IE, Chrome, IOS) without the need for plugins or add-ons. The solution will be secure to IL3 The solution will be scalable and capable of handling at least 50,000 cases per year with up to 7 years of historical data. The solution will provide three levels of access Power Users and Basic Users - and specific privileges and permissions can be applied to these types Power Users: initial requirement 55 users able to manage cases from creation through to closure, Basic Users: initial requirement approximately 2000 able to create cases, be assigned tasks to carry out, and maintain correspondence (such as approving / amending letters). The solution will provide a data structure of users with a hierarchical structure with 6 levels: department; group; directorate; division; team; and user. Users can be set up in more than one team. A user's cases will be visible to anyone who has access to any level in the hierarchy above the user or to someone who has proxy access to the user unless the access rights to those cases have otherwise been restricted i.e. Inter Departmental Correspondence. The solution will have the ability to keep discrete case records and audit trail for Inter Departmental Correspondence cases so that they cannot be viewed or searched by anyone other than specified users with appropriate permissions i.e. an administrator and the person providing a reply. The solution will allow a user to create cases without an associated letter or email. (Work flow handling) Administrators or power users will be able to input and update details for each individual case record and its handling i.e. date received; sender's name and address (postal or email); subject matter; official identified to investigate or draft the reply/answer; time by which the draft is required; the minister(s) who will clear the draft / answer; and whether the correspondence / question is a round robin. Tasks can be assigned by the user to undertake investigations / draft replies / decide the minister involved and whether the correspondence / question is a round robin The solution will provide secure email integration, and to ensure that users are alerted (by email) of cases, tasks Emails will be sent automatically to assignees. Power Users will be able to see the entire case details via the system; Basic Users will have case summaries and /or specific documents attached to the emails in MS Office 2013 or 10 or PDF formats. When basic (or power) users are assigned a task to respond, they will be able to edit the template (already prefilled with case specific details) directly from a link in the email,

	opening the MS Office version of their choice. System Administrators will be able to define the timescales associated with cases, escalation stages, tasks and correspondence. These timescales can be variable depending on the type of case, task or correspondence and can take into account public holidays and other non-working days. The solution will be able to use indexed information to create pre-populated documentation and associate this with the case record. I.e. to create a template response, filling in the address, salutation drawing on data entered within the case record; or automatically create a question-specific template for each parliamentary question and associate this with the case record. It will be capable of merging of any related case data. All correspondence (including drafts) is stored on the case record. The solution also allows for standard paragraphs to be maintained by System Administrators so that the paragraphs can be selected by the user when building a reply or through a formula based on specific case details. The solution will allow Administrators to create and maintain timescales for email chasers. Users can override this if the circumstances are urgent as the system allows users to contact other “case contacts” by email at any time. Email chasers will be recorded on the audit trail. Additionally, report users can also define periodic alerts that can generate lists of cases that require action. The solution will allow users to reject or re-assign work; it will allow users to draft answers and replies for approval; users will be able to add comments and amend replies / answers, reject drafts and request re-drafts. Workflow steps can scripted using forms and pre-populated lists. Administrators/ power users will be able to make changes to records (e.g. amend due dates for reply or change one correspondence type to another). Each of these changes will be recorded on the audit trail, so that the original information will be still available. The solution will have the capability for administrators or power users to print labels showing information about the case i.e. name of minister to reply/answer; name of civil servant drafting reply/answer; date draft reply/answer submitted or received; date due back (for parliamentary questions and correspondence cases dealt with in hard copy where required). Summary information about cases grouped as required can be produced in a number of formats (including printed). The solution will retain the final reply/answer for a case if sent electronically, without requiring scanning (unless required – e.g. where manuscript changes are included on a response). Scanning will only be required for those circumstances in which a case document is a hard copy. The solution has an audit trail which records all updates and read access. This audit trail will show tasks and correspondence completed and full details of all amendments in date / time stamp order together with relevant user id and ip address. A timeline will provide an additional visual display of case activity. Monitoring The solution will generate a range of management information on work flows and case numbers with the capability for administrators to request regular or ad-hoc performance reports based on (or a combination of): o case type (correspondence, parliamentary question, Fol request etc.);

	- o subject; - o date ranges from work flow (i.e. date case received, logged or allocated; due date for a response/reply; or case completion date; whether responded to or answered on time; or how long after the due date a response or answer issued); - o user / approver (either by individual user, team, division, directorate, group or department); - o number of allocations or re-allocations; - o whether a redraft was needed; - o correspondent / applicant (i.e. who the correspondence is from, or who a parliamentary question is asked by); - o responder (i.e. government minister or civil servant responsible for the final response); - o case outcome, exemptions used (for FoI). The solution has a library of standard reports which can be supplemented by the use of ad-hoc report writing undertaken by trained report writers. Reports can be subscribed to, thus having them produced by the system on a schedule and automatically emailed to the subscribers (who don't have to be users of the system). The solution will provide a simple-to-use but sophisticated ad-hoc report designer which will allow trained users to extract data directly from the database without requiring knowledge of the database schemas. Data can be extracted into spreadsheets or published as XML feeds. Access to the ad-hoc report writing facilities will be controlled by the system administrators; and they can also dictate whether users can run report and restrict access to data based on service/department. Additional requirements specific to handling parliamentary questions The solution will provide for all extract files to be in Excel format if required. XML feeds are also supported. The system will have the ability to automatically create cases from a variety of feed formats (incl. RSS, ATOM and others) Connectivity to these feeds will be incorporated at no additional cost. The solution will support the manual creation of case records as required; the same business rules (or amended ones) as applies in the electronic integration can be provided for to ensure that all reasonable steps are taken to reduce the incidence of error. Once the new PQ system is implemented across the board then the manual facilities will be "turned off" if required. Additional requirements specific to handling Freedom of Information requests The Supplier will collect all the required data for the MoJ statistics and will endeavor to meet current and any future reporting requirements defined by the MoJ. The solution will have a facility to automatically stop a given work flow until a named individual gives approval that it can proceed. I.e. to ensure that a senior civil servant sees and approves a draft response before it issues ('forced approval by Director').

The solution will have a facility to clearly indicate if a 'special' case applies and adjust the work flow accordingly. E.g. round robins, National Security Liaison Group, Papers of a Previous Administration.

The solution will have the facility to generate an anonymized copy of a response available to load on to the Department's website (a 'disclosure log' file) in an easily accessible format.

The solution will include a disclosure log facility. This allows for a searchable log to be displayed on a website - providing access to redacted versions of previous responses. The log can be displayed using style sheets so that it has the look-and-feel of the overall site. The system will provide supporting workflow for the log so designated users can approve responses prior to disclosure. The disclosure log will also published through the Supplier's API – allowing content management systems to embed the log as required.

Ease of use and ability to use pre-populated data

The solution will have single, common interface for all the users and for all facilities in the system. All modules of the system will have the same look-and-feel.

The system will have automatic comparison of information from previous cases used to auto-fill information (i.e. names, postcodes, emails) when indexing new cases. Where cases related to the same case contact, details from previous cases will be used to pre-fill the new case.

The solution will automatically link cases relating to the same customer or subject.

The solution will allow for extensive keyword searches to be undertaken through the underlying database. Keyword searches will operate across all free-text fields that are marked to be searchable as well as associated classifications. The solution will not search associated documents.

Multiple users can amend draft answers/replies without needing to reallocate the case (collaborative authoring) – although all contributions would be recorded for the audit trail,

The solution will allow a user, having considered the information presented to the department, to either transfer the request or arrange for a joint response to be managed. Both processes support automated sending of details using email.
