ANNEX 2 – PRICE SCHEDULE

ANNEX 3 – STATEMENT OF REQUIREMENTS

1. PURPOSE

- 1.1 The provision of legal assistance for Special Constables, which covers them for personal injury claims, criminal proceedings and disciplinary matters such as gross misconduct.

1.2 BACKGROUND TO THE CONTRACTING AUTHORITY

- 1.3 The Home Office leads on immigration and passports, drugs policy, crime policy and counter-terrorism and works to ensure visible, responsive and accountable policing in the UK. The Home Office has maintained responsibility for some of the tasks that the (now-disbanded) National Policing Improvement Agency (NPIA) used to undertake on the Authority's behalf including provision of the legal assistance cover for Special Constables.

2. BACKGROUND TO REQUIREMENT/OVERVIEW OF REQUIREMENT

- 2.1 The Special Constables Legal Expenses Insurance Scheme provides Special Constables (SCs) with personal legal protection and guidance for eligible SCs, for incidents arising while on duty, where subsequent legal representation may be required.
- 2.2 This scheme used to be tendered for and managed through the National Policing Improvement Agency (NPIA), but since the closedown of the Agency, responsibility for National Special Constabulary Policy, including funding and managing the insurance scheme, has now transferred to the Home Office.
- 2.3 This cover is necessary to ensure that SCs are not unfairly disadvantaged compared to their employed colleagues regarding access to legal advice. SCs give up their time to local police forces for free to help protect their communities.
- 2.4 The current contract ends on 31st March 2019.

3. DEFINITIONS

Expression or Acronym	Definition
SC	means Special Constable – a fully warranted volunteer police officer.
NPIA	means National Policing Improvement Agency.
IOPC	means Independent Office for Police Conduct

4. SCOPE OF REQUIREMENT

- 4.1 In scope of this requirement is:

- 4.1.1 Provision of Legal Expenses insurance for every Special Constable operating within England and Wales, with the exception of those engaged by British Transport Police.
- 4.1.2 Legal Expenses Insurance must cover the items listed at 5.7 below.
- 4.1.3 Cover must be up to a maximum of £100,000 per incident. There is no maximum number of incidents per Special Constable.

5. THE REQUIREMENT

- 5.1 The current contractual requirement expires on Sunday 31st March 2019. The Home Office needs to re tender for the scheme for twelve (12) months to Tuesday 31st March 2020 through an open and fair competition, with the potential for an extension for up to one further year until Thursday 31st March 2021. The scheme must continue without any gap in insurance provision for Special Constables.
- 5.2 All Special Constables in Home Office forces in England and Wales must be insured so that they are able to practice legally within England and Wales. There were 11,029 Special Constables in England and Wales as of 30th March 2018 (excluding British Transport Police Special Constables). This number has reduced every year since 2012. However, the Home Office requires a commitment that the new insurance cover and price will remain the same should this number rise during the duration of the policy.
- 5.3 Insurance should cover legal costs of pursuing a personal injury claim:
- 5.4 Claims covered should include injuries sustained to Special Constables in the course of active duty (including to and from duty), any off duty incidents, road traffic accidents, safety training injuries, accidents occurring in police stations, clinical negligence and serious and fatal injuries.
- 5.5 If a Special Constable is injured in an accident either on or off duty (including to and from duty) their family should be able to claim.
- 5.6 In terms of 'off duty' incidents, this is defined as any incidents that occur in addition to any injuries occurring whilst on duty, Special Constables should be able to claim for injuries that are sustained as a result of those moments when Special Constables are required to intervene in an incident that occurs whilst off duty (unless the policy includes coverage for ALL injuries, including those unrelated to the Special Constable role, at no extra cost to the Home Office).
- 5.7 Legal Expenses insurance is also required, which should cover:
 - Police station advice
 - Advice in IOPC investigations

- Representation in Magistrates Court and Crown Court proceedings
 - Representation at an inquest
 - Misconduct proceedings
 - Civil proceedings, including allegations of assault, wrongful arrest, false imprisonment, malicious prosecution, misfeasance and trespass should also be covered.
- 5.8 The policy must cover the representation of Special Constables on an individual basis for civil matters, not just when they are subject to allegations under the Chief Constable's vicarious liability.
- 5.9 Special Constables also should be covered for advice in the event of discrimination allegations, breach of road traffic regulations or any other general legal matter.
- 5.10 The Indemnity Limit should be for £100,000 for each insured incident. The Home Office does not accept any liability beyond that covered by the insurance policy.
- 5.11 There will of course be a number of cases that will be ongoing during the transition stage in changing from one insurer to the next. However, the present insurers will honour any outstanding commitments up to and including the expiry date of the existing contract, although new cases relating to incidents taking place during or before the period of the new contract should be taken on by the new insurer, where there are not already arrangements in place with previous insurers.
- 5.12 A policy wording document will be required along with a summary of cover (copies of the documents for the current insurer can be provided on request), and wallet cards need to be produced for each Special Constable, detailing the contact details of the insurer.
