It shall be the responsibility of the Provider to determine the amount of indemnity and/or self-insurance cover that will be adequate to enable it to satisfy its potential liabilities under this contract. Accordingly, the Provider shall be liable to make good any deficiency if the proceeds of any indemnity cover and/or self-insurance arrangement is insufficient to cover the settlement of any claim.
- 12.8 The Provider warrants that it shall not take any action or fail to take any reasonable action or (in so far as it is reasonable and within its power) permit or allow others to take or fail to take any action, as a result of which its insurance cover may be rendered void, voidable, unenforceable, or be suspended or impaired in whole or in part, or which may otherwise render any sum paid out under such insurances repayable in whole or in part.
- 13 LIABILITY
- 13.1 Without prejudice to its liability to HEE for breach of any of its obligations under this contract, the Provider shall be liable for and shall indemnify HEE against any direct liability, loss, damage, costs, expenses, claims or proceedings whatsoever ("Losses") (subject always to an obligation upon HEE to mitigate any Losses to every reasonably practicable extent) incurred by HEE in respect of any claim against HEE, arising under any statute or otherwise in respect of:

Part 2: Service Specification:

Introduction

Health Education England (HEE) is responsible for providing education, training, and personal development to every member of Health & Social Care - without a knowledgeable, skilled, and confident workforce there would be no Health & Social Care. In addition, HEE is responsible for the leadership of all healthcare education and training for those employed by the NHS and for those seeking NHS employment. HEE also has statutory obligations for the quality of the services which it funds and for the safety and protection of students and patients.

This tender relates to the provision of a national module for Pre-Registration Nurses (covering all fields of nursing), Trainee Nursing Associates, Registered Nurses and Nursing Associates who have no prior experience of working in general practice but are considering a career in Primary Care/General Practice. This provision will enable growth in the number of registered staff to work in Primary Care/General Practice and provide consistency in training across the country.

Other programmes are available for nurses in Primary Care/General Practice. However, this module is distinctly different and is aimed as either a pre-employment module, or as part of an induction for those already employed in another sector but wishing to move into Primary Care/General Practice. Figure 1 outlines the target audience and where this module is positioned in relation to other programmes that are available upon being employed in Primary Care/General Practice.

Fig 1. Nursing Pathway/Career Framework – where the module fits

NHS Education and Training Contract v1 – published 06th September

This Invitation to Tender document provides you with the necessary information regarding the requirement and provides the vehicle within which your tender will be submitted. Prospective providers are advised to read this invitation to tender carefully to ensure they are familiar with the nature and extent of the obligations to be accepted by them if their tender is successful.

Background

There are significant staff shortages in many parts of the Health & Social care workforce, but the shortage in nursing is the single major challenge to be addressed. Nurses and Midwives constitute the largest workforce in the NHS and are a critical part of the multi-professional team required to deliver quality and safe 21st century care. However, the challenges that nursing shortages bring requires a comprehensive and thoroughly co-ordinated strategy to grow the nursing workforce.

NHS Digital data highlights a loss of FTE General Practice Nurses (GPN) leaving the profession within the last two years since May 2020. There are currently (as of February 2022) c. 65,700 active students on pre-registration nursing programmes, some of whom will not have gained exposure to General Practice/Primary Care during their programme. This data provides an opportunity for successful providers to target key audiences promoting working in Primary Care/General Practice as part of the future Integrated Care System Service model.

The NHS Long Term Plan, the We are the NHS: People Plan 2020/21, and the Building strong integrated care systems everywhere: guidance on the ICS people function publication (August 2021) outline the requirements to continue to strengthen education and training. Integrated care systems (ICSs) are partnerships of organisations that come together to plan and deliver joined-up health and care services, and to improve the health of people who live and work in their area. They assumed a statutory footing as Integrated Care Boards on 1 July 2022.

This tender primarily seeks to address some of the challenges faced in Primary Care/General Practice in filling nursing vacancies. Allowing the targeted workforce an opportunity to gain a better understanding of working in Primary Care/General Practice will support movement into roles in this sector. In turn this will support the growth of the nursing workforce and help in achieving the government's pledge of recruiting 50,000 nurses into the workforce by 2025. This will mirror the vision of Integrated care system working.

Nurses from all fields and different sectors would like to specialise in Primary Care/General Practice but have faced ongoing challenges when applying for vacancies. This is often because they are unable to evidence understanding of the work within Primary Care/General Practice, e.g., working on a ward can be hugely different to working alone in a treatment room. This module aims to provide support to those looking for their first role in Primary Care/General Practice, helping them to develop skills and gain knowledge. Additionally, it will provide an overview of what it means to deliver local care for a population so that those considering a role, can be fully informed.

This module is also aimed at supporting Primary Care/General Practice, in attracting the workforce they need by enabling Pre-Registration Nurses, Registered Nurses (from other areas of practice), Nursing Associates and Trainee Nursing Associates to make the transition into an illustrious career in Primary Care/General Practice. Upon completion of this module, it is anticipated learners will have a good understanding of working in a Primary Care organisation and will feel more confident about applying for a role in a General Practice. This will also provide a foundation to go on to develop the additional knowledge and skills required to become a fully competent nurse/nursing associate in Primary Care/General Practice.

There are several courses which could be available, once employed in this sector, and the module should complement those, e.g., GPN Fundamentals (or equivalent) and the GPN Fellowships programme, which may be available once in employment. The module is not intended to replace these other learning opportunities but will extend the opportunity to apply for a Primary Care/General Practice role more widely - where the above courses may then be accessed where available. Further detail on the module content is outlined in Table 3 below. This module should be available at academic levels 6 and 7 with accredited and non-accredited options available. For clarity, this module should be made available across all four fields of nursing: Mental Health; Learning Disability; Adult and Children's Nursing. Please see Table 2 for options and target audience.

Scope of Contract

HEE is seeking to engage education providers to develop a module which will align with the Primary Care Nursing Career and Core Capabilities Framework. There are also other resources available that could support the development of the module for example: the QNI Transition to General Practice Nursing document and the General Practice Nursing Induction template which is 'specifically designed for nurses in a first career destination in General Practice'/ those 'having recently moved from a hospital or other community nursing environment'. The General Practice Nursing Template (NHSE 2019) summarises the key skills required for a General Practice Nurse in figure 2 below:

Fig 2. General Practice Nursing Template *

*Taken from the General Practice Nursing Induction Template, NHSE, 2019

Key skills required for a General Practice Nurse

The scope of this contract is for nurses and nursing associates, however the module created could be reviewed and agreed to be offered to other professionals wanting to pursue a career in Primary Care/General Practice. Agreement of changing the scope of the contract will be done with HEE as part of standard contracting processes.

The requirements are for a module to be created to include the content outlined in Table 3 to allow a consistent national offer. The tender will be split into lots regionally, outlined in Table 1 below, and prospective providers are requested to bid against numbers for a specific lot or lots. Please note prospective providers can bid for more than one lot. Consortium or partnership bids are welcome, providing the tender shows evidence that all parties have the capacity to work on this project and are available to deliver within the timeframe.

The successful provider(s) will engage with the target audiences outlined in Table 2 to give awareness of a career in Primary Care/General Practice. We request successful providers include active recruitment and marketing to include year 2 and 3 learners on pre-registration nursing programmes.

We are particularly interested in marketing and supporting take up from unrepresentative groups and would require successful providers to actively consider how they are able to support the take up of this module by those groups. The successful provider will be expected to consider and deliver inclusive and accessible recruitment practises and retention focused activities, with strategies in place to support in-work progression for underrepresented groups in the workforce. This includes recruitment processes which are fair and equitable.

Learners should not be prevented from accessing course provision outside of their local geography (as long as they are working in England), however provision should be allocated regionally first, with the option to accept applications outside of their region where necessary to fill places in the contract.

Enrolment onto the module will be expected to commence in January 2023 or soon after and take place at several points throughout the duration of the contract and monitored at key points throughout the year.

Tender Clarification Questions and Answer & Pre-market FAQs

No	Question	Response
1	I wonder if you could kindly advise if the tenderer is accepting multiple bids for different geographies and if they are, the likely demand for the above contract in the Southeast and London? 2	Please can you clarify where the demand data for this course has come from. How can HEE assure providers that there is the demand for this course in the numbers given in the tender specification?	The demand data for this procurement is underpinned by several key activities. Extensive regional demand scoping was conducted, highlighting the educational offers available where to date there is no consistent entry module available to support the target audiences (outlined in Table 2 on page 8 of the specification) gaining an insight into primary care. Additionally, there was a consensus in the challenges reported that a national consistent training programme is to be delivered through a flexible approach. The development of the module received comprehensive input from an independent Advisory Group informing both the content and demand for the educational offer. The above input from the independent Advisory Group informed a comprehensive survey which was circulated through the regions to Primary Care/General Practice. The development of the specification is based on responses received directly from Primary Care/General Practice.
3	One aspiration is for nurses in the acute sector to access this course to prepare them to move into GP/primary care. Given the level of vacancies in acute care, how likely is it that employers will release their	For clarity there is no requirement to be released from an employer (if employed) or current educational programmes (if currently studying). There is evidence that nurses from all fields and different sectors would like to specialise in Primary Care/General Practice. This is a short 3-month module. The blended delivery approach means that learning can be flexible for the learner e.g.,

	nursing staff to attend a course which could result in them leaving their employment?	online and simulation. Learners should be able to attend the course in their own time, at their own pace, and therefore will not require release from, or impact, their employer or current learning programmes.
4	Is HEE expecting students to exit the course with University Credits? If this is so, then there will need to be an assessment strategy attached at the appropriate level (4,5,6 or 7) otherwise the university cannot grant credits (but I will check this to be sure).	Yes, only if the provider will want to deliver the modules with twenty credits. The assessment strategy will be for educational providers to create as standard practice
5	From the discussions, I am correct in assuming that there are no placement hours attached to this programme or module. Is that understanding, correct?	Yes, that is correct, there are no placement hours for this module.
6	Within the content outline there are a number of skills etc. within primary care practice that have been identified - is this what absolutely needs to be included, or are these offered as examples? With all content (particularly the skills areas), what depth within the content would be needed?	Yes, these need to be included. This is a taster module and as we would like this to be nationally recognised, a consistent approach is important.
7	With regards to the Non-Credit Bearing module, what are the expectations of content - we are mindful that this would be targeted at pre-registration students - would/could this take the form of an assessment document of competencies - not necessarily to achieve, but to demonstrate knowledge/understanding of. We have assumed that because these students will still be completing their pre-registration programme of study that this will be essentially information/development of	This should be targeted as an introduction to Primary Care/ General Practice. This could be documented competencies but should cover the contents in the specification. We would also expect a blended approach, including simulation, online etc. This taster module should be available to those who have a genuine interest in working in primary care and want to gain an additional module in their spare time.

NHS Education and Training Contract v1 – published 06th September

	understanding etc. but we would like clarity on where this would fit with their pre-existing practice/study responsibilities.
8	Is there scope when developing this module to have some generic content that would ensure that the module would be fit for purpose moving forward - e.g. ear irrigation is mentioned within the content of study, but in many primary care settings this is not performed by qualified staff but micro suction may be - having the opportunity to generalise will assist in ensuring that there is flexibility in the module content and supports a proactive rather than a reactive approach.	As this is a national module, we would expect that the contents in the specification are met and that there is consistency. Nurses may want to work in other regions where micro suction is not available and they should have an insight into this.

Please could you submit a summary of the detail in your presentation.

We propose running the module three times per year and act-ross all iterations and considering potential learners' needs, delivered as flexibly as possible. This delivery will be predominantly online (both live synchronous and asynchronous learning), with multiple resources available for learners to access in their own time with guidance. Core skills will first be learned online and then demonstrated as skills and simulation, allowing learners to attend on-campus simulation sessions. The curriculum will focus on primary care and the identified skill set.

Please can you confirm that the attached minutes and notes from the meeting yesterday 07/11/2022 are accurate and correct.

Yes, all seems to be as expected.

Please can you also provide a written response to the following questions reflecting the answers from yesterday's presentation.

1) Can you provide details on the resources you already have in place that will support this commission specifically in General Practice?

We have several resources that provide primary care focused on skills and medication use. These include the Elsevier Skills platform, which offers a wide range of coverage for caring for the patient at home and primary care. Similarly, safeMedicate has a similar function. We also provide several existing modules covering primary care areas and will adapt these accordingly. Finally, we will develop a series of primary care-specific materials, e.g., OCSEs, Simulations and Case Studies, to help focus learners in primary care.

2) Please demonstrate how you will proactively seek and respond to feedback from students/learners on the programme and service providers (general practices).

There are multiple processes for feedback from learners and service providers. As this will be a standalone module, we will have a module team where each academic member will have a small group of learners and act in a personal tutor capacity. This support will provide a pastoral focus for learners struggling with course materials. Course leaders will provide overall responses to feedback related to the module. We also have a standard module evaluation—Evasys—which allows all learners to offer constructive feedback. This feedback primarily helps future modules but can also help implement change within the module. There is a course representative, and reps can give input to a broader community and understand what else students are doing. In the case of service providers, if they are supporting learners, we will ensure we develop a reporting mechanism for such providers. Otherwise, we will work to establish future employers and begin to establish regular feedback and evaluation with them.

3) Can you provide detail on how you will deliver this module in a blended learning way to widen access

As stated above, we will provide the module as flexibly as possible and offer alternative approaches to learning to suit different learning styles. We are developing an online simulation with on-campus learners with the same level of engagement. We will also enable access to all resources for learners at any time, including live session recordings. The Blackboard learning platform has many mechanisms to monitor student engagement, so we can check that learners are getting what they hoped. As stated in the interview, we will also carry out a digital literacy assessment to ensure learners are not quickly frustrated and therefore at risk of not completing.

4) Can you outline how students who identify specific learning needs or disabilities are supported?

We have a standardised support system for people with specific learning needs and disabilities. As this is a standalone module, we will ask learners to complete a pre-module screen of requirements, so we can be as proactive as possible in supporting their needs.

5) Please describe how, working in partnership with HEE, you will ensure that systems and processes are in place to monitor the delivery and quality of the training and education to meet the requirements of the specification?

We will provide learner outcome data and ensure regular monitoring sessions in line with all of our HEE-funded courses and modules.

6) What is your strategy for marketing the module?

Once the module has been agreed upon through the University processes, it will form part of the traditional marketing and recruitment approaches. We will also target specific areas where we feel learners may be attracted.
