Annex A to Schedule 1 (Statement of Work)

Problem

1. There is a requirement for a Defence Medical Services application to support the input of the hours worked and job plans for Defence Medical Services (DMS) Clinical consultants. The current system is supported by several locally produced disparate spreadsheets involving the labour-intensive, manual entry of working hours and job plans, which is unfit for purpose and inaccurate for predicting the NHS Value for Service Personnel (NVSP).

Strategic Case

2. Defence lacks an assured, accurate and reliable process to provide the timely and precise ability to input and monitor Clinical Consultants' working hours and job plans. The current system is unsuitable and unsustainable, supported by several locally produced, disparate spreadsheets involving the labour-intensive manual entry of working hours and job plans. It currently represents an enduring problem in chasing individuals who have not completed returns, along with unknown data accuracy as consultants mostly fill the forms in retrospectively, at the end of each month. If host NHS Trusts decided to challenge the NVSP and work activity of consultants, HQ Joint Hospital Group (JHG) would need to have high confidence in their data to resolve any conversation around that issue. It is also presenting a high risk to the organisation with a significant data breach occurring recently.

Purpose & Scope

3. This document lays out a Statement of Work (SoW) for the Supplier to provide resource, using GDS principles, to support discovery through to Public BETA delivery of an MVP. This will support the input of the hours worked and job plans for Defence Medical Services (DMS) Clinical consultants, and specifically enable the outcomes detailed within this document.
4. It outlines the mechanisms for contract management, the expected outcomes and potential tasks to be supported with the contracted resource. It will be initially presented in draft form to be discussed and agreed with supplier and then reviewed monthly as part of the contract management process. The document will provide a flexible manner to agree work and track deliverables.
5. The application architecture will include a user interface to input the required data and a database to store the data. The tool will also provide high fidelity data for Defence Consultant Advisors (DCAs) to undertake annual job plan reviews of their cadres, ensuring the individuals remain clinically current to deploy and have the time in-built to deliver appropriate outputs for Defence. The second order benefit is assurance that JHG delivers SQEP to the Front Line Commands for deployment.
6. The overall outcome is to support the user through the delivery of a user interface application and database that can input/ interpret the data, and populate a data base, and allow its exploitation through MARCONI (Palantir Foundry software). This will reduce user input, allow the HQ JHG Placements team to accurately monitor the various hosting contracts and ensure appropriate invoicing and improved prediction of NVSP for consultants by improving the quality of the data.
7. The secondary output of this product is to create a supporting database which is structured and compiled on appropriate technical architecture, within MOD environments that enables data analysis and exploitation via either PowerBi via MODNet or Palantir Foundry software.

8. Benefits in replicating delivery best practices, operating efficiencies, and re-use of code and components from the MyNavy products should be capitalised upon to provide value in line with the Digital Backbone and Foundry strategies.
9. The front-end user interface will use existing MyNavy UX/UI and branding, with incorporation of Umbraco as the CMS if appropriate.

Payment schedule

11. Upon DDF approving this Statement of Work in writing, Great State will send invoices to DDF at the end of each calendar month based on a time and materials reconciliation and approved by the DDF Product Owner.

Risks

12. Project risks will be agreed and managed through agreed governance procedures set out during the kick off and discovery phase. They will be reviewed on an ongoing basis, and where required, escalated to senior stakeholders for resolution.

Roles and responsibilities

13. A Delivery Manager will be allocated to the project on approval of the SoW and will be your primary contact for all requests and will manage the requests in the team. Other client services team members may be called in to assist at certain periods to ensure cover.
