THE SPECIFICATION, INCLUDING PROJECT TIMETABLE AND EVALUATION OF TENDERS

GENERAL INTRODUCTION

The Food Standards Agency (FSA) is a UK non-ministerial government department governed by a Board appointed to act in the public interest, with the task of protecting consumers in relation to food. The FSA works across England, Wales and Northern Ireland (NI) to make sure food is safe, what it says it is and is healthier and more sustainable.

National Reference Laboratories (NRLs) are specialist laboratories responsible for maintaining EU-wide standards for the routine testing of food and feed to help to ensure the delivery of a safe and authentic feed and food system. They play a pivotal role in food safety enforcement by providing support and impartial expert advice to FSA and official laboratories (OLs) for official food and feed testing. They may, if requested by FSA, provide additional support through short projects or research investigations associated with new and emerging threats to food or feed safety, enhance national capability/capacity during emergency incidents or outbreaks, or assist in the development and transfer of new and existing analytical methods used by OLs.

The FSA is committed to openness and transparency of our evidence and its use, and equality of treatment to all suppliers. For NRLs, the FSA approves annual reports of work programmes which may be published by NRLs on their own dedicated websites.

A. THE SPECIFICATION

Background

Northern Ireland National Reference Laboratories (NI NRLs)

Following UK exit from the European Union (EU), the Windsor Framework (incorporating former arrangements under the Northern Ireland Protocol) requires Northern Ireland to continue to adhere to the EU Official Controls set out in Regulation 2017/625, referred to as 'OCR', and as such, is obliged to comply with EU rules regarding the arrangement of official controls, including the designation of NRLs. Furthermore, NRLs for NI must be separately designated from those in GB, whereas prior to EU exit, NRLs were designated on a UK-wide basis. Additionally, under the Windsor Framework arrangements, NI NRLs must be located in an EU member state or within European Economic Area (EEA) i.e. they cannot be located within any part of the United Kingdom, including Northern Ireland.

The NI NRLs will deliver the OCR regulatory requirements for NI, aligning with European Union Reference Laboratories (EURLs) work programmes, wherever possible. They will build strong communication networks with NI Official Laboratories (OLs) designated within NI and across the EU, providing them with support, training and advice, where needed. Although there is limited ability to share EU-RL-related information between NI NRLs and NRLs in GB, FSA encourages communication between them, where this is beneficial to NRL functions.

Information on the official laboratories designated for NI can be found on the FSA's website. A number of official laboratories are based outside of NI and within EU Member States. Where relevant, NI NRLs may be expected to work collaboratively with any NRLs within the official laboratories member state to fulfil NRL functions.

Statutory Requirements

NRLs are established under Article 100 of Regulation \(EU\) 2017/625 (the Official Controls Regulation (OCR)) and their responsibilities are set out in article 101. Article 93 (1) of OCR also obliges the EU Commission to establish EU Reference Laboratories (EU-RLs). The FSA, as the Competent Authority (CA) for Official Food and Feed Controls, is obliged to designate NRLs for NI which align with the respective work areas and programmes of each designated EU-RL. Under the Windsor Framework arrangements (and formerly under Annex 2 of the Northern Ireland Protocol), NI is prevented from establishing any NRLs within the UK (including NI) and NRL functions need to be carried out by laboratories located in the EU or EEA. Under assimilated OCR, the FSA also designates separate NRLs in GB for food and feed. NRLs are responsible for setting standards for routine procedures and reliable testing methods in the regulated areas of food and feed. This delivers consumer protection and effective, risk-based and proportionate regulation and enforcement to food and feed areas.

Accreditation Requirements

The FSA may only designate laboratories as an NRL if they are accredited in accordance with EN ISO/IEC 17025:2017 by a national or EU accreditation body operating in accordance with Regulation (EC) No 765/2008.

The scope of the accreditation must cover the following:

- shall include those methods of laboratory analysis, test or diagnosis required to be used by the laboratory for analyses, tests or diagnoses, when it operates as an Official Laboratory;
- may comprise one or more methods of laboratory analysis, test or diagnosis or groups of methods;
- may be defined in a flexible manner, so as to allow the scope of accreditation to include modified versions of the methods used by the OL when the accreditation was granted or new methods in addition to those methods. This is on the basis of the laboratory's own validations without a specific assessment by the national accreditation body prior to the use of those modified or new methods.

1. General Scope of NRL Services

1.1 The basic duties of NRLs (outlined in Art. 101 of OCR) are, but not limited to, the following:

- (a) collaborate with the EU-RLs, and participate in training courses and in inter-laboratory comparative tests organised by these laboratories;
- (b) coordinate the activities of official laboratories with a view of harmonising and improving the methods of laboratory analysis, tests or diagnoses and their use;

1.2 The general requirements of NRLs (including those outlined in Art. 100 of OCR) are, but not limited to, the following:

- (b) have, or have contractual access to, suitably qualified staff with adequate training in analytical, testing and diagnostic techniques in their area of competence, and support staff as appropriate;
- (c) possess, or have access to, the infrastructure, equipment and products needed to carry out the tasks assigned to them;
- (d) ensure that their staff and any contractually engaged staff have good knowledge of international standards and practices and that the latest developments in research at national and international level are taken into account in their work;
- (e) be equipped with, or have access to, the necessary equipment to perform their tasks in emergency situations; and where appropriate, assist the competent authority in food incidents by carrying out diagnosis and/or testing of samples, when necessary;

- (j) be familiar with the enforcement system in operation in NI and the wider UK, as relevant;
- (k) communicate fluently in the English language both verbally and in writing;
- (l) be located in the EU or EEA.

The National Reference Laboratory(ies) for Feed Additives and Food Improvement Agents for Northern Ireland (NI) will play a vital role in protecting consumers from feeds containing harmful or unauthorised additives or from foods containing unauthorised Food Improvement Agents. The NRL will provide specialist advice as requested by the FSA and technical support to the NI enforcement process for food, feed and products thereof.

This is a dual lot tender. Tenders are invited to bid for one lot or both lots together; please provide details of any applicable discount for multiple awards within the Financial Template.

The designated laboratory(ies) will carry out the provision of Services for the NRLs for NI for the following areas:

- Lot 1 NRL for Additives for use in Animal Nutrition

- Lot 2 NRL for Food Improvement Agents

Feed Additives

Feed Additives for use in animal nutrition include substances, micro-organisms or preparations, other than feed material and premixtures, which are intentionally added to feed or water in order to perform particular functions, as described in EU Regulation No. 1831/2003. Feed additives should not have an adverse effect on animal health, human health or the environment and should not be presented in a manner which may mislead the user. Neither should they harm the consumer by impairing the distinctive features of animal products or mislead the consumer with regard to the distinctive features of animal products. Antibiotics, other than coccidiostats or histomonostats, are not authorised as feed additives. Depending on their functions and properties, feed additives are allocated to one or more categories in Regulation (EC) No 1831/2003 including technological additives, sensory additives, nutritional additives, zootechnical additives or coccidiostats and histomonostats.

Feed additives for use in feed are regulated products and as such require authorisation before use. In Northern Ireland Regulation (EC) No 1831/2003 is directly applicable and feed additives are authorised by the EU as per Chapter II of this regulation. In particular, feed additives must meet the conditions of authorisation outlined in Article 5. The list of authorised feed additives can be found in the European Union Register of Feed Additives.

Food Improvement Agents

Food improvement agents must also be assessed for safety before they can be used in food. This is a newly required NRL area, following the establishment of an EU-RL in the area of Food Improvement Agents (FIAs) by the European Commission. The designated laboratory will be expected to be able to perform official controls, in particular to ensure a certain level of harmonisation as regards sampling criteria and analytical methods used for the collection of data on food additives and food flavourings, and to provide support to official laboratories in the area of food enzymes. Food improvement agents include food additives, food enzymes and food flavourings and are defined under Commission Regulation (EC) No. 1333/2008. These substances can be added to preserve, colour and stabilise food products during production, packaging, storage or to improve the taste.
