SCHEDULE ONE1 BACKGROUND

The Department for Education (DfE) has commissioned a call for evidence on the provision of extensive work placement practice amongst post-16 providers. The contractor will gather evidence; some robust, some based on experience, of post-16 providers and employers who currently offer extensive work placements to learners (from 1-3 months, or longer); how they operate practically; what good practice looks like; and understand any challenges involved and how they are overcome. The DfE is also interested in evidence from post 16 providers and employers who may have offered work placements in the past, and no longer do so and providers who are interested in offering work placements and are currently do not offer them. The contractor is expected to explore these subject areas in within this contract.

2 AIM

The contractor shall use all reasonable endeavours to achieve the following aims:

- Undertake a call for evidence on behalf of the DfE on the provision of extended work placement practice among post-16 providers and employers. For the purposes of this project work placements will be those that last from 1-3 months, or longer – short duration (1-2 weeks) work experiences are out of scope for this study. Although, the contractor should also seek evidence of work experience that may be scaleable and possible to increase in length. Work placements can be delivered as part of a students' qualification hours, where the placement is an integral element of the qualification, or non-qualification hours.
- The contractor will, through analysis of the returns, report any challenges, in the provision of extensive work placements, and how these are overcome, where possible, to increase the quantity and quality of work placements for technical education routes.
- The contractor will, through analysis of returns, assess how effective work placements operate from the perspective of providers and employers.
- The call for evidence will seek to understand the challenges providers face, if any, when offering work placements and if they impede their ability to offer them.
- The contractor will also request evidence from providers who have offered work placements in the past and no longer do so, or providers who wish to offer work placements but do not.

3 OBJECTIVES

The Contractor shall use all reasonable endeavours to achieve the following objectives:

- To further the DfE's knowledge of effective work placements by gathering a range of evidence, some robust, some based on experience, to underpin policy development.
- To help inform the DfE stakeholder management activity, providing examples of current relevant practice.

4 TASKS

The contractor will deliver all of the stated aims and objectives. They are responsible for the delivery of:

Task 1 - A Call for Evidence: Design and Content

The contractor will:

- Design and advertise a call for evidence on effective work placements, to be agreed with the DfE.

The contractor will capture evidence from a wide range of evidence from providers and employers who currently offer work placements, providers who used to offer work placements but no longer do so, and those who would like to offer work placements but have not yet started to do so. The contractor will ensure the questions for the call for evidence will be informed by a rapid review of evidence on work placement practices and will take account of the questions outlined in the invitation to tender. They include, although are not limited to the following questions:

Providers role

- How do providers resource the setting up and monitoring of work placements?
- Do providers have a work placement strategy? If so, how was this developed and what does this look like?
- What costs, if any, are incurred by employers and providers (including opportunity costs) in the set-up and delivery of work placements?
- What are the motivations and challenges in current practice and what might need to be overcome to significantly increase work placement provision?
- How does the provider engage with new employers? What works and what does not work in engaging employers?
- Do providers work with or pay an external body to help source work placements? How effective are external providers? What need, if any, is there for local coordination?
- Do providers or employers evaluate the placements? If so, how? How do they capture the voice of the learner? How does this impact future placements?
- What, if anything, prevents providers offering work placements? If applicable, why have they ceased offering work placements?
- What level of staff resource is utilised in the design and delivery of work placements?
- What learner age groups are involved in work placements? How does this vary by course type?

Employers involvement

- Who designs the content of the placement? Does this take place at the beginning of the academic year, or throughout, on an ad-hoc basis?
- How do employers manage and integrate work placements in their business planning? How much value do employers place on work placements? What are the benefits to their business? What motivates employers to be involved?
- How do providers and employers work together to set-up work placements?
- What health and safety practices and safeguards are required and how are these negotiated?
- How do the above points differ by employer size, sector or occupation, if at all?
- What further support could be offered to encourage employer involvement and/or help employers to more or multiple placements?

Work placement content

- How long are work placements? What is the optimal length, in providers and employers' opinions, for a work placement in particular occupations or courses?

- What do placements look like? Do they occur continuously over a set period or are learners released for a limited amount of time per each week of their course? Does this depend on the occupation or course?
- What does an effective, high quality work placement look like? How is effectiveness measured?
- How is a student's learning logged and monitored when on work placements?
- How does the work placement contribute to their overall study programme assessment, if at all?

The contractor will administer the call for evidence to stakeholders via an online survey using Cvent software. The contractor will also ensure stakeholders are offered the opportunity to submit case studies of effective work placement provision.

Output 1: The contractor will design and put out a call for evidence on effective work placements, which meets with the department's approval.

Task 2 – A Call for Evidence: Promotion

The contractor will raise awareness of the call for evidence, across the post-16 education and skills sector, as soon as the project commences. They will do this through sector press including FE Week, FE News and TES and membership updates from sector bodies including the Association of Colleges (AoC), the Association of Employment and Learning Providers (AELP), HOLEX and the LEP Network. The contractor will carry out targeted engagement activity with key potential stakeholders early on and gain buy-in for the research project at leadership level. Other networks the contractor will engage with include; the UK's GTA; a monthly newsletter distributed to over 1,400 organisations; and a LinkedIn group entitled Work Experience UK which currently has members from 250 organisations. The contractor will also utilise networks with GMB union employers, NHS Foundation Trusts; build on the Work Experience Week 2016 campaign which reached over 2 million people via social media and and other strategic bodies which will be able to cascade the call for evidence.

The call for evidence will be officially launched through a news story on the L&W website, email broadcast and social media activity. The contractor will also use other dissemination strategies including the use of their website, blogs, Twitter and its members. Contractor staff will actively promote the consultation in their day-to-day activities.

Output 2: The contractor will engage with all the specified channels discussed above.

Task 3 – Stakeholder events

The contractor will work closely with the DfE to plan and facilitate three stakeholder workshops. The stakeholder events are a critical component of the study. They will help to build the evidence base, share good practice and highlight key issues to inform DfEs work placement policy. The events will be informed by the replies submitted to the call for evidence and will run alongside the online consultation, ensuring that stakeholders can provide further detail on emerging issues and develop practical solutions to any identified challenges.

The events will be half-day events and each will involve up to 20-30 participants. Participants will be chosen to ensure a mixture of sectors, provider and employer types, size and geographical location. Participants will include those who have submitted evidence and those who have not already had the opportunity to do so. Invitees and participants should be selected following the submission of evidence on effective work placement practice. One workshop be held at the contractor's offices in Leicester; and the other two will be hosted by DfE at their offices in London and Sheffield. The workshops will be held between December 2016 and January 2017, prior to the call for evidence closing. The workshops will take place in Sheffield on 1st February 2017; XXX 2017 in London and XXXX 2017 in Leicester.

The contractor will recruit participants through an open invitation plus some targeted activity. Invitees should include those who have experience of effective work placement practice. The contractor will draw on the expertise of its dedicated events team to ensure the workshops attract good numbers of delegates. This will involve sending regular reminders to invitees, carrying out follow-up telephone calls with targeted organisations, and promoting the workshops through our event communication and social media channels.

Each stakeholder event will include two short presentations. One will be delivered by a DfE or L&W colleague and outline the policy context and the purpose of the consultation. This will familiarise attendees with the policy context and the findings of the Independent Panel on Technical Education and the Post-16 Skills Plan. The second presentation will be delivered by a learning provider (and associated employer if possible) who is currently delivering an effective work placement. This will focus on the key topics planned for the stakeholder workshops in order to showcase good practice and stimulate discussion. The presentations will be followed by group discussions, facilitated by a member of the project team, with support from DfE colleagues wherever possible. Discussions will be structured around specific questions, informed by early responses to the call for evidence, and will be agreed with DfE in advance. Members of the project team will take notes on the discussions. The contractor will prepare a briefing document for speakers and facilitators will be developed in advance, in consultation with DfE. The contractor will cover the travel expenses of any external speakers.

Output 3: The contractor will set-up and deliver three stakeholder events, each consisting of around 20-30 people.

Task 4 – Analysis

The contractor will develop an analysis framework to structure the synthesis of data gathered through the call for evidence. The framework will be structured around the main research questions and shared with DfE in advance of any analysis being undertaken to allow for any additional themes or key concerns to be included. The contractor will include data from the online consultation and will collate data from the three workshops, analyse thematically and synthesise into clear messages for the DfE using this analytical framework. They will highlight any key similarities or difference between participants from different sectors in the findings.

Output 4: The contractor will provide an excel file (or similar format) of all anonymised call for evidence responses by question and a full report of evidence gathered, which both meet with the departments approval.

8. RISK MANAGEMENT

Risk	Description	Likelihood	Impact	Mitigation
Delivering in a tight timescale	Tight timescales make a research project susceptible to late delivery if one aspect of the project fails to meet its deadline, e.g. late responses will impact the time provided for analysis and developing outputs.	Medium	Medium	L&W and Fair Train will commence the work as soon as the contract is agreed. The combined capacity of both organisations and research associates will enable us to work flexibly and expand the team at pressure points where the volume of work is particularly high. Where feasible and appropriate, project activities will be run in parallel. The L&W Project Manager will continuously monitor progress and will regularly communicate with the project team and the DfE contract manager.
Delivering between November – January	Many stakeholders might be away for long periods during this time and may struggle to respond to the call for evidence. This period will also be the busiest time of year for most employers and this	Medium	High	L&W will use all relevant networks along with communications and sector press to raise the awareness of the call for evidence before the festive period, and then to plan a further drive post-Christmas. L&W has planned to hold the stakeholder workshops in three different locations. This flexible

	may impact on their ability to attend the face-to-face workshops.			approach should minimise the risk of not getting enough employer representation during the festive period.
Failure to recruit appropriate number and wide range of post-16 providers	Failing to recruit an appropriate number of providers and engage with a wide range of post-16 providers during the call for evidence will impact quality of research findings and project outputs.	Medium	High	Meeting the minimum number of responses agreed during the planning stage will mitigate impact on quality. L&W and Fair Train will draw on their strategic relationships with other sector membership organisations and utilise sector press and communications, e.g. sector press and membership e-newsletters, to promote the call. We will identify potential stakeholders early on and gain buy-in for the research project at leadership level.
Failure to recruit target number of people to attend the stakeholder workshops	Failure to recruit target number of people to attend the stakeholder workshops will impact the quality of research findings and project outputs.	Medium	Medium	Meeting the minimum number agreed during the planning stage will mitigate impact on quality. Leadership buy-in from sector and employer groups will encourage key stakeholders to participate in the workshops. Every opportunity will be made to raise awareness of the workshops as detailed above. To engage employers, L&W and Fair Train will draw on their strategic relationships with employers, LEPs and other employer representation organisations; e.g. national/local Chambers of Commerce and the Federation of Small Businesses.
Underrepresentation of certain post-16 providers in the call for evidence	The call for evidence needs to be inclusive of all types of Post-16 providers, to ensure representation across different geography, sizes and types of post-16 providers.	Medium	Medium	L&W will provide a clear brief to providers taking part in the call for evidence. We will also monitor the types of providers who are responding to the call for evidence to understand where there might be underrepresentation. This information will allow L&W and Fair Train to focus on targeting awareness of the call for evidence at particular groups of post-16 providers to boost their representation. Additionally, this information can be used to ensure that any underrepresented post-16 providers are recruited to attend the workshops.

9 DATA COLLECTION

The Department seeks to minimise the burdens on Schools, colleges, employers, Children's Services and Local Authorities (LAs) taking part in surveys.

When assessing the relative merits of data collection methods the following issues should be considered;

- only data essential to the project shall be collected;
- data should be collected electronically where appropriate/preferred;
- questionnaires should be pre-populated wherever possible and appropriate;
- schools must be given at least four working weeks to respond to the exercise from the date they receive the request; and
- LAs should receive at least two weeks, unless they need to approach schools in which case they too should receive 4 weeks to respond;

The Contractor shall clear any data collection tools with the Department before engaging in field work.

The Contractor shall check with the Department whether any of the information that they are requesting can be provided centrally from information already held.

10. CONSENT ARRANGEMENTS

The Department and the contractor shall agree in advance of any survey activity taking place the consent arrangements that shall apply for each of the participant groups. All participants should be informed of the purpose of the research, that the Contractor is acting on behalf of the Department and that they have the option to refuse to participate (opt out). Contact details should be provided including a contact person at the Department. Children who are 16 or over will usually be able to give their own consent but even where this is so, the Contractor, in consultation with the Department, should consider whether it is also appropriate for parents, guardians or other appropriate gatekeepers (e.g. schools, Local Authorities) to be informed when a child has been invited to participate in research.

- 7 The Contractor shall have regard to the need for economy in all expenditure. Where any expenditure in an invoice, in the Department's reasonable opinion, is excessive having due regard to the purpose for which it was incurred, the Department shall only be liable to reimburse so much (if any) of the expenditure disallowed as, in the Department's reasonable opinion after consultation with the Contractor, would reasonably have been required for that purpose.
- 8 If this Contract is terminated by the Department due to the Contractor's insolvency or default at any time before completion of the Projects, the Department shall only be liable under paragraph 1 to reimburse eligible payments made by, or due to, the Contractor before the date of termination.
- 9 On completion of the Project or on termination of this Contract, the Contractor shall promptly draw-up a final invoice, which shall cover all outstanding expenditure incurred for the Project.
