Appendix 2: Specification/Description

Specification of Requirements

Natural England exists to secure a healthy natural environment for people to enjoy, where wildlife is protected and England's traditional landscapes are safeguarded for future generations.

Pewsey Downs National Nature Reserve (NNR) is one of the finest remaining areas of Wiltshire's iconic chalk downland habitat. The site is a Special Area of Conservation (SAC) for its orchid rich grassland and one of the few remaining sites where the internationally important early gentian can be found. It is also part of the larger Pewsey Downs Site of Special Scientific Interest (SSSI).

Changes in the site condition at Pewsey Downs NNR have necessitated a new management plan incorporating changes to the site grazing regime. To date grazing has been predominantly by cattle from spring through autumn, with sporadic winter sheep grazing. Introduction of more regular winter sheep grazing is proposed across the site as a whole. In addition, an eight year rotation of hard sheep grazing in late winter/early spring is intended to address encroachment of upright brome and decline in forb species richness. These changes must be made in a way that also maintains vital marsh fritillary habitat at a size adequate for the ongoing viability of the Pewsey Downs metapopulation.

For the protection of both designated habitat and species, it is vital to monitor site condition and identify whether significant changes in habitat condition are occurring. We are therefore seeking a power analysis to determine the variables for which it would be possible to identify such change, and the minimum resurvey effort needed to achieve this. Your proposal should set out how you intend to deliver a power analysis in the context of the site goals.

Pre-existing survey data will be made available to the successful contractor. Your proposal should make reference to key variables that might prove suitable for monitoring. A final list will be agreed between the successful contractor and NNR staff.

The project outcome will comprise a report which should set out the variables identified as most suitable for monitoring changes in condition, the number of plots necessary to identify significant change, and the frequency with which resurvey will be required for each variable. It will also provide suggestions on field survey design and map potential survey locations.

Aims: to understand the survey effort required to detect potential change following implementation of a new grazing management regime at Pewsey Downs NNR and to explore potential survey designs for a baseline survey.

Objectives:

- 1) Undertake a power analysis to determine the level of monitoring required.
- 2) Provide suggestions for field survey design and map potential survey locations.
