Annex 1 - Specification

Background

It is a priority of the Department for Business, Energy and Industrial Strategy (BEIS) to deliver the commitments of the Industrial Strategy White Paper (link) of November 2017. The Industrial Strategy was launched with the objective of improving living standards and deliver economic growth to all parts of the country.

Through the Industrial Strategy, the UK aims to boost productivity and earning power across the country by focusing on the 5 foundations of productivity. These 5 foundations support the vision of a transformed economy:

- Ideas: the world's most innovative economy
- People: good jobs and greater earning power for all
- Infrastructure: a major upgrade to the UK's infrastructure
- Business Environment: the best place to start and grow a business
- Places: prosperous communities across the UK.

Local Industrial Strategies are currently being written across England, and are long-term, based on clear evidence and aligned to the national Industrial Strategy.

Local Industrial Strategies will set out clearly defined priorities for how cities, towns and rural areas will maximise their contribution to UK productivity, and will allow places to make the most of their distinctive strengths. They will better coordinate economic policy at the local level and ensure greater collaboration across boundaries.

Subject to Local Industrial Strategies being agreed in places by Government, they will help to inform local choices, prioritise local action and, where appropriate, help to inform decisions at the national level. They will also provide strategic overview which will inform Local Enterprise Partnerships' approach to any future local growth funding deployed through them.

To design and evaluate strategies, we need to ensure the best possible data is available, as well as wider evidence. The foundations of productivity depend on a wide range of metrics for each local area and nationally and this project aims to bring together metrics in a timely and easy way to aid this.

Although the metrics in scope for this project span all foundation of productivity, it is being commissioned by the Science, Research Innovation directorate of BEIS and so has a specific interest in Ideas and Place metrics:

The Industrial Strategy makes clear the importance of Place and Ideas as two of the foundations of UK productivity. Through the Industrial Strategy, Government has committed to reaching the target of 2.4% of GDP Investment in R&D by 2027, and this will mean boosting R&D in every UK region.

The 2014 Science and Innovation Strategy, published jointly by BEIS and HM Treasury, also highlighted the importance of places where people and organisations benefit from mutual proximity. Exploiting this concentration of skills, knowledge and market is important for directing Government investment, and is important for local areas to ensure their competitiveness and future growth.

These BEIS commitments require a concerted effort across Government and its partners to engage with local economic areas to relate the national targets to their regional activities and contribute towards their plans for increased productivity and economic growth. In deciding where best to make investments in science, research and the wider innovation activity that brings economic growth, national and local decision makers need to draw on a robust evidence base, to ensure it identifies and funds the best opportunities - building capacity and capability where needed.

AIMS and Objectives of the Project

Aims of the project:

1. To provide accessible data / metrics, which are easy to analyse and visualise at various geographies, to devise strategies for Science, Research and Innovation and Local Industrial Strategies (this will aid progress towards several vital BEIS policy areas, especially the national target of R&D intensity reaching 2.4% of GDP by 2027).
2. The project will bring data together in one place and include visual maps which will be easily produced by non-technical self-serve users, using at least two functional UK geographies: 1) Local Enterprise Partnership and 2) a regional geography that includes all of the UK such as NUTS1 (or a lower UK geography which can be aggregated up to various geographies (e.g. NUTS2)).
3. These data and data visualisations at various functional geographies will be openly available and primarily aimed at local industrial strategy decision makers, as well as HMT analysts and policy makers. We would like the database and dashboards ready for use by some time in October 2019 or sooner if possible. This new data tool contract will initially run for a period of 2 years; at which point it would be reviewed.

What current problems will the tool address?

This open database and visual dashboards are needed because:

1. Stakeholders report that the current data landscape is fragmented and is inefficient for informing effective strategies, due to many different sources which are hard to find and access.
2. Most Local Enterprise Partnerships do not have sufficient analytical capability in house to devise, analyse and evaluate evidence-based strategies – therefore most are reliant on commissioning external contractors, even if just to provide the descriptive economic statistics at the LEP geography.
3. The tool proposed will be easy to use for analysts and non-analysts, and will mean that external contractors or in house analysts can get the essential statistics on LEPs faster and easier, freeing up time and money for more tailored, in depth or specific analysis.
4. Consistency of metrics across the UK: BEIS is currently undertaking a project to identify and publish one agreed set of measures for designing and evaluating Local Industrial Strategies, mapping against each of the 5 foundations of productivity (called the LEP outlook which is due to be published in July 2019). This dynamic and open tool will use the agreed measures from the LEP outlook that are openly available, which will mean that all parts of the country and national decision makers such as BEIS can use the same metrics for analysis.

5. This proposed database and dashboard builds and expands the first iteration which was created as part of the Science and Innovation Audits (SIAs, which helped identify substantial strengths and areas where the potential for future R&D excellence exists). SIAs played an important role as part of open and transparent processes supporting investment decisions. The audits are being used to support evidence-based decisions on investment in science and innovation that will increase productivity and growth. However, some of the local partners providing evidence for SIAs generally found it hard to access and interpret the data and this new database will be designed to improve both the coverage and usage of data. This is especially the case amongst local partners such as LEPs as this will be the first comprehensive tool for 'Ideas' data at LEP level.

Suggested Methodology

Project requirements:

The methodology would look to build on similar local data tools/databases, but will require:

- a) advising on the openly available metrics to include in this new product;
- b) writing new queries (based on the steering group's knowledge of user needs);
- c) building a new database, bringing in up to date data from various sources;
- d) designing visual dashboards with various levels of functional geography; and
- e) updating data at least annually (ie once in this contract) making use of APIs wherever possible to allow automatic updating whenever new data is published. The database is likely to be hosted on Microsoft's cloud (not on BEIS systems) and Microsoft Power BI is our current suggested software.
- f) The dashboard outputs must follow best practice for data visualisation, and must show both a) several metrics at one time for 1 geography (e.g. LEP area) plus b) a map or chart of the whole country/UK broken down by each geography (i.e. a map of England showing all LEPs against each other) on one or more metrics

Options to be costed:

The maximum budget available for this work is £50,000 across the 2 years, so there is a likely trade-off between the number of metrics that can be included and the number of different geographies at which it will be possible to analyse the data.

In your proposal, please discuss and cost the options below, and state your proposed solutions for the given budget – including an initial assessment of which metrics (against each foundation of productivity) would be only produced for a subset of the geographic breakdowns (either due to lack of availability or lack of priority at the given geography).

(The project steering group will discuss further and decide this, but for the purposes of costing this work please state your current assumptions).

Please suggest the number of metrics to include and specify as much as possible your initial assessment of possible metrics. We would like costings for 50, 75 and 100 metrics but we will score the costs for 100 metrics as this seems more likely.

BEIS will share relevant work on local metrics, such as data sources and our preferred ways to measure key local indicators for research, innovation and the foundations of productivity. A summary of suggested metrics from previous BEIS work (especially the LEP outlook) are below:

- Ideas: R&D Expenditure; R&D tax credit; Intellectual Property protection (e.g. patents by patentee); Knowledge exchange/ collaboration (e.g. consultancy income)
- People: Participation in Higher Education (e.g. undergraduate qualifiers in STEM and non-STEM); Migration patterns (e.g. % of working age population)

- Infrastructure: Broadband Infrastructure (e.g. average download speeds); transport connectivity links (e.g. Journey time between key hubs- within and outside LEP area); housing affordability (supply and value)
- Business Environment: rate of start-ups and start-up survival rates; enterprise per 1,000 residents; Industrial structure & cluster development; Uptake of business finance; Management practices; % of exporting businesses

Please cost for at least two geographies, and propose a suggested balance of number of metrics and number of geographies (for example the below, in order of usefulness to the policy aims described in this brief):

1. Local Enterprise Partnership (not optional for this project, but also not sufficient, especially as these are England only).
2. A UK wide geography no larger than NUTS1 and ideally a more local level than NUTS1 (such as NUTS2 or NUTS3 level) which would enable aggregation to NUTS1 as well as bespoke geographies to be created.

We would welcome proposals on the possibility further bespoke geographies being possible

There are no current plans for BEIS or UKRI to run further Science and Innovation Audits. This means it is not essential to be able to use this tool to create bespoke sub national geographies, but this would still be desirable if possible as it would enable local providers to access data/evidence on Science, Research and Innovation outside of LEP boundaries.

Please cost for any other differences in quality you see as important to consider, for example options about the quality of the data visualisations (static vs dynamic, colour schemes etc) – please include data visualisation examples if possible.

Lastly, we require cost breakdowns for number of staff days on the project at each staff level in the attached Excel template.
