UK SBS will not itself be a party to, nor have any liability under, the Contract unless it is expressly specified as Contracting Authority in the Order.

- A2-5 Subject to clause A2-4, the Order shall be deemed to be accepted on the date on which authorised representatives of both parties have signed a copy of this Contract, at which point the Contract shall come into existence. The Contract shall remain in force until all the parties' obligations have been performed in accordance with the Contract, at which point it shall expire, or until the Contract has been terminated in accordance with clause A3.

The Supplier shall have a duty to mitigate its costs and shall on request provide proof of expenditure for any compensation claimed.

- A3-5 Upon termination or expiry of the Contract, the Supplier shall immediately:
 - A3-5-1 cease all work on the Contract;
 - A3-5-2 Deliver to the Contracting Authority all Deliverables and all work-in-progress whether or not then complete. If the Supplier fails to do so, then the Contracting Authority may enter the Supplier's premises and take possession of them. Until they have been returned or delivered, the Supplier shall be solely responsible for their safe keeping and will not use them for any purpose not connected with this Contract;
 - A3-5-3 cease use of and return (or, at the Contracting Authority's or UK SBS's acting as an agent on behalf of the Contracting Authority's election, destroy) all of the Contracting Authority's Materials in the Supplier's possession or control; and

During the period of notice the Contracting Authority may direct the Supplier to perform all or any of the work under the Contract. Where the Contracting Authority has invoked either of these rights, the Supplier may claim reasonable costs necessarily and properly incurred by him as a result of the termination or reduction, excluding loss of profit, provided that the claim shall not exceed the total cost of the Contract. The Supplier shall have a duty to mitigate its costs and shall on request provide proof of expenditure for any compensation claimed

- B4-10-1 any payment due from the Supplier to the subcontractor under the subcontract is to be made no later than the end of a period of 30 days from the date on which the relevant invoice is regarded as valid and undisputed;
- B4-10-2 any invoices for payment submitted by the subcontractor or are considered and verified by the Supplier in a timely fashion and that undue delay in doing so is not to be sufficient justification for failing to regard an invoice as valid and undisputed;
and
- B4-10-3 any subcontractor will include, in any subcontract which it in turn awards, suitable provisions to impose, as between the parties to that subcontract, requirements to the same effect as those imposed in paragraphs B4-10-1, B4-10-2 and B4-10-3 of this Clause B4-10, subject to suitable amendment to reflect the identities of the relevant parties.

For the avoidance of doubt, in any situations that the Contracting Authority is making payments to the Supplier without being presented with an invoice, the absence of an invoice does not waive any obligation regarding payments made by the Supplier to its subcontractors or supply chain.

B5 Contracting Authority Property

- B5-1 The Supplier acknowledges that all information (including confidential information), equipment and tools, drawings, specifications, data, software and any other materials supplied by the Contracting Authority or UK SBS acting as an agent on behalf of the Contracting Authority to the Supplier (Contracting Authority's Materials) and all rights in the Contracting Authority's Materials are and shall remain at all times the exclusive property of the Contracting Authority and UK SBS (as appropriate). The Supplier shall keep the Contracting Authority's Materials in safe custody at its own risk, maintain them in good condition until returned to the Contracting Authority or UK SBS, and not dispose or use the same other than for the sole purpose of performing the Supplier's obligations under the Contract and in accordance with written instructions or authorisation from the Contracting Authority or UK SBS acting as an agent on behalf of the Contracting Authority.

- B6-2 Save as otherwise provided in the Special Conditions, the Supplier assigns to the Contracting Authority, with full title guarantee and free from all third party rights, all Intellectual Property Rights in the products of the Services, including for the avoidance of doubt the Deliverables. Where those products or Deliverables incorporate any Intellectual Property Rights owned by or licensed to the Supplier which are not assigned under this clause, the Supplier grants to the Contracting Authority a worldwide, irrevocable, royalty-free, transferable licence, with the right to grant sub-licences, under those Intellectual Property Rights to maintain, repair, adapt, copy and use those products and Deliverables for any purpose.
- B6-3 The Supplier shall obtain waivers of all moral rights in the products, including for the avoidance of doubt the Deliverables, of the Services to which any individual is now or may be at any future time entitled under Chapter IV of Part I of the Copyright Designs and Patents Act 1988 or any similar provisions of law in any jurisdiction.
- B6-4 The Supplier shall, promptly at the request of the Contracting Authority or UK SBS acting as an agent on behalf of the Contracting Authority, do (or procure to be done) all such further acts and things and the execution of all such other documents as the Contracting Authority or UK SBS acting as an agent on behalf of the Contracting Authority may from time to time require for the purpose of securing for the Contracting Authority the full benefit of the Contract, including all right, title and interest in and to the Intellectual Property Rights assigned to the Contracting Authority in accordance with clause B6-2.

- B7-1-2 any claim brought against the Contracting Authority or UK SBS acting as an agent on behalf of the Contracting Authority for actual or alleged infringement of a third party's Intellectual Property Rights arising out of, or in connection with, the receipt, use or supply of the Services; and
- B7-1-3 Any claim whether in tort, contract, statutory or otherwise, demands, actions, proceedings and any awards arising from a breach by the Supplier of clause B1-7 of these Conditions.

B8-5 If the Supplier fails or is unable to maintain insurance in accordance with clause B8-1, the Contracting Authority or UK SBS acting as an agent on behalf of the Contracting Authority may, so far as it is able, purchase such alternative insurance cover as it deems to be reasonably necessary and shall be entitled to recover all reasonable costs and expenses it incurs in doing so from the Supplier.

B9 Liability

B9-1 In this clause B9, a reference to the Contracting Authority or UK SBS's liability for something is a reference to any liability whatsoever which the Contracting Authority or UK SBS might have for it, its consequences, and any direct, indirect or consequential loss, damage, costs or expenses resulting from it or its consequences, whether the liability arises under the Contract, in tort or otherwise, and even if it results from the Contracting Authority's or UK SBS's negligence or from negligence for which the Contracting Authority's or UK SBS would otherwise be liable.

B9-2 The Contracting Authority or UK SBS acting as an agent on behalf of the Contracting Authority is not in breach of the Contract, and neither the Contracting Authority nor UK SBS has any liability for anything, to the extent that the apparent breach or liability is attributable to the Supplier's breach of the Contract.

SECTION C

C1 Confidential Information

- C1-1 A party who receives Confidential Information shall keep in strict confidence (both during the term of the Contract and after its expiry or termination) all Confidential Information which is disclosed to it. That party shall only disclose such Confidential Information to those of its employees, agents or subcontractors who need to know the same for the purpose of discharging that party's obligations under the Contract, and shall ensure that such employees, agents or subcontractors shall keep all such information confidential in accordance with this clause C1. Neither party shall, without the prior written consent of the other party, disclose to any third party any Confidential Information, unless the information:
- C1-1-1 was public knowledge or already known to that party at the time of disclosure; or
- C1-1-2 subsequently becomes public knowledge other than by breach of the Contract; or
- C1-1-3 subsequently comes lawfully into the possession of that party from a third party; or
- C1-1-4 Is agreed by the parties not to be confidential or to be disclosable.
- C1-2 To the extent necessary to implement the provisions of the Contract (but not further or otherwise), either party may disclose the Confidential Information to any relevant governmental or other authority or regulatory body, provided that before any such disclosure that party shall make those persons aware of its obligations of confidentiality under the Contract and shall use reasonable endeavours to obtain a binding undertaking as to confidentiality from all such persons.

disclosure in accordance with the provisions of FOIA, the content of the Contract is not Confidential Information. The Contracting Authority and or UK SBS acting as an agent on behalf of the Contracting Authority shall be responsible for determining in their absolute discretion whether any of the content of the Contract is exempt from disclosure in accordance with the provisions of FOIA.

- C2-3 Notwithstanding any other term of the Contract, the Supplier hereby consents to the Contracting Authority and or UK SBS acting as an agent on behalf of the Contracting Authority publishing the Contract in its entirety, (but with any information which is exempt from disclosure in accordance with the provisions of FOIA redacted) including from time to time agreed changes to the Contract, to the general public.

If any of the situations in C2-2-1, C2-2-2, C2-2-3 apply the Supplier consents to the Contract or sourcing documents being redacted by the Contracting Authority to the extent necessary to remove or obscure the relevant material and being published on the designated website subject to those redactions

Annex A – Specification

1. Background

Net Zero, Gender, Race and Social Inclusion

The UK is committed to a full transition to a Net Zero future by 2050 and is committed to ensuring that this transition is just and fair. Evidence suggests that women, girls and people in marginalised communities are more vulnerable to the impacts of climate change as a result of structural inequalities, discrimination and sociocultural and economic barriers. The UK is fully committed to facilitating the implementation of the Gender Action Plan agreed at COP25, both domestically and internationally. We welcome the steps taken so far by Parties, non-Party stakeholders and the UNFCCC Secretariat to deliver on the enhanced UNFCCC Gender Action Plan and continue to call on all countries to develop gender-responsive climate policies, plans, strategies and actions. As Presidency, we recognise the importance of prioritising gender-responsive climate action and finance in order to tackle possible uneven gender-relations which may exacerbate the damaging effects of climate change (and climate change mitigation action) on women and girls.

The role of gender, race and other protected characteristics (such as disability and socio-economic) and intersectionality in energy systems needs to be considered as the UK and other countries move towards Net Zero. Research has shown that norms and practices linked to gender and race have an impact on the development of policies, user systems and energy technologies, and recognising these can lead to more efficient and inclusive energy solutions¹. One central issue is that, often energy policies and technologies are assumed to be gender neutral when, in fact, evidence suggests they may be gender blind². Similar evidence is emerging as to the same effect for other protected characteristics. This means that it is important that energy and climate policies explore possible differential impacts on genders as well as socio-economic and cultural groups. Championing women's roles as technology users is essential if we are to deliver effective, long-term solutions to climate change, including climate change mitigation and adaptation strategies. Without doing this policies and technologies risk being less effective and may have unintended effects, hindering transitions to more sustainable energy systems.

For example, reducing domestic energy consumption is a critical part of the UK's transition to Net Zero. Women are the main users and drivers of domestic energy demand³. Early evidence suggests that women are more conscious consumers and typically report being more willing to change their energy related behaviours than men⁴. However, they face several barriers to being early adopters of technology. Upscaling of energy transition solutions are likely to be more effective if better techniques are used to incorporate the perspective of those with protected characteristics. A deeper understanding of this pattern of energy demand feeding in to gender-responsive and socially inclusive policies could accelerate the domestic energy/climate transition. Additionally, gender perceptive analysis will shed light on other protected characteristics and on issues associated with intersectionality, ensuring the UK's transition is fair and equal across the board.

Across the world evidence has suggested that institutional contexts that shape possibilities for socio-technical innovation in energy are often not diverse and this can contribute to lower understanding of a diverse range of energy users. This in turn can risk lead to sub-optimal interventions that have lower impact, effectiveness, and value for money. Investment in tools and practices is needed to change and counter-act the barriers in the energy sector that inhibit gender responsive and socially inclusive energy interventions. Most research to date has been done in low- and middle-income countries with little knowledge transfer occurring in high-income nations. There is a need to for greater data and scientific research on gender, race, socio-economic status and disability and energy use in the UK.

BEIS has processes in place to ensure that equalities impacts are considered in the design of all of its policies, as required by law in the Public Sector Equality Duty set out in the Equality Act (2010). Our commitment to this cause goes far beyond our legal duty so we are looking for an ambitious and innovative programme of work as we endeavour to deliver a just and effective transition to a Net Zero society.

International Energy Agency's Users Technology Collaboration Platform:

The UK is a contributing member of the International Energy Agency's (IEA) Users Technology Collaboration Platform (UsersTCP)⁵. The User-Centred Energy Systems mission is to provide evidence from socio-technical research on the design, social acceptance and usability of clean energy technologies to inform policy making for clean, efficient and secure energy transitions. The group supports the work of independent, international groups of experts that enable governments and industries from around the world to lead programmes and projects on a wide range of energy technologies and related issues. The experts in these collaborations work to advance the research, development and commercialisation of energy technologies. The breadth of the analytical expertise in the Technology Collaboration Programme is a unique asset to the global transition to a cleaner energy future. These collaborations involve over 6 000 experts worldwide who represent nearly 300 public and private organisations located in 55 countries.

The UsersTCP has announced a new annex for January 2021. This new research collaboration is entitled: *Empowering all: Gender in policy and implementation for achieving transitions to sustainable energy*⁶. It will gather researchers from the fields of gender and energy in a global network to analyse energy policy and technologies from gender perspectives and provide recommendations for policy design and implementation.

The aim of this international collaboration is to apply gender perspectives to support the participating countries in their work to design a more efficient and inclusive energy system, and through this also support ongoing efforts to foster energy transitions. This is particularly pressing now, as countries develop measures to mitigate the social and economic costs of the current COVID-19 crisis. This tender will also constitute the UK's participation in this international collaboration. In particular, the UK (and the UsersTCP) recognises that this annex provides an opportunity to use gender as a lens to explore the energy system from a wider diversity and inclusion perspective and thus other protected characteristics that produce vulnerability, such as race, disability and social inclusion are also central to this work.

This tender provides a unique and exciting opportunity to work closely and collaboratively with BEIS, other interested government departments e.g. Cabinet Office, and with researchers and policy makers across the OECD. Most notably, this includes Sweden, Ireland, Austria and the Netherlands. This project may benefit from a considerable amount of international profile and is likely to benefit from the possibility of being showcased at COP26.

The core focus of this tender is to support an inclusive transition to net zero in the UK. The new Users TCP annex provides a unique opportunity and mechanism to learn and collaborate from other countries in this area.

2. Aims and Objectives of the Project

Aims and objectives:

The overall objective of Stage 1 is to identify how the UK can better develop gender responsive and inclusive climate/ energy policies and technologies. Sub-objectives can be identified by the research's stage:

Stage 1: Initial Review of Evidence/Data and Scoping.

This can be broken down into 5 objectives:

1. Identify existing knowledge (and data) on users (with a particular focus on those with protected characteristics) of policies and technologies for energy efficiency, low carbon heating and other climate policies in the UK.
2. Identify existing evidence regarding best practice for mainstreaming gender and social inclusion into the development of policy and technologies for climate mitigation/energy that is relevant for the UK (and other developed countries).
3. Identify the where there are opportunities to better embed gender and social inclusion into energy/climate policy making and innovation processes.
4. Identify how the UK and other countries can work together to better develop gender responsive climate/energy policies and technologies for Net Zero transitions.
5. Clearly scope out a plan for the second phase of the work – particularly practical intervention(s) or tools that will build on and operationalise the learning produced from answering the research questions in Stage 1.

The outputs from Stage 1 will include: i) a publishable review of the literature/evidence (this may include some light touch secondary data analysis if relevant); and ii) a clear plan for Stage 2 of the work that sets out a proposed programme of work. This will provide the basis for reviewing whether the contract proceeds into Stage 2 or whether a break clause at the end of March 2021 will be initiated.

Stage 2: Developing a practical approach to support inclusive energy/climate policy and technology

The objectives for Stage 2 will need to be informed by the learning produced by the delivery of Stage 1's objectives. It is imperative that Stage 2 is based on the evidence base identified in Stage 1. However, the broad overarching objectives for the Stage 2 workstream are:

1. Deliver and implement a toolkit, strategy or methodology that operationalises the learning and evidence identified in Stage 1 that fills government's knowledge gaps and empowers existing processes with a better understanding of the 'User'. These will need to offer clear potential and supporting an inclusive energy/low carbon transition.
2. To ensure shared learning across the participating countries of the UsersTCP and external stakeholders.

Bidders should expect to work with BEIS to refine and develop these objectives as part of the design process for Stage 2.

Proposed research questions:

Stage 1, Defining, identifying and framing the problem.

1. What does gender-responsive and inclusive technology/policy mean?
 - a. Why are gender-responsive/ socially inclusive technologies and policies important? What value could they bring for climate mitigation and the energy sector?
2. What do we already know about women and those with other protected characteristics as users of energy products, technologies and policies?
 - a. What gendered roles exist? How are these reflected in the inertias of the energy sector in the UK?
 - b. What are the main gender-related issues with current policy making and approaches related to achieving net zero in the UK?
 - c. Of what importance is the consideration of other protected characteristics and intersectionality?
 - d. What do gender equality and social inclusion (GESI) approaches say about technology in the energy sector in the UK?
3. How can the UK best collaborate with other countries (through the Gender Annex of the Users TCP) to develop gender-inclusive policies and technologies?
4. What opportunities and practical approaches exist that could support the development of gender-responsive and socially inclusive technologies and policies? (where relevant) How might these be developed and undertaken as part of stage 2?

Stage 2, Developing and implementing a practical approach.

(to be determined/further refined if the contract continues past the 31ST March 2021 break clause)

5. What methods and approaches exist for data collection with hard to reach groups, for example BAME communities and female users of technology in male headed households?
 - a. What best practice exists for a gender-sensitive and socially inclusive understanding of users in energy?
 - b. In which countries might best practice case studies exist?
6. What approaches exist for developing (mainstreaming) gender-responsive policies and technologies in energy/climate?

- a. What policy levers exist for promoting gender-inclusive technology?

Please note that as this is a culmination of BEIS' early thinking on this relatively new area of research and as such we are open to suggestions and refinements to these research questions.

3. Suggested Methodology

The maximum budget for Stage 1 is £30k.

Stage 1:

Literature review

A systematic-like literature review of the existing evidence on a gender-responsive and socially inclusive transition to Net Zero, this includes technologies and policies for energy efficiency, low carbon heating and other areas of the energy/climate system.

The literature review should identify, select and critically appraise existing research. It should be conducted in an applied manner and must define the lessons that can be learnt from the existing literature and applied to BEIS' specific policies for an inclusive Net Zero transition. There may be scope to conduct virtual interviews or workshops with experts to validate the findings of the literature review and/or carrying out basic, light touch analysis of relevant dataset(s). The review should also identify what best practice exists for ensuring policy and technology development is gender responsive and socially inclusive as well as what evidence gaps exist. Whilst the primary focus of the literature review is on gender-responsive technology and policies in the energy sector specifically, the review should consider what can be learnt from the wider literature on gender-responsive/ socially inclusive innovation and technology development in other sectors that have undergone socio-technical transitions.

This review is focussed on users of climate/energy technologies and policies. Therefore, it is out of scope to consider diversity in the energy sector itself. Lots of research has been done in this area and there is a consensus that the energy sector needs to improve the diversity of its workforce.

Key sources for the review should include (this is not an exhaustive list): literature on the UK energy systems, literature on other developed countries, literature in an LMIC/ international development context including donors and funders, existing policies and documents from within the energy industry, literature on gender and social inclusion in policy making and socio-technical transitions. Bidders should detail examples of their proposed search terms and search strategies in their response.

To facilitate developing the literature review in an applied manner, close working with BEIS colleagues is essential and bidders should provide detail on their approach to this in their response. The literature review will require collaboration with the IEA's gender annex working group where an established community of practice will be well placed to support the development of this literature review and the design of Stage 2 based on this.

At the end of Phase 1 a publishable literature review should be produced that identifies and defines the problem and scopes/summarises the potential approaches that could be utilised by BEIS to overcome this.

It will be imperative that all research and reporting is carried out in plain English and accessible to a range of non-specialist audiences – the written use of complex concepts and terminologies should be minimised.

Project plan for Stage 2

The literature review should include an Annex that operationalises this in the form of a project plan for Stage 2. This should be produced using close engagement by the successful bidder to help define what would be of most value for BEIS in this area. There will be a break clause at this point (March 2021) and continuation will be contingent on both BEIS securing the funding and BEIS approving the project plan for Stage 2. Key criteria for pursuing Stage 2 will be agreed over the course of Stage 1 with the successful bidder but the proposal for Stage 2 will need to have to be practical, useful and have clear potential to help support inclusive energy/climate policy.

BEIS understands the importance of Stage 2 being built from the evidence base established in Stage 1. Bidders should detail how they intend to take the findings of the literature review as they emerge to design an applied tool for BEIS that will be useful and impactful in the department. Therefore, we are interested in the process that bidders will use to ensure that learning from Stage 1 is transferred into action. For the purpose of the procurement exercise bidders should take what they know from the area and discuss an example output that might be relevant for Stage 2. This could include exploring the use of case studies in countries identified as leaders in this area. It might be possible to facilitate this through BEIS' Official Development Assistance funded projects through International Climate Finance or the Global Challenges Research Fund but this should not be relied upon.

Stage 2: Development of a practical solution

(If contract continues beyond the break clause)

We are looking for an actionable solution (e.g. a toolkit, methodology, possible strategy etc) to use within policy processes to ensure that policies and technologies for the UK's Net Zero transition are gender-responsive. We expect that this will involve working iteratively and collaboratively with BEIS and other stakeholders as well as involving some form of testing and piloting.

In order to provide an accurate pricing schedule to facilitate the evaluation of all bids, tender responses should include a suggested solution based on existing knowledge and a corresponding work plan to fulfil Stage 2. All costings and price schedules should reflect this work plan for Stage 2.

Working with BEIS

The BEIS point of contact for this project will provide support for identifying opportunities for engagement with key stakeholder and policy teams. Bidders should think about how they will work collaboratively with BEIS to understand how best to deliver the maximum value for the department from this project.

Working with the UsersTCP Gender Annex:

The successful bidder will be required to attend meetings of the UsersTCP working group (which will be once every two months) as well as engage with ad hoc email requests. Beyond this, it is for the successful bidder to decide how best to utilise and engage with the group. The successful bidder will act as an intermediary between this group and BEIS, this will include providing a readout from meetings and identifying opportunities to benefit from participation in the group.

4. Deliverables

1. Weekly or bi-weekly progress reports,

These weekly progress reports should take the form of a short email and will be discussed in a weekly or bi-weekly catch up meeting with the BEIS point of contact. This will provide an opportunity to set direction for the review, aid idea formation for Stage 2 and identify opportunities for collaboration with BEIS policy and analytical teams.

2. Interim literature review findings presentation, (mid/late) February 2021

A presentation to a wide range of BEIS stakeholders detailing the early findings of the literature review as well as the approach taken to defining key terms. The presentation should be 30 minutes long with an additional 30 minutes for questions. This will allow BEIS influence the direction of the literature review towards areas of a particular interest.

3. Final literature review for peer review, (end) March 2021

This should be of a publishable standard⁷ and will be quality assured by BEIS analysts and subject to BEIS' peer review process.

4. Proposal for Stage 2, (mid) March 2021

The successful bidder must produce a proposal for a toolkit/methodology/strategy that they will deliver for BEIS to ensure that the learning from Stage 1 is integrated into policy-making and innovation processes for climate mitigation and energy. A clear rationale should be produced and it must demonstrate how this has been built addresses an issue or evidence gap identified in Stage 1. This must include timescales, budget and work plan for the project's delivery. This should be included as an Annex to the literature review but will not be peer reviewed or published.

BEIS will assess the annex, according to the criteria agreed in the inception meeting, before the break clause in March 2021. If the proposal is not accepted by BEIS, or funding cannot be secured, the break clause will be implemented in March 2021.

5. Workshop, October 2021

This workshop will provide an early opportunity to disseminate the output of Stage 2 and could also be used as a means of piloting the output with government and external stakeholders. This is timed to build on the momentum of COP26 and its contribution to the Gender Action Plan. It may be possible to incorporate/show case this at events around or at COP26 but this is not clear at this stage.

6. Stage 2 Output

This output will be the culmination of the entire research project. This will need to be agreed at the end of stage 1 prior to proceeding with Stage 2. It will be BEIS-owned although could be used across government and should complement BEIS's existing processes. The output will need to have a clear, tangible impact in helping to support an inclusive energy/low-carbon transition.

Terms and Conditions

Bidders are to note that any requested modifications to the Contracting Authority Terms and Conditions on the grounds of statutory and legal matters only, shall be raised as a formal clarification during the permitted clarification period.
