- A3-5-2 Deliver to the Contracting Authority all Deliverables and all work-in-progress whether or not then complete. If the Supplier fails to do so, then the Contracting Authority may enter the Supplier's premises and take possession of them. each case by giving to the Supplier reasonable written notice. During the period of notice the Contracting Authority may direct the Supplier to perform all or any of the work under the Contract. Where the Contracting Authority has invoked either of these rights, the Supplier may claim reasonable costs necessarily and properly incurred by him as a result of the termination or reduction, excluding loss of profit, provided that the claim shall not exceed the total cost of the Contract. The Supplier shall have a duty to mitigate its costs and shall on request provide proof of expenditure for any compensation claimed

Appendix A – Specification

1. Introduction and summary of requirements

Under the Paris Agreement the UK is committed to working with other countries to achieve global net zero emissions in the second half of the century, which the IPCC (Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change) has indicated will be necessary to stay below 2°C. As we approach the middle of the century, there are likely to be remaining emissions in the sectors where it is the most difficult to cut them – in industry, agriculture, aviation and shipping. Greenhouse Gas Removal technologies (GGRs) are likely to have an important role to play in offsetting difficult-to-cut emissions.

The term “Greenhouse Gas Removal” (or GGR) encompasses any method which removes greenhouse gases from the atmosphere. There is a diverse range of technologies which may be counted as GGR, including:

- Afforestation, reforestation and forest management
- Wetland, peatland and coastal habitat restoration
- Soil carbon sequestration
- Biochar
- Bioenergy (for electricity, heat or other fuels) with carbon capture and storage (BECCS)
- Building with biomass
- Enhanced weathering on land
- Mineral carbonation
- Ocean alkalinity
- Direct air carbon capture and storage (DACCS)
- Low carbon concrete
- Other approaches to removing CO₂ or other GHGs

With few exceptions, GGR development and deployment are constrained by a lack of markets or other policy interventions to encourage deployment of these technologies at scale.

BEIS requires an assessment of potential policy options which might provide such incentives for GGR deployment, both within the UK and as part of international mechanisms under the Paris Agreement.

2. Background

The Climate Change Act, passed in 2008, committed the UK to a series of greenhouse gas emissions limits – or carbon budgets – on a path to a reduction by at least 80 per cent by 2050 when compared to 1990 levels. Under the Paris Agreement, as well as seeking to limit warming to well below 2 degrees, and to pursue 1.5 degrees, the UK is committed to working with other countries to achieve global net zero emissions in the second half of the century.

In 2017 the Government published its Clean Growth Strategy¹ for meeting the UK's carbon budgets, which sets out an approach to greenhouse gas removals. It states:

“As highlighted by the Committee on Climate Change, greenhouse gas removal (GGR) technologies are likely to have an important role to play in offsetting difficult-to-cut emissions, by removing greenhouse gases from the air. As we learn more about how

GGRs could be developed and deployed, we want the UK's entrepreneurs, universities and engineering industries to be well placed to exploit the advantages of global demand for these new technologies.

We are therefore taking active steps to strengthen our understanding of these technologies and, where appropriate, move forward with deployment. The Government's strategic approach to GGR has two main elements:

- A Government programme of research and development, which aims to improve our understanding of GGR technologies, to help overcome the uncertainties around their costs, deployment potential, and impacts on the environment. We have been working with the Research Councils, who launched a new £8.6 million research programme looking at all GGR technologies in April 2017. We will also develop robust estimates of sustainable biomass resource available to the UK, reporting during 2018, and consider Royal Society scientific views on GGR.
- The Government will consider the scope for removing barriers and strengthening incentives to support the deployment of GGR, to position the UK at the leading edge of GGR development. This includes, for example, considering options for developing a carbon offset market and exploring how UK timber could be used in construction. We are also considering how best to take forward CCUS, as set out in 'Improving Business and Industry Efficiency and Supporting Clean Growth'. We will conduct a study on how GGR activity can be incentivised, in the UK and in other countries, which will help us develop policy and accounting frameworks fit for the future. And we will also consider how legal, financial and regulatory frameworks could support the rollout of GGR technologies at scale."

3. Aims and Objectives

This aim of this project is to meet the commitment in the Clean Growth Strategy: "We will conduct a study on how GGR activity can be incentivised, in the UK and in other countries, which will help us develop policy and accounting frameworks fit for the future."

The objective of this project is to provide options for policies and emissions accounting, contributing to the BEIS evidence base to inform the development of our strategic approach to GGR technologies.

4. Suggested Methodology

In this section we set out an approach which we envisage would meet our project aim.

Task 1: Understand the range of GGRs and barriers to their deployment.

By reviewing literature and other evidence, the contractors should identify GGRs (including the possibility of new GGR technologies), and the policy and accounting barriers to their deployment. There is a large and rapidly growing volume of literature addressing the need for, and characteristics, costs and potential scale of, deployment of GGRs. Much of this is being summarised in a Royal Society and Royal Academy of Engineering Review expected to be published in September 2018, and the IPCC Special Report on Global Warming of 1.5°C, due to be published 7 October 2018. We expect contractors to use these as starting points, with the review should concentrate on barriers to development and deployment, plus mechanisms to overcome these (see Task 2).

The contractors should seek grey literature as well as peer-reviewed literature, and they should review all evidence critically.

This review of evidence may need to be continued after engagement with policy teams (see Task 5).

Task 2: Identify potential policy options.

Consultants should continue the review of literature and other evidence to identify policy options. They should then propose a typology of policy interventions and consider how these could be applied to the different GGRs and barriers identified. GGRs can be grouped together where they share common features, making them suitable for the same policy options. In applying this typology consultants should consider available literature on policy options (as per Task 1), policy theory and analogues. Also to be considered are existing policy mechanisms which either apply to GGRs already or could be modified to apply, such as:

- The UK Woodland Carbon Code
- The UK Peatland code
- Emissions pricing/taxing, through the EU Emissions Trading System (ETS) or any successor scheme in which the UK participates
- Development of international market mechanisms under the Paris Agreement (to incentivise GGRs in developing countries)
- Private sector emissions reporting and domestic offsetting
- Contracts for Difference in the UK electricity market
- Building regulations
- Innovation policy
- Biomass supply policies (for both energy and construction)
- Agricultural subsidies post-CAP
- Government procurement policy

Furthermore, existing policies outside the UK that apply to GGR should also be identified and considered, such as:

- The Australian Emissions Reduction Fund and Carbon Farming Initiative;
- US tax credit for CCS;
- Forestation projects/CDM schemes

Contractors should identify an initial long list of policy options, which may be a mix of existing and novel options. Some may be cross-cutting and applicable to most or all GGRs; some may be very specific to a particular GGR.

Task 3: Assess policy options.

Contractors should set out an approach to assessing this long list of policy options that could enable the Government to enable GGR deployment, informed by the principles in the Treasury Green Book (e.g. in terms of potential scale of GHG removal; ability to monitor and evaluate the level of GHG removal; economic, social and other costs and benefits to government and others; strategic fit to wider policy objectives; potential value for money; distributional impacts).

Existing policies identified during Task 2 should be appraised in the same way, as well as how well they were or are implemented, their effectiveness, whether costs were as anticipated, and whether there were unintended consequences.

Given the range of potential policy options, and the limited resources available to this project, a full policy appraisal is not expected for all options. A strategic approach should be developed with the steering group, e.g. based on near-term priority areas (such as the EU ETS and private sector reporting & offsetting) and policies that incentivise the widest range of options.

All evidence should be critically appraised for robustness.

Task 4: Refine assessment through engagement with policy teams.

The policy assessment should be checked and refined by engagement with BEIS and other policy teams through facilitated meetings and/or workshops.

Individuals from several policy teams have been involved in scoping this project and are ready to engage with the contractors, including (but not necessarily limited to):

- BEIS EU ETS (Emissions Trading Scheme)
- BEIS Carbon Budgets and Clean Growth
- BEIS Carbon Capture Utilisation and Storage (CCUS)
- BEIS Heat and Business Energy
- BEIS Biomass Electricity
- BEIS Business Energy Use (working on streamlined Energy and Carbon Reporting)
- BEIS Global Carbon Markets team
- Defra Trees, Woodlands & Forestry Policy
- Defra Soils and Peatlands
- MHCLG
- HM Treasury Energy, Environment and Agriculture

BEIS will convene a Steering Group on which some of the above teams will be represented. Members of the Steering Group, and other government representatives, will be available to provide input.

Task 5: Summarise and identify lead options.

Contractors should summarise their findings and identify lead options, explaining their reasoning. Contractors should be prepared to revisit Tasks 1-3 in the light of information gained during engagement with policy teams during Task 4.

The contractors should suggest further work, e.g. the development of pilots of policy options, which cannot be accommodated within the resources available to this contract.

Stakeholder Engagement

Engagement with government policy teams is a crucial aspect of this work. It should begin at the kick-off meeting and continue during the work, especially Task 4, via the facilitated meetings. Policy teams may have tacit knowledge, including of grey literature, and relevant contacts to provide important additional information on policy options and their appraisal. This engagement is important to enable the contractors to understand:

- the breadth and depth of existing knowledge within government;
- wider policy ambitions and constraints which would either limit the deployability of policy options or, conversely, result in co-benefits across policy areas other than tackling climate change;
- the risk of perverse incentives, compared to investments in mitigation measures such as energy efficiency;
- the type of information which policy teams would find most useful.

5. Outputs Required

- An overall report setting out the project scope, method, results and a summary of key findings.
- Bespoke, shorter reports (e.g. 2-page) for each Government policy team relevant to GGR incentivisation.

- A PowerPoint presentation summarising the above, suitable for presenting the findings to Government colleagues including both those participating in the project and others not already familiar with the work.

6. Ownership and Publication

The overall report will be published on the public government website, gov.uk, in line with standard practice for work commissioned by the BEIS Science Team. The draft report should be sent to BEIS and time allowed for review and agreement of the final version.

7. Quality Assurance

The contractor must state how all of the work on the project will be quality assured by producing a Quality Assurance (QA) plan. A summary of this plan should be included within the proposal. The plan should:

- Ensure that QA is done by individuals who were not directly involved in the research, analysis or model development.
- Specify who will be responsible for QA before the work is delivered to BEIS.
- Explain how the successful bidder will take responsibility for any work supplied by sub-contractors.

Sign-off for the quality assurance must be done by someone of sufficient seniority within the contractor organisation to be able to take responsibility for the work done. BEIS reserves the right to refuse to pay for outputs which do not meet the required standard specified in this invitation to tender.

Draft outputs of the interim and final reports and datasets must be submitted to BEIS by the deadlines given in Section 8 below, and then the contractor should attend a meeting with officials to present the draft interim and final results to the panel at BEIS offices. Verbal and written comments will be collated by the BEIS project manager and submitted to the Contractor following these meetings. Invoices for deliverables will only be processed if the submitted officials' comments have been addressed to the standard deemed acceptable by the officials and BEIS project manager. The Contractor should make it clear in writing exactly where and how comments have been addressed.

BEIS officials will scrutinise not only the quality of the data and analysis, but also the quality of the reporting. Reports deemed by BEIS to be poorly written or poorly presented will be returned to the supplier to re-produce to the high standard required before invoices are paid. Invoices will be paid by deliverable and will not be processed unless deliverables are submitted on time and to the standard required. BEIS will withhold a percentage of the cost for each deliverable to dissuade sub-standard and /or late submissions. Further details are provided in clauses 19-21 of the BEIS Terms and Conditions.

The Contractor will be expected to produce high quality reports that meet the following criteria:

General:

- Clearly set out findings and supporting evidence, in plain correct English.

Diagrams:

- Clear and appropriate use of diagrams (large enough size, data can be read clearly).
- All diagrams should be clearly explained and discussed.

Data quality:

- Limitations in the research approach must be clearly stated and justified.
- Where the findings are stronger and more robust and where they are not needs to be stated clearly.

9. Ethics

Applicants should consider ethical issues and, where necessary, identify and propose arrangements for initial scrutiny and on-going monitoring of ethical issues. The appropriate handling of ethical issues is part of the tender assessment exercise and proposals will be evaluated on this as part of the 'addressing challenges and risks' criterion.

We expect contractors to adhere to the following GSR (Government Social Research) Principles:

1. Sound application and conduct of social research methods and appropriate dissemination and utilisation of findings
2. Participation based on valid consent
3. Enabling participation
4. Avoidance of personal harm
5. Non-disclosure of identity and personal information

Further guidance is available in "Ethical Assurance Guidance for Social research in Government": <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/ethical-assurance-guidance-for-social-research-in-government>

10. Working Arrangements

The successful contractor will be expected to identify one named point of contact through whom all enquiries can be filtered. A BEIS project manager will be assigned to the project and will be the central point of contact.

11. Consortium Bids

In the case of a consortium tender, only one submission covering all of the partners is required but consortia are advised to make clear the proposed role that each partner will play in performing the contract as per the requirements of the technical specification. We expect the bidder to indicate who in the consortium will be the lead contact for this project, and the organisation and governance associated with the consortia.

12. Payment

Payments will be linked to delivery of key milestones. The indicative milestones and phasing of payments is as follows:

Deliverable	Date	Proportion of contract cost
Interim report	January 2019	50%
Final report	March 2019	50%

This can be adjusted and agreed with the contractor based on the tender response/details. Please advise in your tender response how this breakdown reflects your usual payment processes, however in line with HM Treasury guidance all payment will be made in arrears

The Department aims to pay all correctly submitted invoices as soon as possible with a target of 10 days from the date of receipt and within 30 days at the latest in line with standard terms and conditions of contract.
