UK Research and Innovation (UKRI)

UKRI is a non-departmental public body sponsored by the Department for Business, Energy and Industrial Strategy (BEIS).

Our organisation brings together the seven disciplinary research councils, Research England, which is responsible for supporting research and knowledge exchange at higher education institutions in England, and the UK's innovation agency, Innovate UK.

UKRI's vision is for an outstanding research and innovation system in the UK that gives everyone the opportunity to contribute and to benefit, enriching lives locally, nationally and internationally. Our mission is to convene, catalyse and invest in close collaboration with others to build a thriving, inclusive research and innovation system that connects discovery to prosperity and public good.

More information can be found on www.ukri.org.

UKRI Equality, Diversity, and Inclusion (EDI) Strategy Consultation

UKRI has announced a consultation on the organisation's draft Equality, Diversity, and Inclusion (EDI) Strategy.

The EDI strategy sets out UKRI's ambition for an inclusive research and innovation system and our long-term commitment to achieving this aim. The development of the strategy has been driven by wide-ranging engagement, discussion, and challenge from a wide variety of individuals and organisations with UKRI and its councils.

The strategy outlines our ambition for a research and innovation system where:

- everyone feels included, is heard, respected, and able to be their real self
- different people, ideas, ways of thinking, skills, and perspectives are valued
- people and ideas thrive, are supported, and encouraged
- everyone can participate in, contribute to, and benefit from our investments in research, and innovation.

An open consultation on the strategy was launched on 13 January and will close on 28 March 2022. The consultation is open to anyone. We want everybody's voice to be heard. The consultation welcomes responses from anyone interested or involved in research and innovation, either as an individual, organisation or group to inform the refinement of the strategy and development of future action plans and measures. We expect to publish our first edition of the strategy in summer 2022.

For further information, see EDI strategy – UKRI

2. Aims and Objectives of the Project

Overall aim / objectives

Responses to the consultation are submitted through the UKRI Engagement Hub (link) but can also provide feedback via an email address if required.

The overall aim of this ITT (Invitation to Tender) is to commission an analysis of the responses to the UKRI EDI Strategy public consultation.

Impact of this commission

The consultation is an essential component of the development of UKRI's EDI Strategy. The draft EDI Strategy does not attempt to set out in detail all the actions we will take to bring about change. It is a framework that anchors and supports EDI action plans across UKRI. The input to this consultation will inform the development of these plans.

The EDI Strategy builds on knowledge, research, data, and expertise from UKRI and the research and innovation sector. It builds on long-term and extensive cross-sector engagement with people and organisations that are essential for sustainable transformation of the research and innovation system. The consultation provides an opportunity for stakeholders to comment on and identify proposed approaches and actions, and areas for partnership working. The outcome of the consultation, and specifically the analysis from this commission, will inform the refinement of the EDI strategy and the development of UKRI's EDI action plans.

The detailed outcomes from the consultation will be shared and used within UKRI. A summary of the analysis of the consultation responses will be made public by UKRI.

Purpose

The purpose of this commission is to analyse all the responses to the UKRI EDI Strategy public consultation and report the outcomes to UKRI.

UKRI is not seeking consultants to undertake any consultation or engagement with stakeholders, nor is it seeking policy recommendations based on the results. It requires that the consultation responses are analysed, structured, and summarised in a clear and impartial manner.

The analysis needs to be comprehensive and impartial, giving consideration to all responses and ensure the outcome is structured in a useful and meaningful sense. The analysis needs to draw out evidence, issues and views raised and to provide themes / groupings. Whilst the consultation does not request evidence to be provided, there is an opportunity for stakeholders to provide supplementary information / evidence. The chosen contractor must be able to assess and analyse this variety of outputs using mixed capture methods.

UKRI expects to publish the first edition of its EDI Strategy in Summer 2022. At the start of the contract, a brief review will be undertaken of the consultation responses to better understand the number received and their general sentiment. This information will then be used to inform the amount of time and / or amount of resource needed to review the responses and how this information will be used to support meeting the target publication date. To ensure a clear understanding of progress throughout this commission, the contractor will work with a UKRI designated team to refine the approach and present findings at crucial points (the proposed dates are described in more detail below).

The consultation document and full list of questions will be provided as supplementary documents to the Invitation To Tender pack.

The following are the primary questions within the consultation (N.B. the question responses are in the form of free text boxes and Likert scale responses):

Accessibility of the draft UKRI EDI strategy

- As a document, how accessible is the draft EDI strategy?
- Are there any further comments you would like to provide on the accessibility of the EDI strategy?
- Did you use assistive technology to read the EDI strategy?

EDI strategy: Our ambition

- Is the EDI strategy's proposed ambition clear?
- What do you like most about the EDI strategy's proposed ambition?
- How do you think the EDI strategy's proposed ambition could be improved? Are there any significant gaps?

EDI strategy: Our cornerstones for change

- Thinking about UKRI today, how well is UKRI exhibiting the behaviours set out in the cornerstones?

- Cornerstone 1: We will foster an inclusive, equitable, just, and diverse research and innovation system by championing and focusing on systemic and structural change.
- Cornerstone 2: We will be open, transparent, and inclusive in our approaches by listening, influencing, and working in partnership.
- Cornerstone 3: We are committed to leading, taking action and being innovative. We will use evidence, data and learning from ourselves and others to inform our actions and how we work.
- Cornerstone 4: We expect every individual in UKRI to be inclusive in all that they do, and we will hold ourselves to account for our actions as individuals, as leaders, partners and as an organisation.

EDI strategy: Strategic objectives

- Are the proposed EDI strategic objectives clear?
- For each strategic objectives:
 - What do you like most about this proposed objective?
 - How do you think this proposed objective could be improved? Are there any significant gaps?
 - What opportunities can you see for you or your organisation to work with UKRI in achieving this proposed objective?

There is no expected number of responses. A low estimate is 300 responses and an upper estimate is 2000 responses. Consultants are requested to provide a series of prices for the contract, depending on the eventual number of responses received. For example, provide a cost model based on 50 responses, the price quoted being multiplied up or down depending on the number of consultation responses received.

We expect consultation responses from individuals, organisations, and subgroups, such as departments, institutes, and teams within organisations. Stakeholder groups we anticipate responses from include, but are not limited to, UKRI staff, those in higher education institutions and institutes, innovative businesses, investors, not-for-profit organisations, policy makers, those in the education system and civil society.

Objectives

UKRI seeks to commission consultants to:

- conduct an objective and comprehensive quantitative and qualitative analysis of all responses to the consultation (N.B. the commission consultants will need to present clear methodologies within their bid of how they will do this and provide a series of prices for the contract, depending on the eventual number of responses.)
- generate a coding process / methodology approach that can be used to catalogue each response from the consultation
- associated meta data e.g., for specific themes, including the frequency and categories of responses expressing those views.
- communicate the outcomes of the analysis via slide decks, written reports and meetings as specified under the “Deliverables” section below (N.B. it is important that when summarising outputs that the richness of the response data is captured).

Specifically, the consultants are expected to:

- clean and organise the data into an accessible and organised dataset
- identify and categorise themes, focus areas or questions
- carry out any quantitative analysis
- carry out any qualitative analysis
- identify differences in response patterns between key stakeholder groups / demographic groups etc, where that stakeholder information is available (e.g., UKRI staff, Higher Education Institution (HEI), other educational setting, Business, Charity, Third Sector, Public sector body, Trade union, Representative group or collective, Other, etc)

The supplier is expected to engage closely with UKRI staff throughout the process.

- The supplier will regularly update, (i.e., at least on a weekly basis), the UKRI designated team
- The supplier will update the UKRI EDI Strategy Steering Group, as set out in the milestones and deliverables
- Close engagement will be required particularly during the initial review of the consultation responses and the generation of the coding table (or equivalent) to catalogue the feedback. For example, the UKRI designated team will be able to provide additional context to the EDI strategy areas being considered and will be able to answer questions on specific topics should they arise. Bidders are welcome, but not expected, to suggest other ways in which this support might aid the project.
- Close engagement will also help manage expectations and workloads / deliverables and ensure that UKRI is obtaining the most out of the analysis and value for money.

An outline proposed timeline and ways of working is set out under “Suggested Methodology”. However, UKRI welcomes suggestions in proposals for effective and efficient ways of working with UKRI on this project.

3. Suggested Methodology
If applicable: Total number of Participants (experimental design) Total number of Interviews (survey) Total number of Interviews (qualitative) Total number of Focus Groups Total number of Case Studies	Insert numbers: 0 0 0 0 0
Any other specific requirements	The purpose of this commission is to read and analyse all the responses to the UKRI EDI Strategy public consultation and report the outcomes to UKRI. UKRI will not know how many responses will be submitted until the close of the consultation. A low estimate is 300 responses and an upper estimate is 2000 responses.
Indicative work plan A proposed approach to delivery and ways of working is set out below at a high level. UKRI invites prospective suppliers to set out their detailed methodology.
Data UKRI will provide the survey responses in the form of a csv file that is exported from the UKRI Engagement Hub tool ('Citizen Space'). Questions are asked in the form of Likert scale and other multiple-choice questions, matrices, and open text boxes.
Consultants are expected to store and handle the dataset according to the appropriate data security standards. A data protection and handling agreement will be included in the contract.
Key dates/milestones:
Preparation (week commencing 9th May 2022) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Kick off meeting (in person at UKRI offices in London or Swindon, or via video conference) with the UKRI designated team to agree approach for phase 1 analysis and to brief consultants on EDI Strategy consultation areas.

- Consultants are expected to familiarise themselves with UKRI's EDI work, whilst ideally already having expertise working across the various areas associated with EDI and understanding the complexities and impacts.
- UKRI to share consultation responses with consultants after removing, where necessary, any potentially personal information from responses to background information questions.

Phase 1: Preliminary analysis (circa 16th May – 3rd June 2022)

- Consultant to conduct initial review of the data supplied by UKRI and seek clarification where necessary from UKRI.
- Consultant to develop the catalogue methodology / coding book for qualitative analysis and agree approach with UKRI. Consultants will work with UKRI SMEs to obtain clarification on cataloguing / coding. UKRI will provide sign-off regarding the coding to be used.
- Consultants will then begin cataloguing / coding each response with this agreed approach.
- Consultants will provide a preliminary document with a short slide deck presenting output from catalogue / coding analysis of the consultation responses.

Key outputs:

- 3rd June 2022: Consultant to provide a preliminary document with a short slide deck presenting output from the cataloguing / coding analysis of the consultation responses.

Phase 2: Full analysis (circa 6th June – 8th July 2022)

- Conduct full, in-depth quantitative and qualitative analysis, whilst providing on-going weekly updates along with an interim summary of results.
- The latest version of the coded response data will also be provided in an appropriate format.

Phase 3: Final analysis refinement and reporting (circa 11th July – 29th July 2022)

- Consultants to deliver final report and final PowerPoint slides.
- The final version of the coded response data will also be provided in an appropriate format.

Methodology

UKRI asks potential suppliers to describe their suggested methodology in detail, including their quality assurance process (to ensure consistent cataloguing / coding), risk management approach and project management approach.

Ways of working

It is assumed that the services will be performed at the consultant's agreed place of work. Meetings will be held with UKRI at a mutually agreed location or by video-conference.

We expect the consultants to coordinate closely with the UKRI designated team throughout the project. Over phases one and two, UKRI anticipates that as a minimum weekly meetings via video conference will be required between the consultant and the UKRI designated team.

The UKRI designated team will provide support on the subtopics of the consultation and to ensure coordinated working across the material and shared understanding of the significant issues that need exploring. These individuals can also provide advice on specialist areas, particularly in relation to questions and issues that might arise during the cataloguing / coding analysis process. Contact would occur via email / telephone / video calling via regular and ad hoc discussions.

Proposed meeting arrangements

- Project kick-off meeting at start of contract to discuss draft project plan provided by consultants and discuss the brief and draft code book provided by UKRI.
- Regular updates on emerging findings and project progress at meetings with the UKRI designated team. Depending on the phase of the project, meetings would be expected at least weekly via tele/video conference (and in-person where practical).

Procurement principles

The following procurement principles have been identified to help potential bidders to understand important elements that need to be demonstrated within their submission. These principles should be considered and proportionate with the five criteria, and associated weightings, within 'Section 5 – Evaluation of bids' of this document.

The five scoring criteria comprise: 1. price, 2. approach, 3. staff to deliver, 4. understanding the environment and demonstration of how the bidder aligns with UKRI's approach to and ambition for diversity and inclusion, 5. project plan, timescales and 6. risk management.

4. Deliverables

- 3rd June 2022: Preliminary document with a short slide deck presenting output from the cataloguing / coding analysis of the consultation responses
- 24th June 2022: PowerPoint slides summarising initial quantitative analysis of responses and breakdown of respondents
- 8th July 2022: Interim report presenting summary of results, along with the latest data mapped against the agreed catalogue / coding approach. This interim report should include general findings and stakeholder variation, including which areas were positively / negatively received or received mixed responses and most / least commented on. This interim report will be important for the refinement of the EDI Strategy itself.
- 15th July 2022: Draft final report including the latest data mapped against the agreed catalogue / coding approach
- 29nd July 2022: Final report, slides and final data mapped against the agreed catalogue / coding approach. Quality assured final report in Word format (electronic copy) setting out the findings and methodology. This should include information on each question, including graphs where relevant. The report will need to be written on the assumption that it will be shared publicly.

UKRI would hold the copyright and reuse rights for the report and accompanying outputs.
